We have reason to believe that our grandfather, James Louis Alvey, attended Saint Mary's College there. However our Library says it is no longer listed there. I am hoping you may be able to help us. He would have attended sometime between 1868 and 1875 we believe. Can you help us to locate these records. He was born near Terre Haute Indiana but returned to Kentucky to attend College, staying with relatives there but we do not know their names.

Any help you may be able to give us will be greatly appreciated.

sincerely,

Louisville's Gambling King, Marion County Native, Dies

(Editor's Note: The following article concerning the death of Ed Alvey, king of Louisville gamblers, who originally made his home in Marion County, is reprinted from the Louisville Times.)

A half-century gambling career marked by frequent skirmishes with the law, clashes with other gaming interests, and once with kidnapers, ended when death won the last bet from Ed Alvey, 70, Louisville's "King of Gamblers," Friday night at St. Joseph's Infirmary. Almost blind, he was moved January 16 to the hospital from his home, 1719 South Fourth, suffering from an abdominal disorder and diabetes.

Death "broke the bank," a feat no bettor had been able to accomplish since a day in the late '80's when a green Marion County boy came in from the hills between Loretto and Holy Cross to start a poker game in the back room of a Lebanon saloon. Alvey there laid the foundation for a life of chances which, friends estimated, caused millions to flow through his various card and dice games and handbooks.

Stories Of Wealth Vary

His personal wealth, never discussed by him, was at times variously estimated from "broke" to a million.

Alvey's judgment of men and affairs not only shielded him in his gambling operations, but sharpened a native political shrewdness. As Alvey bet, so went elections with surprising regularity.

His knowledge of schoolbooks was limited, and he wasn't a hand at figuring with pencil and paper, but the gambler's mental arithmetic was admired by those who observed the rapidity with which he answered problems in racing odds or at cards. He could tell at a glance at the board if the odds on horses were "dutch,"

Kingston poolroom on Market, near Third. Success was uninterrupted until all poolrooms were chased from the business district.

After the showdown came and Alvey had to close his Market Street place he opened a barn-sized poolroom near Churchill Downs, outside Louisville. The place ran without much interference until in 1907 young Sheriff A. Scott Bullitt raided "Ponyville," the section around the track. The raids were a blow, but not a fatal one to handbooks. They scattered over the city in cigar stores, saloons and restaurants.

In December, 1933, Detective Chief E. A. Larkin led a raid on what he termed the "biggest handbook headquarters in Louisville" in the Tyler Building. It was Alvey's. By that time Alvey was taking bets from all parts of the United States and some from foreign countries. Detectives got his books and from them learned he had an income in 1922 of more than $63,000. The next year Alvey's headquarters in the Louisville Hotel were raided, resulting in five arrests and $5.00 fines all 'round.

$50,000 Ransom Talked

The kidnaping racket, which G-men ruined in recent years, was beginning in 1928 when first victims were gamblers and operators in the "big easy money." In December of that year Alvey was reported kidnaped from his home and held for $50,000 ransom. Two days later he walked into the house saying he had paid no ransom, but that he didn't know where he had been because his abductors had sealed his eyes with tape. He had not been harmed.

Numerous civil actions by bettors to recoup losses were, in days past, brought against the gambler whose advice with close friends was "never

In Middlesboro During Boom

Leaving Lebanon with a small stake, young Alvey opened a saloon at Middlesboro during the boom.
After the bubble burst he came to Louisville with not much more than the clothes he wore, but did not stay "cleaned" long. A poker game in a basement on Fifth, between Green (now Liberty) and Walnut, with acquaintances from Marion County for sit-ins soon produced a heated heater that was not long hatching.
Within ten years he had gained some distinction as a gambler who would "fade all bets."

Alvey once heard a prison sentence read to him, but got no nearer a cell than the jail doors. There a pardon, freed him. The gambler always maintained he had been framed before conviction.

that no one remembers funerals were not preached before the burial they were often preached some weeks, or perhaps months afterwards. This was especially common among the colored people and, as I remember it, the day was often made an occasion for a general good time.

So far as my observation goes this has all passed away in this section, even among the colored people.

In those days, as I remember now, there were no flowers for the coffin or the grave of the departed to delight the sensibilities of the optic nerve or to stimulate the pleasures of the olfactory nerve—one could not see their loveliness and beauty and the other could not inhale their fragrance, and in a few hours these flowers would wilt and fade away.
But now, while nature has not changed so far as the dead or the flowers are concerned, we see loads of beautiful and expensive flowers—and this tendency has grown till it has become embarrassing to the feeling or finances, and sometimes to both, to the friends of the departed.
I wonder if this, like the delayed funeral, will pass away and that future generations will look back on this custom as a foolish fad.

There seems to be another tendency in regard to funerals, and that is to shorten their length and to cut out the praise of the departed. This seems to be altogether commendable, and is most certainly calculated to take a strain off the efforts of the minister who generally doesn't know the virtues and short comings of the deceased as well as most of the congregation; besides no word that he could say in the way of praise or condemnation could change the state of the departed when he appears

There seems to be another tendency which to me should be encouraged, and that is to limit funeral services to the reading of a selection from the Scriptures and a prayer at the home or at the grave, omitting the biography—such as date of birth, date of uniting with church, date of marriage and the names of the family. Another thing that seems to be growing is leaving off sorrowful or other songs in the service. It seems that any man who would feel like singing or hearing singing at his wife's funeral must have had a very unhappy married life, and the same would apply to the wife; hence, I think the tendency is in the sensible and therefore the right direction.

A Catholic Community

According to family genealogists, John and Robert Alvey, sons of Leonard Alvey, loaded all their possessions on a flatboat near Louisville and headed down the Ohio River, settling in a portion of Henderson County that soon after (in 1811) became Union County.

An early atlas of Union County recorded that the local Catholic church, Sacred Heart, was founded about 1805 by several families from "then Washington (now Marion) county, Ky.," whose ancestors had come from Maryland.

many land grants and became quite a wealthy landowner after he came to Kentucky. He married Susannah "Susan" Kitchen (b. 17 February 1765, d. 27 September 1842, Union County, Ky.) on 22 October 1782 in Prince William County, Va. She was buried in Sacred Heart Catholic Cemetery in Union County.

Robert and his brother John loaded all their possessions on a flatboat near Louisville and headed down the river, settling in a portion of Henderson County that soon after (in 1811) became Union County.

Robert and Susan were the parents of Susannah K. (b. about 1785, Md.), James (b. about 1787, Ky.), Mary "Polly" (b. about 1788, m. 1. Richard Roach, 2. Patrick Savage),<sup>25</sup> Joseph James (b. 1793, Washington County, Ky.), Elizabeth (b. about 1800, Washington County, Ky., m. Morris Downes),<sup>26</sup> Jane S. (b. about 1802, Ky., m. Thomas Morris),<sup>27</sup> Arthur (b. October 1803, Washington County, Ky., d. 30 December 1833, Union County), Treacy K. (b. 24 February 1807, Ky., d. 11 September 1859, Grayson County, Ky.), and Louisa (b. after 1810).

INDEX TO NECROLOGY IN ANNUAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE KENTUCKY STATE BAR ASSOCIATION, 1902-42

By Kurt X. Metzmeier

The present Kentucky Bar Association dates back to 1900 when a group of Louisville and northern Kentucky lawyers combined efforts to create a unified statewide organization. Among the bodies created at the first meeting of the new Kentucky State Bar Association was a Committee on Necrology, which was charged with honoring the members who had died during the year with biographical tributes. From the beginning of the annual publication of the bar association's Proceedings in 1902 until 1942, these brief biographies recorded the lives on both the famous and obscure, creating a rich resource of information about the Kentucky lawyers at the turn and the early part of the 20th century.

THE ALVEY FAMILY OF ENGLAND, MARYLAND, AND KENTUCKY

By Robert Lee Alvey Sr.

Part Two

Jesse Alvey and his descendants

Though he lived his entire life in Maryland, almost all of Jesse Alvey's children left St. Mary's County, Md., for Kentucky. Alvey's descendants settled first in the portion of Washington County, Ky., that later became Marion County. Though a few found their way elsewhere, Jesse's descendants generally moved on to Hardin County (where many descendants live today) or to Ohio, McLean, or Daviess counties. One other destination was Jefferson County and the city of Louisville, where many rural Alveys moved in the 1880-1920 period when industrialization brought millions to the economic opportunities of American cities.

Jesse Alvey (b. about 1730, St. Mary's County, Md., d. 1803, St. Mary's County, Md.) was a son of John Alvey and Mary Clarke and a great-grandson of Joseph Alvey, who immigrated from Knotting, Bedfordshire, England, to America in 1657.<sup>1</sup>

Jesse Alvey died between 10 January 1803, when he signed his will, and 7 February, when the will was presented in court by his executor. His bequests, in order, were: Grandson James Alvey, "one horse colt called Prince"; grandson Charles Alvey, "one colt called Fox"; "my daughter" Elizabeth Alvey, "one mare and colt her single life"; "my daughter"

Elizabeth Alvey, "the best feather bed and furniture forever"; "also to my daughter Elizabeth Alvey the next best bed her single life"; "My other three children," ("Benedict Alvey, Ann Alvey and Catherine") one shilling sterling; and granddaughter Mary Alvey, one cow and calf. The remainder was to be equally divided between "my son John and my daughter Elizabeth Alvey." Elizabeth Alvey was appointed executor. Witnesses were George Booth, John Branson, and Zephaniah Gardiner.

Jesse Alvey lived during a period of much change in lifestyle and religion. The religious freedom that many Catholic immigrants had sought and found in Maryland had all but evaporated by the time of the Revolutionary War. In fact, Catholics were required to hide their religion and join Protestant churches. They had lost the right to vote or even to own property.

At about the end of the war, about 60 Maryland Catholic families formed what became known as the Maryland League, to manage a move to Kentucky. Basil Hayden led the first group from St. Mary's, Charles, and Prince George counties to his settlement on Pottinger's Creek, in present-day northwestern Marion County, in 1785. The name Alvey is included in lists of the earliest Catholic settlers, and Jesse's cousins John and Robert Alvey appear on the 1785 list of Nelson County tithables. His cousin Thomas Green Alvey appears for the first time in 1787, the year Thomas Hill and Philip Miles led the league's third group to the frontier.<sup>2</sup>

Bennett/Benedict Alvey was the first of Jesse Alvey's children to head for Kentucky. He brought his wife Mary and their children Henry and Susannah to Washington County by 1799.<sup>3</sup>

Henry and Catherine Alvey's tombstones in St. Alphonsus Catholic Cemetery in Daviess County. During his lifetime, Alvey lived in St. Mary's County, Md., and Washington, Marion, Hardin, and Daviess counties in Kentucky. Catherine "Kitty" (Lanham) Alvey, a daughter of Osborn Lanham Sr. and Rachel Elizabeth Hess, was Henry Alvey's third wife and the mother of six of his children.

Mary Ann Brawney, on 15 April 1816 in Hardin County, Ky.<sup>9</sup>

Though he appeared on the 1816 and 1820 Washington County tax lists (with one horse or mare), Henry had moved to the Rineyville area of Hardin County by about 1812. He was one of the first members of St. John the Baptist Church there.<sup>10</sup>

Henry and Rachel had seven children from 1817 to 1828. They were John Valentine (b. about 1817, Washington County, d. circa 1880, Daviess or McLean County, m. 1. Martha Summers, 2. Ann Raney, 3. Rebecca ____, 4. Elizabeth Ann Head, 5. Henrietta Henning), Susannah Mary (b. 6 July 1818, Washington County, d. 23 July 1874, Daviess County, m. John Benedict Hardesty), Henry Jr. (b. 2 August 1822, Washington County, d. 6 July 1918, Daviess County, m. 1. Anna Survilla Warren, 2. Isabel Teresa "Bell" Thompson), Richard Lee (b. 25 October 1824, Washington County, d. 24 January 1916, 1. Sarah M. "Sallie" Hinton, 2. Nancy Mattingly), William Madison "Mat" (b. 1825, Washington County, m. 1. Eliza Jane Brown, 2. Sarah Ellen "Ella" Troutman), Jerome A. "Jerry" Alvey (b. 20 July 1827, Hardin County, d. 15 March 1920, Daviess County, m. Frances Catherine Fuqua), and Sarah Elizabeth (b. 13 January 1828, Hardin County, d. 6

1871 in Daviess County, Ky.

The couple had three children, two of whom died young and were buried in the old St. Raphael Catholic Cemetery in Daviess County, Ky. However, their son Mathais Alberta "Allie" Alvey lived to a ripe old age and his descendants are still well represented in Daviess County, Ky.

John and Elizabeth's children, all born in Daviess County, Ky., were Charles Melvin (b. 28 June 1872, d. 20 December 1872, Daviess County),<sup>14</sup> Mathias Alberta "Allie" Alvey (b. 9 October 1873, d. 27 February 1958, Daviess County, m. Mary Joseph "Josie" Clark),<sup>15</sup> and Jerome (b., d. 3 September 1877).<sup>16</sup>

After Elizabeth's death and shortly before his own, Alvey married for a sixth time, to Henrietta Henning (b. 1827, Ky., d. before July 1880, Daviess or McLean counties), widow of Isaac Towery, in McLean County on 2 February 1880 at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church in Daviess County, Ky.

Susannah Mary Alvey

Susannah Mary Alvey (b. 6 July 1818, Washington County, d. 23 July 1874, Daviess County), a daughter of Henry Alvey and Rachel Summers, married John Benedict Hardesty on 4 April 1838 in Hardin County.<sup>17</sup>

Susannah and John's children were George Green (b. 25 January 1840, Marion County, d. 23 November 1887, Daviess County, m. Mary Jane Murphy), Mary Ann "Mollie" (b. March 1843, Ky., m. John Hilary O'Bryan), James (b. 1846, Ky.), Henry (b. 1849, Ky.), Sarah Elizabeth "Sally" (b. 2 March 1852, Daviess County, d. 21 June 1923, Daviess County, m. William Sylvester Bowling), Adeline "Lena" (b. 1853, Ky.), Nettie Jenette Hardesty (b. 23 December 1853, d. 3 February 1937, m. William Alfred Thomas), Katy J. (b. 20 March 1856, Daviess County, d. before 1870, Daviess County), W. Benjamin (b. 24 June 1859, Daviess County), and Emma B. (b. 1865, Ky., m. Robert Thomas).

Henry Alvey Jr.

Henry Alvey Jr. (b. 2 August 1822, Washington County, d. 6 July 1918, McLean County), a son of Henry Alvey Sr. and Rachel Summers), married Anna Survilla Warren, a daughter of John Warren and Mary Ann Lanham, about 1848, probably in Marion County.

Henry and Anna moved from Marion County to Meade County after October 1849, before joining their Alvey relatives in Daviess and McLean counties. They had five children: John Henry (b. 29 October 1849, Marion County, Ky., m. Sarah Ann "Sallie" Demarest), Mary Louisa "Mollie" (b. 20 July 1851, Marion County, d. 19 May 1925, Daviess County, m. Ignatius Simm Cooper),<sup>18</sup> James W. (b. about 1855, Ky., d. about 1876, McLean County), George W. (b. 1 March 1856, Daviess County, d. 5 September 1859, Daviess County), and Delphania Elizabeth (b. 20 June 1859, McLean County, d. 4 August 1945, Chicago, Cook County, Ill., m. Pius Edward Franklin "Francis" Thompson).<sup>19</sup>

Anna is thought to have died about 1865, but no record of her birth or burial has been found. After her death, Henry married Isabel Teresa "Bell" Thompson, a daughter of Jerome Austin Thompson and Mary Jane Carrico, on 28 March 1870 in McLean County. Bell was a sister of Henry's son-in-law Francis Thompson.

Henry and Bell's children, all born in McLean County, were William Eugene "Will" (b. 25 December 1871, d. 5 July 1945, Ballard County, m. Sarah "Sallie" Davis),<sup>20</sup> Steven Austin (b. 2 November 1872, d. 22 December 1943, Oklahoma City, Okla., m. Susan Addie Cox),<sup>21</sup> Mary Anna "Anner" (3 December 1874, d. 30 June 1953, McCracken County, m. Thomas Overton Dees),<sup>22</sup> Charles Volk (b. 8 February 1877, McLean County, d. 20 September 1967, Daviess County, m. Mary Delores Hayden),<sup>23</sup> Mary Lawrence (b. 10 August 1880, d. 4 August 1898, McLean County), Gertrude (b. 12 January 1882, d. 17 August 1976, Owensboro, Daviess County, m. Earl Sigler),<sup>24</sup> Myrtle Elizabeth (b. September 1885, d. 1898, McLean County), Franklin Albert "Bert" (b. 7 September 1887, d. 27 July 1906, Benton, Marshall County), Joseph Vincent "Jake" (b. 16 December 1890, d. 26 May 1979, Detroit, Wayne facts on William Madison and Sarah Ellen Troutman. I lost them after 1880 census and have not uncovered any information that leads to their whereabouts when they died or where they might be buried.

The children of Mat and Sarah were Mary Belle "Mollie" (b. 3 April 1873, Daviess County, d. 4 September 1940, Daviess County, m. John Wilburn Brand),<sup>35</sup> Dolores (b. 1875, Ky., 5 August 1938, Evansville, Vanderburgh County, Ind.), Rosa Alma (b. 16 January 1877, Daviess County, d. before 1880), Mary Agnita "Birdie" (b. 9 April 1878, Daviess County, m. 1. ____ Roark, 2. James Gatton, 3. John Joseph Norris), Mary C. (b. 4 August 1881, Owensboro, Daviess County, m. Themetrear Stafapolos), and William Hardin (b. 20 December 1888, Daviess County, d. 14 June 1912, Daviess County, m. Emma Brown).<sup>36</sup>

Some members of this family lived and died in Evansville, Ind., and maybe a more complete search might turn something up. Descendants from both marriages, however, still live in the Daviess County, Ky., area today.

Jerome A. Alvey

Jerome Alvey (b. 20 July 1827, Hardin County, d. 15 March 1920, Daviess County), a son of Henry Alvey Sr. and Rachel Summers, married Frances Catherine Fuqua (d. between 1900 and 1910), a daughter of Samuel Fuqua and Nancy Wells, on 6 August 1853 in Daviess County.

Jerome and Frances' children were William Henry (b. 28 April 1853, Daviess County, d. 23 September 1918, Evansville, Vanderburgh County, Ind., m. Susan Isabelle Coomes),<sup>37</sup> Richard Samuel (b. September 1854, Daviess County, d. 1904, Daviess County, m. Catherine "Kitty" Ellen Lake),<sup>38</sup> James Perry (b. 19 March 1856, Whitesville, Daviess County, d. 15 February 1935, Daviess County, m. Mariah Jane Wedding),<sup>39</sup> Nancy E. (b. 10 July 1857, Daviess County, d. before 1860, Daviess County), John Colamine (b. 7 November 1858, Ohio County, d. 4 June 1937, Daviess County, m. Margaret Elizabeth "Bettie" Coleman),<sup>40</sup> Mary Susan (b. 19 May 1862, Ohio County, d. 26 March 1942, Daviess County, m.

Robert Comet Carden),<sup>41</sup> George P. (b. 18 December 1862, Daviess County, d. 12 March 1920, in Daviess County, m. Annie S. "Emma" Arnold), Eliza Jane "Lizzie" (b. May 1864, Daviess County, m. Will Reynolds), Larinda "Laura/Rena" Frances (b. 31 July 1865, Daviess County, d. 11 October 1951, Daviess County, m. James N. Gill),<sup>42</sup> Smith M. (b. 26 January 1867, Daviess County, d. 29 May 1943, Daviess County, m. 1. Charlotte Arnold, 2. Tallie Mead Bateman, 3. Nettie May Vanover),<sup>43</sup> Sarah C. (b. April 1869, Daviess County, d. after 1900, m. Richard B. Burdette), Jerome Allen Alvey (b. 31 March 1873, Daviess County, d. 27 August 1950, Daviess County, m. Mildred "Minnie" Elizabeth Poole),<sup>44</sup> and Daniel Albert (b. 1878, Daviess County, d. after 1907, m. Cora James).

Frances died sometime between the 1900 and 1910 census, but I am not sure where or where she is buried. When Jerome died on 15 March 1920 in Daviess County, his obituary in the Owensboro Messenger stated that he was survived by 14 children and 84 grandchildren. I only know of 13 of the 14 children. The obituary is somewhat in question, and it also states he was born in Marion County, which did not exist in 1827 but was very close to Hardin County. I often wonder if I have Jerome with the wrong parents even though all evidence points in that direction. Almost all the Alveys that settled in Daviess County were Catholics, but by the time Jerome died he was buried in the Mt. Zion Methodist Cemetery in Owensboro. Some of the couple's children are buried in Mt. Zion, while many others are in St. Joseph Catholic Cemetery in Evansville or Mater Dolorosa Catholic Cemetery in Owensboro.

consented to her son Benedict's marriage on 6 January 1847.

It is believed that James and Susannah are buried on their farm, but no tombstone or death record has been found. Since they lived in the vicinity of St. Clare Catholic Church and cemetery, it's possible they might be there, but with no legible tombstone.

After James died in 1845, his family moved closer to Elizabethtown and Rineyville. Many family members are buried in either St. John the Baptist Catholic Cemetery in the St. John community of Hardin County or St. James Catholic Cemetery in Elizabethtown. All were farmers for most of their lives. Around the turn of the 20th century, descendants began migrating north to Louisville and for Michigan, Colorado, and California to follow new job markets opening up in those states.

Susannah and James' children were Mary Magdalen (b. 1817, Washington County, d. after 1870, probably in Harrison County, Ind., m. Benjamin S. Thornberry), Matilda Caroline (b. 1820 Washington County, m. 1. Henry Frances Cole, 2. Raymond French), Catherine (b. 1822, Washington County d. 10 January 1871 Hardin County), James III (b. 1824, Washington County, d. before 1890, Hardin County, m. 1. Mary A. Cole, 2. Elizabeth Brewer), Benedict (b. 15 March 1827, Washington County, d. 21 April 1901, Hardin County, m. Agatha Jane Cole), and Martha Ann (b. 10 November 1829, Hardin County, d. after 1880, m. Robert Simpson).

The Alvey Family of England, Maryland, and Kentucky

By Robert Lee Alvey Sr.

Part Four

John Henry "Old John" Alvey Sr. and his descendants

Parts One through Three of this series brought the Alvey family forward in time from Generation One; Arthur Alvey in England of about 1550 through the son of Jesse Alvey, Benedict Alvey and his two children, Henry and Susannah. Part Three included the known information on Susannah's descendants after her marriage to her first cousin James Alvey, also a grandchild of Jesse Alvey. The Alvey family saga now continues with a third son of Jesse Alvey, John Henry Alvey Sr., often labeled "Old John" Alvey Sr.<sup>1</sup> This John Alvey was most likely Jesse's oldest son, already established with a wife and daughter in the 1790 St Mary's County, Md., census. John Henry Sr., along with the family of his deceased brother James Alvey, came to Washington County, Ky., sometime around 1806-1807, a few years after his father's death in St Mary's County in 1803. Both John and his sister-in-law Elizabeth "Betsy" Alvey were shown on the 1807 tax lists of Washington County and were included in that county's 1810 census. Some years later, in 1834, the portion of Washington County where the Alveys settled became part of what is know today as Raywick, Loretto and Chicago (now St Francis) in Marion County. While this branch of the Alvey family moved around substantially in later years, there are still many descendants of John Henry in Marion County. A devout Catholic family when they arrived from Maryland in 1806, the vast majority of this family remains with the Catholic faith today. The church registers and cemeteries of St Francis Assisi in St. Francis, Ky., St. Francis Xavier in Raywick, Ky., Holy Name of Mary in Calvary, Ky., St. Augustine in Lebanon, Ky., St. Charles in St. Mary's, Ky., all of Marion County and St. Rose in Springfield of Washington County have long lists of the Alvey family descendants. The John Henry Alvey family started as did most families of this area, especially the Catholic families that migrated from Maryland, as farmers. As times changed, the family adjusted and many became blacksmiths, carpenters, tavern owners, and even county employees such as jailers and county office workers. Besides populating the local countryside, this family has members from California to Maine who still visit their cousins in Loretto, Lebanon, and Raywick. Many reside in Louisville, Evansville, and Indianapolis, but still call Marion County, Ky., their home.<sup>2</sup>

Generation Seven

John Henry "Old John" Alvey, Sr

John Henry "Old John" Alvey (b. about 1757, St. Mary's County, Md., d. before 1850, probably in Marion County, Ky.), a son of Jesse Alvey and Emerentia ____, married Elizabeth Williams (b. about 1762, Md., d. before 1850, probably in Marion County, Ky.) on 13 November 1776 in Maryland. This date may be too early as I have found no marriage record in St Mary's County, Md., and it seems no children were born prior to 1787.<sup>3</sup>

John Henry and Elizabeth were the parents of Mary (b. 4 February 1787, St. Mary's County, Md., d. 3 August 1821, Marion County, Ky.), Peregrine "Perry" (b. 1789 St. Mary's County, Md., d. before 1827, Washington County, Ky.), Treacy (b. 1792, Md.), Stephen (b. 1795, St. Mary's County, Md.), Jeremiah "Jerry" Alvey (b. 1797, St. Mary's County, Md., d. 22 September 1872, Raywick, Marion County, Ky.), Jesse (b. 1799, St. Mary's County, Md., d. about 1847, Marion County, Ky.), Ann "Nancy" (b. 1800, St. Mary's County, Md.), John Henry Jr. (b. 1802, St. Mary's County, Md., d. after 1830, probably in Washington County, Ky.), Jane (b. 27 September 1803, Washington County, Ky., d. 15 November 1873, Marion County, Ky.), Catherine (b. about 1804, Washington County, Ky.), male child (b. about 1806), and male child (b. about 1810).

John and Elizabeth are thought to have had at least the 12 children listed above, but little is know of five of them. Treacy was living with her sister in the 1850 Marion County census; Steven had died before the 1810 census; and Catherine and the two unknown

Nancy Alvey (b. about 1800, St. Mary's County, Md., d. after 1850), a daughter of John Henry Alvey and Elizabeth Williams, married Richard Lyons (b. about 1800, St. Mary's County, Md.) on 23 December 1820 in Washington County, Ky.<sup>11</sup>

Tombstone of Sarah A. Blair (b. April 1795, d. 27 February 1882), wife of Jesse Alvey Sr. Sarah and Jesse were buried in St. Francis Assisi Catholic Cemetery in Marion County.

Nancy and Richard's five children were James Harrison (b. 1822, Ky., d. 1 May 1899, Marion County, m. # Library & Special Collections

Thousands of researchers blaze their own trail through the historic landscape each year with the assistance of the Society's research facilities. Here genealogists can trace an ancestor's path aided by family histories, census, church, and cemetery records, family Bibles, and land ownership and military service records.

In addition, the Society's Special Collections house hundreds of thousands of manuscripts, photographs, maps, rare books, oral histories, pioneer accounts, diaries, albums, personal recollections, and more—all helping researchers come face-to-face with Kentucky's distinctive heritage.

Publications

The Society publishes books and periodicals that meet the needs of genealogists, historians, and scholars alike. The publications program produces two quarterlies: The Register, a journal of scholarly research in Kentucky history, and Kentucky Ancestors, a genealogical magazine providing statewide coverage for family history researchers. The Society also publishes The Chronicle, a membership newsletter offering information on Society events, exhibits, and programs.

The Library and Special Collections facilities contain the stories of Kentuckians and their families, from the 1700s to the present. Researchers have access to hundreds of thousands of books, records, and photographs.

Education

Every year thousands of people travel to Frankfort from all across America for hands-on tours, interactive exhibits, touch carts, historic character reenactments, family workshops, theatrical presentations, symposia, and festivals that celebrate Kentucky's history. In addition, the education program offers Kentucky history curriculum materials to teachers for use in their classrooms. The Society's outreach programs help people from Ashland to Paducah discover Kentucky's unique past. These programs include the Kentucky Junior Historical Society, Museums To Go, and Historical Highway Markers. Grant and technical assistance activities sponsored by the Folklife, Local History, and Oral History programs give citizens the tools to document and present their own history.

Susan Mary Alvey

Susan Mary Alvey (b. 27 November 1826, Washington County, d. 9 December 1880, Marion County), a daughter of John Henry Alvey Jr. and Elizabeth "Betsy" Blair, married Bennett Alvey (b. 13 November 1826, Washington County), a son of Jesse Alvey Sr. and Sarah Ann "Sally" Blair, about 1850 in Marion County.

See the children of Susan and Bennett listed under the family of Bennett Alvey.

1 John Henry Alvey Sr. is mentioned as a son and heir in the 1803 St. Mary's County, Md., will of his father, Jesse Alvey. The name John Henry Sr. is based on the listing of his son John Henry Jr. as Henry Jr. in the 1823 Washington County tax list. Henry Alvey Jr.'s father was listed as John.

2 Father John Lyons, a Roman Catholic priest of the area from the 1950s through the 1970s, abstracted and compiled the registers of many churches in Washington and Marion counties. They included many Alveys and are in the libraries of the Filson Historical Society in Louisville and the Kentucky Historical Society in Frankfort.

3 The marriage date for John Henry Alvey Sr. and Elizabeth Williams was obtained from D.L. Downs, a direct descendant, based on his family lore. I have never been able to confirm or verify this date from any known record available in St. Mary's County, Md.

4 Mary Alvey Thompson was buried in St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Cemetery in St. Mary's, Marion County. For Mary and Charles' marriage record, see Margaret Clark

Alvey series author Robert Lee Alvey Sr. posed with Mary Catherine (Alvey) Jordan and Earl Alvey at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Cemetery, in Raywick, Marion County, in 1996. Mary Jordan lives in Louisville, Earl in Las Vegas, and Robert lives in Laguna Niguel, Calif. Jordan is a g-g-g-g-granddaughter of John Henry Alvey Sr., which makes her a first cousin several times removed to Robert and Earl.

The Alvey Family of England, Maryland and Kentucky

By Robert Lee Alvey Sr.

Part Five

Henry Alvey Sr. and his descendants

Part Two of this series focused on the descendants of Henry Alvey Sr. Because this family was so large, Part Two ended at Generation Nine. I would now like to continue to Generation 10 and some selected portions of his family for the next generation. Henry Alvey Sr. was a grandson of Jesse Alvey of St. Mary's County, Md. He came to Kentucky with his parents Bennett/Benedict and Mary Alvey and his sister Susannah about 1798. The family lived in Washington County, Ky., for a number of years before eventually moving to Hardin County, where Henry and Susannah lived with their respective families until the late 1840s. At that time, Henry sold his property in Hardin County and moved with his third wife and younger children to Daviess County. During the next several years, all but one of Henry Sr.'s adult children followed him to Daviess County. Nearly all the Alvey descendants living in Daviess, McLean, and Ohio counties of Kentucky today descend from Henry Alvey Sr. and one of his three wives, Rachel Summers, Anastasia Metcalf and Catherine "Kitty" Lanham. Many of the pictures included within this article were provided by Mrs. Nancy Louise Alvey Witmeyer of Los Angeles and Mrs. Melva Koerner Petway of Benton. We begin with Generation 10, please refer to Kentucky Ancestors, Volume 38, Number 3 for details leading up to the information included herein. The remainder of the descendants of Henry Alvey Sr. for Generation 10 will be presented in a continuation of this Part Five in this series in a future edition.<sup>1</sup>

The KENTUCKY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The KENTUCKY HISTORICAL SOCIETY, founded in 1836, has long been the state's storehouse of history. Today it is the home of the 167,000-square-foot Kentucky History Center in downtown Frankfort. The state-of-the-art facility, which opened in April 1999, is the centerpiece of a campus that offers numerous learning opportunities to students, historians, genealogists, and anyone else interested in Kentucky history.

Museums

The Kentucky Historical Society operates three unique sites in downtown Frankfort that tell the story of our state's history. At the Frankfort facilities and through the Society's outreach programs, the Kentucky story stirs the hearts of over a quarter-million people every year.

The Kentucky Military History Museum (left) houses a collection of artifacts from the state's martial past. It was built in 1850 as the state arsenal. Union and Confederate troops fought to control it during the Civil War. The Old State Capitol, (right) completed about 1830, is a gem of Greek Revival architecture. Designed by Gideon Shryock, it was the first state capitol of its type west of the Appalachian Mountains. It is today operated as a museum and is open for tours.

Kentucky History Center—Home to the Society, this building contains the state history museum, changing exhibit gallery, research library, gift shop, rental facility, and the Society's educational and publications programs.

Old State Capitol—Completed in 1830, this site is a national historic landmark. Its House and Senate chambers, graced by Kentucky paintings and sculpture, tell the story of state government in the commonwealth.

Kentucky Military History Museum—Two centuries of Kentucky's military heritage are traced through an extraordinary collection of weapons, uniforms, flags, and photographs. Housed in the 1850 Old State Arsenal, the museum operates in conjunction with the Kentucky Department of Military Affairs.

Pendleton County, Kentucky: Court of Quarter Sessions Minutes, 6 August 1799 to May 1808.

Transcribed by Janet K. Pease. (2004. Pp. 461. Indexed. Softcover, $25, plus $3.50 shipping and handling. Kentucky residents should add $1.50 in state sales tax. Order from the Grant County Historical Society, 12 Charlotte Heights, Williamstown, KY 41097.)

This work is a transcription of the original found in the Pendleton County Clerk's Office. The every-name index lists surnames of about 900 people, including many whose descendants live in Grant and Pendleton counties. Also included are definitions of legal terms to help explain early cases involving slander, trespass, unpaid debts, estate settlement disagreements and murder. Surnames include Ackels, Arnold, Barnes/Barns, Bennett/Colvin, Coppage/Copage, Doty, Downard, Earls, Ellis, Flournoy, Fewell/Fuell, Goodwin, Groshon, Hawkins, Hinkston, Indicut, Inlow, January, Jouet/Jouitt, Kennett/Kinnitt, Lanier, Lightfoot, McLaughlin, Mountjoy, Nichols, Norton, Ockeltree, Oens, Pickett/Picket, Quick, and Rice.

Abstracts of the Testamentary Proceedings of the Prerogative Court of Maryland. Volume 1: 1658-1674. (2004. Pp. 306. Indexed. Softcover, $29.50, plus $3.50 postage and handling. Order from the Clearfield Co. Inc., 200 Eager Street, Baltimore, MD 21202 or via the internet at: GenealogyBookShop.com.)

This work consists of abstracts of Prerogative Court of Maryland records for the period 1658 to 1674. The Prerogative Court was the focal point for probate for colonial Maryland. A judge and various clerks staffed the court. All matters of probate went directly to the Prerogative Court, which was located in the colonial capital. Eventually administration of probate was delegated to the several county courts; however, many documents related to probate continued to be filed at the Prerogative Court and not in the corresponding county. Skinner combed through administration bond, will, inventory, administration account, and final balance entries to produce this collection. The abstracts are arranged in chronological order by court session, and in every instance they give the names of the principals (testators, heirs, witnesses, administrators, and so forth). In many cases we also learn the details of bequests, names of slaves, appraisers, and more. In all, Mr. Skinner identifies some 6,000 17th-century Marylanders whose existence and activities would otherwise remain hidden in some rich but very obscure records.

This work is a compilation of all marriages recorded from 1634 to 1777 in church records and other documents at the Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore or the Hall of Records in Annapolis. The marriage records were extracted from parish records, ministers' returns of licenses, and printed sources, including the Maryland Historical Magazine and the Archives of Maryland, and refer to some 24,000 people. All marriages are arranged alphabetically by the name of the groom, following which are the date of marriage and the bride's name.

This work is a list of about 16,000 marriages recorded between 1778 and 1800 in church records and other contemporary documents. Arranged alphabetically by grooms' names, each entry lists the bride's name, the date, and sometimes parents' names and the source of information. A brides' index is also included.

Alvey-Hayden

The wedding of Miss Sallie Mae Alvey of this city and John B. Hayden of Calvary was solemnized Wednesday morning at 6:00 o'clock at St. Augustine's Church in this city with the Rev. Joseph W. Saffer, assistant pastor, performing the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The ceremony was followed by a Nuptial High Mass.

The bridesmaid was Miss Effie Lee Alvey, sister of the bride, and the groom's best man was Alex Osborne.

The bride was becomingly attired in turquoise blue crepe with Navy blue hat and other accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses. The bridesmaid wore a rose beige dress with brown accessories. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of Joanna Hill roses.

The music was in charge of Mrs. Theodore Jaglowicz, organist. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March and after the ceremony departed as Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hayden left on a short bridal trip. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping in an apartment at the home of Miss Mary Lee on East Chandler Street.

Mrs. Hayden is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Alvey and is an attractive young woman with a host of admiring friends. She was graduated from St. Augustine's High School in 1932, and since then had spent most of her time at home with her parents. On a number of occasions she has assisted at the John B. Carlile & Company store.

Mr. Hayden was educated at the Calvary School and has spent all his life in that community where he is well known. He is a son of Ben J. Hayden and holds a position with the John A. Wathen Distillery Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden have many friends who extend congratulations and best wishes.

(From the Loretto correspondent)

As soon as the Standard of last week came out with the story calling attention to the Ervers Spring Road, they were right to work on it and will soon have it in good order. So much for the good the Standard does down here. Mr. J. L. Alvey is putting the Holy Cross and Chicago Road in good order, and Mr. Richard Smith proposed to work the Loretto and Bank's Mill Road this week. So you see we are waking up the road questions.

Buys 66 acres for $525

Harrison Miller of LaRue, son-in-law of Mr. S. B. Gardner, has bought the farm left by J. P. Higdon, consisting of 66 acres, for $525. Dr. Wright has bought the Felma Murphy mill-house, three stories high, for $12. This is as good a bargain as Mr. Dant's corn. He proposes to move it on his farm and make a barn of it. Mr. J. L. Rawlings sold to Jack Guthrie 40 acres of land adjoining H. C. Williams' at $30 per acre.

Ran away horse

A horse ran away with a buggy in which Mrs. T. B. Hamilton was riding, some four or five miles north of town, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hamilton was thrown out and severely hurt, one of her arms being broken.

Personal pointers

L. D. Massengale, Esq., left last Wednesday for a visit to Alabama. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hazan arrived at home the supreme sacrifice overseas. The others were: Stanisley Lynch, killed in action; E. McHarrison, killed in an airplane accident; and Earl Mills, who died of pneumonia at a military hospital.

Obituaries

John Seckman, 79-year-old retired farmer, died Sunday at his home on the Spangford Highway. Dr. F. B. Elmore, 38, a physician at St. Mary, died unexpectedly Wednesday at his home. Four additional victims of influenza were George E. Elmore, 60, of his home near Loretto; John Walker, 42, near Loretto; William Allen, 20, of Loretto; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carico, Raywick. The young son by the same name died last week, and Miss Gertrude Reynolds, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reynolds of the Stewart's Creek Community.

Inexpensive education

Pupils of the common school system are being instructed in the past tense of verbs, instructed in the cost of the cents per school day, and according to calculations made from the annual report of W. W. Ruffel, secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Board of Education, total expenditures of the school system exclusive of debt service was $26,729,344 or $38.01 for each child in attendance.

Athletes injured

Sam Spaulding, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Spaulding, while at football practice at the University of Kentucky last week, fractured his left arm above the wrist. Charles Carico, Lebanon High School football star who suffered injuries to his left face some time ago and who since has been at St. Joseph Hospital in Louisville, returned home

Lebanon minister

The Lebanon Baptist Church has a new pastor. He is the Rev. Herman Rountree, a 36-year-old native of Bardonia, Ky., who has been pastor of Twenty-third & Broadway Baptist Church in Louisville.

Mr. Rountree replaces the Rev. A. B. Colvin, who resigned the pastorate here last June and accepted the post of state superintendent of missions and evangelism of the General Association of Baptists in Kentucky.

Fund plans started

Fund plans for construction of a centrally located Marion County high school are being prepared by an outside architectural firm and will take about a month. The announcement came Tuesday from county school superintendent Hugh C. Spaulding after a meeting of the Marion County Board of Education.

Named assistant

John Taylor, Lexington, arrived here last week to take over the duties of assistant Marion County farm agent. His appointment to the post was announced by Farm Agent G. H. Kames. The new one succeeds Frank Brown, Jr., who left here in July to become acting farm agent in Kenton County.

Isaacs buys farm

Billy Isaacs, Star Route, Lebanon, purchased for $55,100 the 197-acre farm of Ernest Collins when the property was offered at public auction yesterday morning. The property is located about a mile from Lebanon on State Highways 84 and 49. The 192-acre farm of the late Joseph Louis Dant was sold at public auction Wednesday morning for $25,900 to Rufus Jones, who owns an adjoining

The Alvey Family of England, Maryland and Kentucky

By Robert Lee Alvey Sr.

Part Five

Part Two of this series focused on the descendants of Henry Alvey Sr. Because this family was so large, Part Two ended at Generation Nine. I would now like to continue to Generation 10 and some selected portions of his family for the next generation. Henry Alvey Sr. was a grandson of Jesse Alvey of St. Mary's County, Md. He came to Kentucky with his parents Bennett/Benedict and Mary Alvey and his sister Susannah about 1798. The family lived in Washington County, Ky., for a number of years before eventually moving to Hardin County, where Henry and Susannah lived with their respective families until the late 1840s. At that time, Henry sold his property in Hardin County and moved with his third wife and younger children to Daviess County. During the next several years, all but one of Henry Sr.'s adult children followed him to Daviess County. Nearly all the Alvey descendants living in Daviess, McLean, and Ohio counties of Kentucky today descend from Henry Alvey Sr. and one of his three wives, Rachel Summers, Anastasia Metcalf and Catherine "Kitty" Lanham. Many of the pictures included within this article were provided by Mrs. Nancy Louise Alvey Witmeyer of Los Angeles and Mrs. Melva Koerner Petway of Benton. We begin with Generation 10, please refer to Kentucky Ancestors, Volume 38, Number 3 for details leading up to the information included herein. The remainder of the descendants of Henry Alvey Sr. for Generation 10 will be presented in a continuation of this Part Five in this series in a future edition.<sup>1</sup>
