Magruder

My records go further back on this line than any of the others, namely to 1498, and I am therefore beginning this genealogical outline with Magruder. I am indebted to Cousin Robert Bricken, Perryville, Ky., for the bible records listed on preceding page. Robert is the son of Samuel R. Bricken who was, of course, the brother of my grandfather George Andrew Bricken.

The Magruders were Scotch Presbyterians, and came to America after the Scottish Rebellion to place the Stuart on the English throne, about 1718. They settled I believe in Maryland, although later we find them in Columbia County, Georgia.

Elinor Magruder, daughter of Ninian Beall Magruder and Rebecca Young, married Richard Beall about 1780, whether in Maryland or Kentucky is not clear, but I feel reasonably certain this marriage did not take place in Georgia. Naturally the place of marriage would be of interest, but actually is of less importance than the fact that Elinor and Richard established a home in Kentucky, in early pioneer days, when life was difficult, hardships innumerable. They reared their children there, remained there, died there. Their descendants married and intermarried with the other Scotch pioneer families, and kept intact their Scotch blood and their Presbyterian religion.

This Scotch Presbyterian settlement was in a part of Nelson County that later became designated as Washington County when Nelson was divided in 1792. We know exactly where the Beall, Cunningham and Bricken farms were located, and it is my belief that the Magruders were close by. The Catholics settled some miles northwest near Bardstown, for the most part, with one large contingent settling on the Rolling Fork River, at what later became known as Calvary. We descend, of course, from both the Presbyterian and Catholic early settlers.

For further details pertaining to Richard Beall and Elinor Magruder see Section entitled "Beall".

Beall

The first Beall of whom we have information is William, born 1684, married Margaret MacPherson in 1715, died in 1753. Both were born in Scotland, and presumably married there, apparently emigrating to America soon after, as their son Andrew was born there in Prince George County, Maryland, in 1718. The Bealls, like the Magruders, were Scotch Presbyterians.

Andrew married Margaret Cameron in 1735. Two of their sons, Walter and Richard, emigrated to Kentucky about 1780, and Andrew came in after the death of their father in 1789, bringing with him his mother. Andrew removed to Missouri shortly before the death of his mother in 1797, and died there in 1804, leaving a large estate which reverted to his brothers and sisters. Richard settled the estate, as records in the possession of Robert Bricken of Perryville, show. Robert also has the government permit authorizing Margaret to bring her slaves into Kentucky.

My understanding of this slave situation is that Kentucky forbade slave traffic, but if people already owned slaves they could bring them in by securing a permit. Once there, the slaves could be bought and sold at will, usually at the death of the owner when the estate was being settled. All of our ancestors, without exception, on all sides of the family owned slaves.

Following is copy from the original document of Margaret Cameron Beall's personal inventory at time of her death in 1797. I am copying this exactly as written, being careful to retain the spelling as it is shown. You will note that the money value is shown in English pounds, shillings, and whatever it is that "D" stands for.

A little study of this inventory reveals the fact that articles considered valuable in that day and time would today be of much less value, and vice versa. It would certainly seem that the silver teaspoons, sugar tong, skimmer, looking glass and ladies' saddle would have been valued higher. And it is interesting to note that Margaret's wearing apparel carries the highest value of any item on the list.

Margaret is buried in the Beall Family Burying ground, I think, and it is my understanding that until quite recently two of the Beall plantations were in the hands of direct descendants, viz. Miss Anne Spaulding and her brother Dr. Robert Spaulding, of Lobanon, Ky. He died in 1957, and she died in 1959.

As we have seen, Richard was the son of Margaret. At the time he came to Kentucky it was a part of the Virginia Territory, and he was a surveyor for Virginia-Kentucky. Uncle Sam Bricken tells us that during the American Revolution he was in command of Redstone, an old fort, in 1778, and that he has a muster role bearing that date.

In later life, Richard became the third sheriff of Washington County. He was also assessor for the east half of Washington County in 1828. He did his work riding on horseback until after 80 years of age. He owned a large boundary of land, a portion of which was, as already mentioned, in the hands of Anne Spaulding, a direct descendent, until her death this year.

The following records pertaining to Marriage Bonds are most interesting. These Bonds were required before license could be issued. They were posted in the Washington County Court House, and I am indebted to Mrs. Louise Eddleman of Springfield for tracing down those of Richard's children. I think these Bonds speak eloquently of the serious regard these pioneers had for marriage. The Bonds are as follows:

Rebecca Beall - to John Shehan - May 21, 1794
Elizabeth Beall - to Thomas Wright - Dec. 26, 1801
Nancy Beall - to Robert Cunningham - March 26, 1803
William M. Beall (There were two Williams, but I believe our William married Letitia Phillips) Bond Feb. 21, 1814
Ruthy Beall - to James Beall - Feb. 15, 1808
Susannah Beall - to John Beauchamp - Feb. 7, 1815
Andrew Beall (evidently not married)

I am copying from the Marriage Bond of Nancy Beall and Robert Cunningham, from whom we descend, as follows:

Quote: Know all men by these presents that we Robert Cunningham and Charles Springer are held and firmly bound unto his Excellency the Governor of Kentucky, in the sum of fifty pounds current money to the payment of which well and truly to be made to the said Governor and his successors we bind ourselves, our heirs, and jointly and severally firmly by these presents, sealed with our seals and dated this 16th day of March, 1803, the condition of this obligation is that whereas a marriage is shortly intended between the above Robert Cunningham and Nancy Beall for which license is issued, now if there be no lawful cause to obstruct the said marriage then this obligation to be void, or else to remain in full force and virtue.

Witness - John R. Reed, Clerk

In further connection with this document, is the following document:

This is to certify that we have no objection against Robert Cunningham getting license to be married to our daughter Nancy. Given under our hand this 16th day of March, 1803

Attest-James William
Cunningham to John Reed, Clerk

Rich'd and Elenor Beall (Seal)

On all documents I have seen, Richard Beall's signature was shown as "Rich'd Beall" abbreviated with the use of the apostrophe.

Copy of Original Deed dated 1805

This indenture made the eleventh day of August, eighteen hundred and five, between Walter Beall of this County of Nelson and State of Kentucky, and Rebeckah his wife, of the one part, and Richard Beall of the County of Washington and State aforesaid mentioned, of the other part. Witnesseth that the said:

Walter Beall and Rebeckah, his wife, for and in consideration of the sum of one hundred pounds current money of the State of Kentucky to him in hand paid, the receipt of which I do hereby acknowledge, hath granted, bargained and sold, aliened and confirmed, and by these presents do grant, bargain, sell, alien and confirm to the said Richard Beall, his heirs and assigns forever, a certain tract or parcel of land, containing four hundred and twenty five acres, lying and being in the County of Washington, being part of two six hundred acre tracts formerly patented in the name of Jacob Myers, beginning at two ashes and a dogwood corner to Benj. Brown's land running thence with one of the original lines due south one hundred and sixty poles to two dogwoods and a sugar tree - etc. etc.

(This goes on at length, but the landmarks have long since lost their meaning, so I am not copying)

(Signed) Walter Beall
Rebeckah Beall

Attest - A. Hubbard) Justices of the Peace
Joseph Bane

The above gentlemen then certified that each of the above Bealls were questioned separately, and Rebeckah of her own accord acknowledged the relinquishment of her rights and dower in the property.

The Deed was recorded in Washington County Court House on the 13th day of August 1805 by John Hughes, Clerk, after Thomas Speed of Nelson County properly certified that proper entry had been made in Nelson County.

This farm, bought 25 years after Richard's marriage to Elenor, evidently became their home, and remained so, as he still owned this 425 acres when he died in 1839. It is mentioned in his Will thus: "including my plantation dwelling house". Copy of this Will is found in this book.

I had never thought how the death of a slave would affect the owner, if death was proscribed by law. Richard Beall found himself in such a situation, as follows:

From County Court Order Book "D" - page 159 - Washington County, Ky.

Richard Beall, the owner of the negro woman slave named Maria, now confined to the jail of this county under sentence of death for murder, pronounced upon her by the Washington Circuit Court, came into court and moved the court to value the said slave

Maria to the sum of $375 which is ordered to be certified to the auditor of public accounts for payment.

August 30, 1830 in the 39th year of the Commonwealth.

Thus, from the foregoing papers, inventory, marriage bonds and the above document, we get a fairly good picture of life as it was lived in those days.

I discovered from my many papers that while many men were able to read and write, fewer women could do so. For instance, Rebeckah Beall Shehan, Richard's daughter, when proving the age of one of her sisters, for a Marriage Bond, signs herself "Rebekah / Shehan
(her mark)

Her sister Nancy also made her mark on a document found elsewhere in this book, and ever so many others. I believe her daughter, Elinor, who married William Madison Bricken, could read and write, and of course we know that William was well in demand for his services in legal matters. I have innumerable samples of his handwriting. To us today, this illiteracy seems incredible, but those were pioneer days in a vast wilderness, and schools and teachers were practically non-existent. However, these people had culture, brought from the Atlantic Seaboard where facilities were available. Some of them had considerable wealth, which lay mostly in land and slaves, but in some houses of which I know there were beautiful pieces of furniture and fine silver.

Richard made his will in 1825, but lived till 1839, dying at age 91. The following is copy from the Original will on record at Washington County Court House, Springfield, Ky. (Capitals and spelling as shown)/

Quote:

In the name of God Amen. I Richard Beall of the County of Washington and Commonwealth of Kentucky being weake in Body but of sound mind and Memory, calling to mind the mortality of my Body and knowing it is appointed once for all men to die, do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament, Revoking all others.

First of all I recommend my Body to the dust and my Soul to God who made it, and Touching such worldly estate wherewith it had pleased God to bless me with, I Will, Give and Bequeath in the following manner:

First, that my Funiral charge be paid. Secondly That all my Just debts be paid if any. Thirdly I Will Give and Bequeath to my loving wife Elenor Beall Four Hundred and Twenty Five acres of land lying on both sides of Cartwright's Creek including my plantation dwelling house and all improvements thereon dureing her my said wife's natural life. Also ninety seven acres that I bought of Clarkson. Also one negro woman. Also my stock of all description. Also my Farmer utentials. Also all my Household and Kitchen Furniture. Also to include the whole of what I possess at my death. All notes and bonds dureing her natural life, and after her death my Will is as follows:

First of all the whole of the property to be sold and divided as

First, one fourth of the am't to Rebeckah Shehan if a living, if not to be equally divided amongst her heirs. Secondly, I give and Bequeath to Nancy Cunningham one fourth if a living, if not to be divided amongst her heirs. Thirdly, I Give and Bequeath to Susannah Beauchamp one fourth part if a living, if not to her Heirs. Fourthly, I Give and Bequeath to my son Andrew Beall, Elizabeth Wright's Heirs, Lewis Able, the other fourth, to be equally divided so as each to have an equal Shear. Also, my son William have no claim in any wise to any part of my estate for he has drawn his full Shear here to fore. My Will is for my wife to sell any part of the Property willed to her for her support.

I Rich'd Beall sign seal publish declare and pronounce this and no other to be my last Will and Testament. I appoint my loving wife Elenor Beall and Robert Cunningham, Executrix and Executor to this my last Will and Testament, sealed and signed this day of October 1825. In presents of (illegible).

My records originally showed that Elinor died in 1821, which is bound to be in error, as from mention in the above Will she was very much alive in 1825. I do think, however, that she was very possibly dead before he died in 1839, or at least by 1844 when Robert Cunningham, as executor, sold the ninety seven acres mentioned in Will to Samuel Cunningham at highest bid of $1,005, since no mention is made of her at that time. (Copy of that deed is found also in this book).

The following document is on file at Washington County Court House, in reference to the above will:

Quote: State of Kentucky - Washington County Court.

At a County Court began and held for the county aforesaid at the Court House in Springfield on Monday the 29th January 1839, this paper purputing to be the last Will and Testament of Richard Beall was produced in court and proven to be the handwriting of the said Rich'd Beall by the oaths of Jeroboam Beauchamp, William M. Beall and William B. Booker, and thereupon ordered to record which is done in Will Book G- Page 111- given under my hand this date above

Attest Wm. B. Booker (Seal)

George C. Moffert (Seal)

There was litigation about this Will because son William was excluded and possibly some of the other heirs were dissatisfied. You will notice the Will was not signed, but since the handwriting was proved, the Will was honored and eventually administered I presume in accordance with the old gentleman's wishes.

Following is copy of the record in Court House pertaining to the above:

Arbitration of Heirs of Richard Beall, Will Bk. G page 173, Feb. 16, 1839.

A Committee was appointed to get agreement between:

Rebecca Shehan, Andrew Beall, Robert Cunningham, Wm. M. Beall, John Beauchamp. Met at Court House Feb. 15, 1839.

Determined that said Wm. M. Beall had received by advancement from his father, property both real and personal, value $2,623.42.

Each heir's share was determined by taking the advancement made him or her, and making an equal amount due each one according to what had been advanced to Wm. M. Beall.

Since no certain means was available to ascertain the advances made to Elizabeth Wright's heirs and Beauchamp, theirs was open to amendment in the future. (this is long and involved and I shall not copy). A strongly worded demand was made that the Executor, Robert Cunningham, sell the land, then divide equally to the heirs after paying the Arbitrators for their services and tavern expenses. Admission made that this did not dismiss the services of these men. Advice given that all controversy must cease between the heirs.

It can be seen, therefore, that no age or time is free from the frailties of human nature.

Following is copy of document concerning disposition of certain lands under executorship of Robert Cunningham: (Quoted from the Original in my possession)

This indenture made and entered into this 11th day of December 1844 by and between Robert Cunningham as Executor of Richard Beall deceased of the County of Marion in the State of Kentucky, of the one part and Samuel Cunningham of the County of Marion and State aforesaid of the other part, witnesseth that whereas the said Richard Beall in his lifetime duly made and published his last will and testament, by which among other things he directed his lands to be sold and appointed said Robert Cunningham to be his executor, and the said will having been duly admitted to record by the County Court of Washington County, and the said Cunningham having qualified as Executor, and having duly advertised the time and place of the sale of said Richard Beall's lands:

Did, on this day, expose to public sale a tract of land containing about ninety seven acres, be the same more or less, lying in the County of Washington adjoining the lands of said Robert Cunningham, William M. Beall, Lloyd Clarkson and the lands of the heirs of Edward Clarkson deceased, and at said sale the said Samuel Cunningham became the purchaser thereof at his, the highest bid of $1,005, and the said Samuel Cunningham having executed to said Robert Cunningham as Executor as aforesaid, two several notes for the purchase money payable in one and two years with his sureties, he the said Robert Cunningham as Executor of said Richard Beall deceased, hath and doth by these presents for the consideration aforesaid, grant bargain sell and convey unto the said Samuel Cunningham all the right title and interest of the said Richard Beall deceased of in and to the aforesaid tract of land hereby reserving to said Cunningham a lien on the aforesaid tract of land for the payment of the purchase money,

To have and to hold the aforesaid tract or parcel of land together with all and singular the privileges and appurtenances to the same belonging or in any wise appertaining to him the said Samuel Cunningham and his heirs forever.

It can be seen from the genealogical record on previous page that the Cunningham history followed closely that of the Bealls, all three families, the Magruders, Bealls and Cunninghams arriving in America at about the same time. And when Robert Cunningham married Nancy Beall another Scotch line was added to our ancestry.

Robert was born two years prior to his parents arrival in Kentucky, hence it can be said that he was virtually a Kentuckian all his life. I have several original documents pertaining to various transactions in which he participated, but since they ^{are} of a general nature shall include one deed only, which deed, dated seven years after his marriage, covers the property on which I believe he lived from then on. This deed is as follows: (Quote from Original in my possession)

This indenture made the twenty fourth day of February 1810 between Edward Clarkson of the County of Washington and State of Kentucky, and Lucy his wife, of the one part and Robert Cunningham of the County and State aforesaid of the other part:

Witnesseth, that the said Edward Clarkson and his wife Lucy for and in consideration of the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Seven Dollars current money of the State of Kentucky to him in hand paid the Receipt which I do hereby acknowledge, hath granted, bargained and sold, aliened and confirmed. etc. by these presents do grant, bargain, sell, alien and confirm to the said Robert Cunningham, his heirs and assigns forever, a certain tract or parcel of land containing one hundred and three acres lying and being in the County of Washington, being part of one thousand acre tract formerly patented in the name of Jacob Myers, on the waters of Cartwright's Creek, adjoining on the South side of Edward Clarkson's lines, due East 144 poles to three dogwoods at B - thence ---- etc (which today mean nothing in the way of identifying the property) --- to the said Robert Cunningham, his heirs and assigns forever to them and their own proper use - etc. etc.

The Deed was Recorded in Washington County Records on 28th day of March 1810 - Attest John A. Philips D. C.

By referring to the Beall section, deed dated December 11, 1844, it will be seen that this property adjoined that of Richard Beall.

Robert, I believe, was administrator of his father's estate, and as we have already seen, he was executor of the estates of his father-in-law, Richard Beall, and his mother-in-law, Elenor Beall.

From papers I have, it appears that Robert at various times deeded certain property to his children. In one case, that of Andrew Mac-Ian, the matter came up twice. I have a letter from Andrew to his father, from Green County, Illinois, dated Nov. 23, 1849. Andrew and his family had been visiting his parents and had returned home. These old letters are fascinating reading, but as this one is long and involved, I am not quoting it. He tells the news in much the same way we do today, and among other things says he has sold his hogs at $1.62-1/2 gross, but doesn't seem to be too happy with the price.

He asks his father to write him a new deed to the land he has already deeded him because the boundaries are listed incorrectly. He goes on and specifies in detail.

But the thing that interested me most was the fact that it took this man and his family twelve days to make the trip from Lebanon to Green County, Illinois. He says he stopped over two days on the road. I don't know how far this distance was but imagine it could be made today in one day's time, or less. Several of Robert's children moved to Illinois, and will be found listed at end of this chapter.

This letter, like all letters in that day and time, was not enclosed in an envelope. The paper was folded with the blank side out, to make an envelope. And it did not carry a stamp. I read somewhere recently that the first United States postage stamps were issued in 1847. Evidently Illinois had not received their supply from the government because only the numeral "10" was written in the upper right hand corner in the space usually allotted to the stamp, as follows:

Mr. M. R. Cunningham

Lebanon, Marion Cty.

Greenfield, Illinois

Nov. 25

And there is a seal of red sealing wax to hold the thing together. I imagine the sender paid the post office 10 cts. before the letter was sent on its way.

It is also interesting to note that while Robert and Nancy could not write, their son could.

Robert died in 1855. I do not have his will, or copy of it, but I have two original documents pertaining to his estate, one entitled "Inventory and Apprasement of Robert Cunningham" dated Oct. 30, 1855, and one entitled "A List of Sales of the Personal Property and Real Estate of Robert Cunningham" dated Nov. 1, 1855. These are written by two different people, judging from the handwriting, and while the spelling is good, the handwriting is poor and illegible in many instances. The lists are long and detailed, covering household items of every description, farm equipment, large and small, poultry, six horses, six cows and one bull, 29 head of sheep, 17 hogs, 6 sows and some 25 pigs, various kegs and barrels of feed, several haystacks and oats stacks, 2 fields of corn, flour, salt ---- and slaves.

This estate was sold at public auction, by the Executor, William M. Bricken, husband of Robert's daughter Elinor. The prices are shown in American money, and as in the case of Margaret Beall's inventory, are extremely low as compared with today's prices. William M. and his son George Andrew Bricken, my grandfather, bought several items, but of most interest to me were the bookcase and the Life of Calvin which they purchased. Apparently, we come of a long line of book-lovers. My father inherited this love of books, and all of us children have this special feeling for books. The Calvin referred to was, of course, the great Presbyterian leader.

The items that brought the highest prices, with the exception of the slaves, were: 1 gray horse- $125.00; one gray mare- $152.00; 1 black mare - $100.00; and the 17 hogs brought $187.85 ($11.00 each), and most of the other items brought practically nothing- a dining table $2.50 and 1 kitchen cupboard .50. As previously stated elsewhere in this book, people's wealth lay mostly in their slaves, as evidenced by the sale of Robert's slaves, as follows:

Alley and 2 children	Alley and Sam	-	$1,505.00	(bought by L. Parrott)
Boy Frank	(bought by William L. Kirk)		760.00	-
Hannah and child Bill	(bought in by widow Nancy Cunningham)		710.00
Bet and child Sam	(bought in by widow Nancy Cunningham)		1,100.00

Following is copy of the original document I have in my possession:

My husband Robert Cunningham by his will and codicil made provision for my support besides giving me certain property and money as specified in the codicil. The Executor desires to know whether I will stand by the will or renounce it.

This is to show that I abide by the provision made for me by said Codicil and he is thereon authorized to proceed with the sale of the estate of said decedent as directed by said will and codicil, as the same agrees with my wishes.

Signed- Nancy / Cunningham
her mark -Oct. 3, 1855

Nancy died in 1857, just two years after Robert's death. Following is copy of another original document pertaining to her estate.

Quote: We the undersigned heirs of Nancy Cunningham, deceased, authorize William M. Bricken as the administrator of said Nancy to sell the slaves belonging to her estate and to account for the proceeds in the same way and manner that he accounted for other proceeds of other property belonging to the estate of said decedent. Witness our hands this day of 1857

Below this in another handwriting is this:

We, the undersigned, are willing for Will Bricken to sell Hannah and children and divide the proceeds of her estate as you do of our father's estate. This the 13th day of February 1857.

(Signed)

R. B. Cunningham
S. M. Cunningham
Cassandra Wright
A. Cunningham
G. W. Wright (evidently husband of Cassandra)

The children of Robert and Nancy Beall Cunningham were:

(I think)

Richard, (1815)/moved to Illinois, married (I believe) Mary Brandon, D-1869 reared a family, - descendants still living there as late as 1935.

Isabella married Marcus Graham (Lebanon, Ky.) Several children I think
(B-1805) but I know definitely of only one - Anne, who married (D-1858) Alexander W. Bricken (brother of William Madison, my great-grandfather, wife Eleanor Cunningham, sister of Isabella. In other words, niece and aunt married brothers.) For descendants of Alexander and Anne see Page 26.

(or Elizabeth)

Margaret/Jane-married Francis Cook - no issue. (My records are not clear
B-1807 or 1813) on this Margaret Jane and a possible Elizabeth Jane)
Cassandra- married George Wright, moved to Green County, Ill. leaving
B-1808 D-1868 children

William M. B-1811 - D- 1829

Samuel Magruder- married (I believe) Emeline Cooper - 9 children,
B-1818-D-1880 - moved to Green County, Ill.

Andrew Magruder - married (I believe) Henrietta Greer -left issue, in B-1820-D-1889 Green County, Ill.

Eleanor - married William Madison Bricken (Lebanon, Ky.) from whom B-1823-D-1889 we descend. For continuation of this line, see section beginning Page 48 and section beginning Page 58.

I have other information about the people above listed, but since
I cannot vouch for its accuracy, am not listing their descendants.

Robert and Nancy are buried in the Beall Family Burying Ground.

On my recent visit to Kentucky I was able, through the foresight and cooperation of Louise Eddleman of Springfield, to locate the graves of Robert and Nancy Beall Cunningham. As stated on previous page they are buried in the Beall Family Burying Ground, which is located on what was once the Beall plantation, but is now the property of Mr. Cecil Moraja, on the Springfield Pike. Mr. Moraja graciously permitted us to go out to the cemetery, which is in open field with no enclosure of any kind.

Most of the headstones are in native stone, the lettering cut with an ordinary chisel, which made it practically impossible to decipher the names. I am told, however, by Robert L. Bricken of Perryville that among these are the graves of Richard and Elenor Boall & other family members. The tombstones of Robert and Nancy are of marble. They have fallen, and lie flat on the ground. After much digging and scraping my cousin Walter Jarboe and my husband John B. Kirby unearthed them, and brought to light the following professionally carved inscriptions:

Robert Cunningham
Born Oct. 10, 1778
Died Sept. 28, 1855

He embraced religion
1827. Joined the old School Presbyterian Church of which he remained a member till his death

Nancy Cunningham
Born Nov. 22; 1784
Died Jan. 21, 1857

(The same inscription is carved on her stone)

I am very happy to incorporate this information in the record.

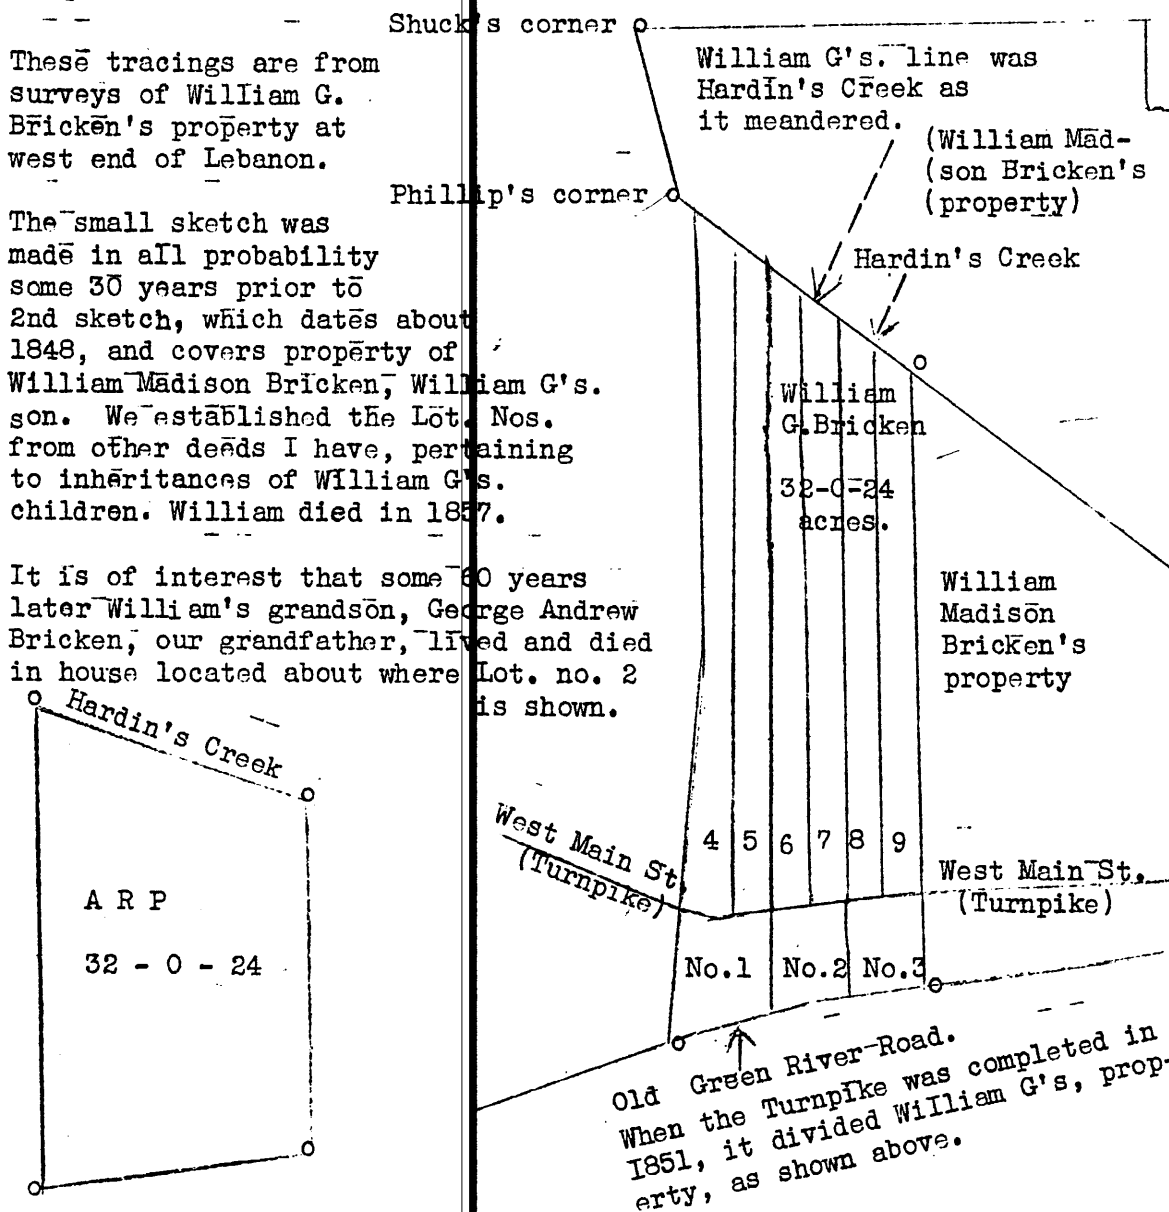

Leta Bricken Kirby
Riverdale, Georgia
August 1960

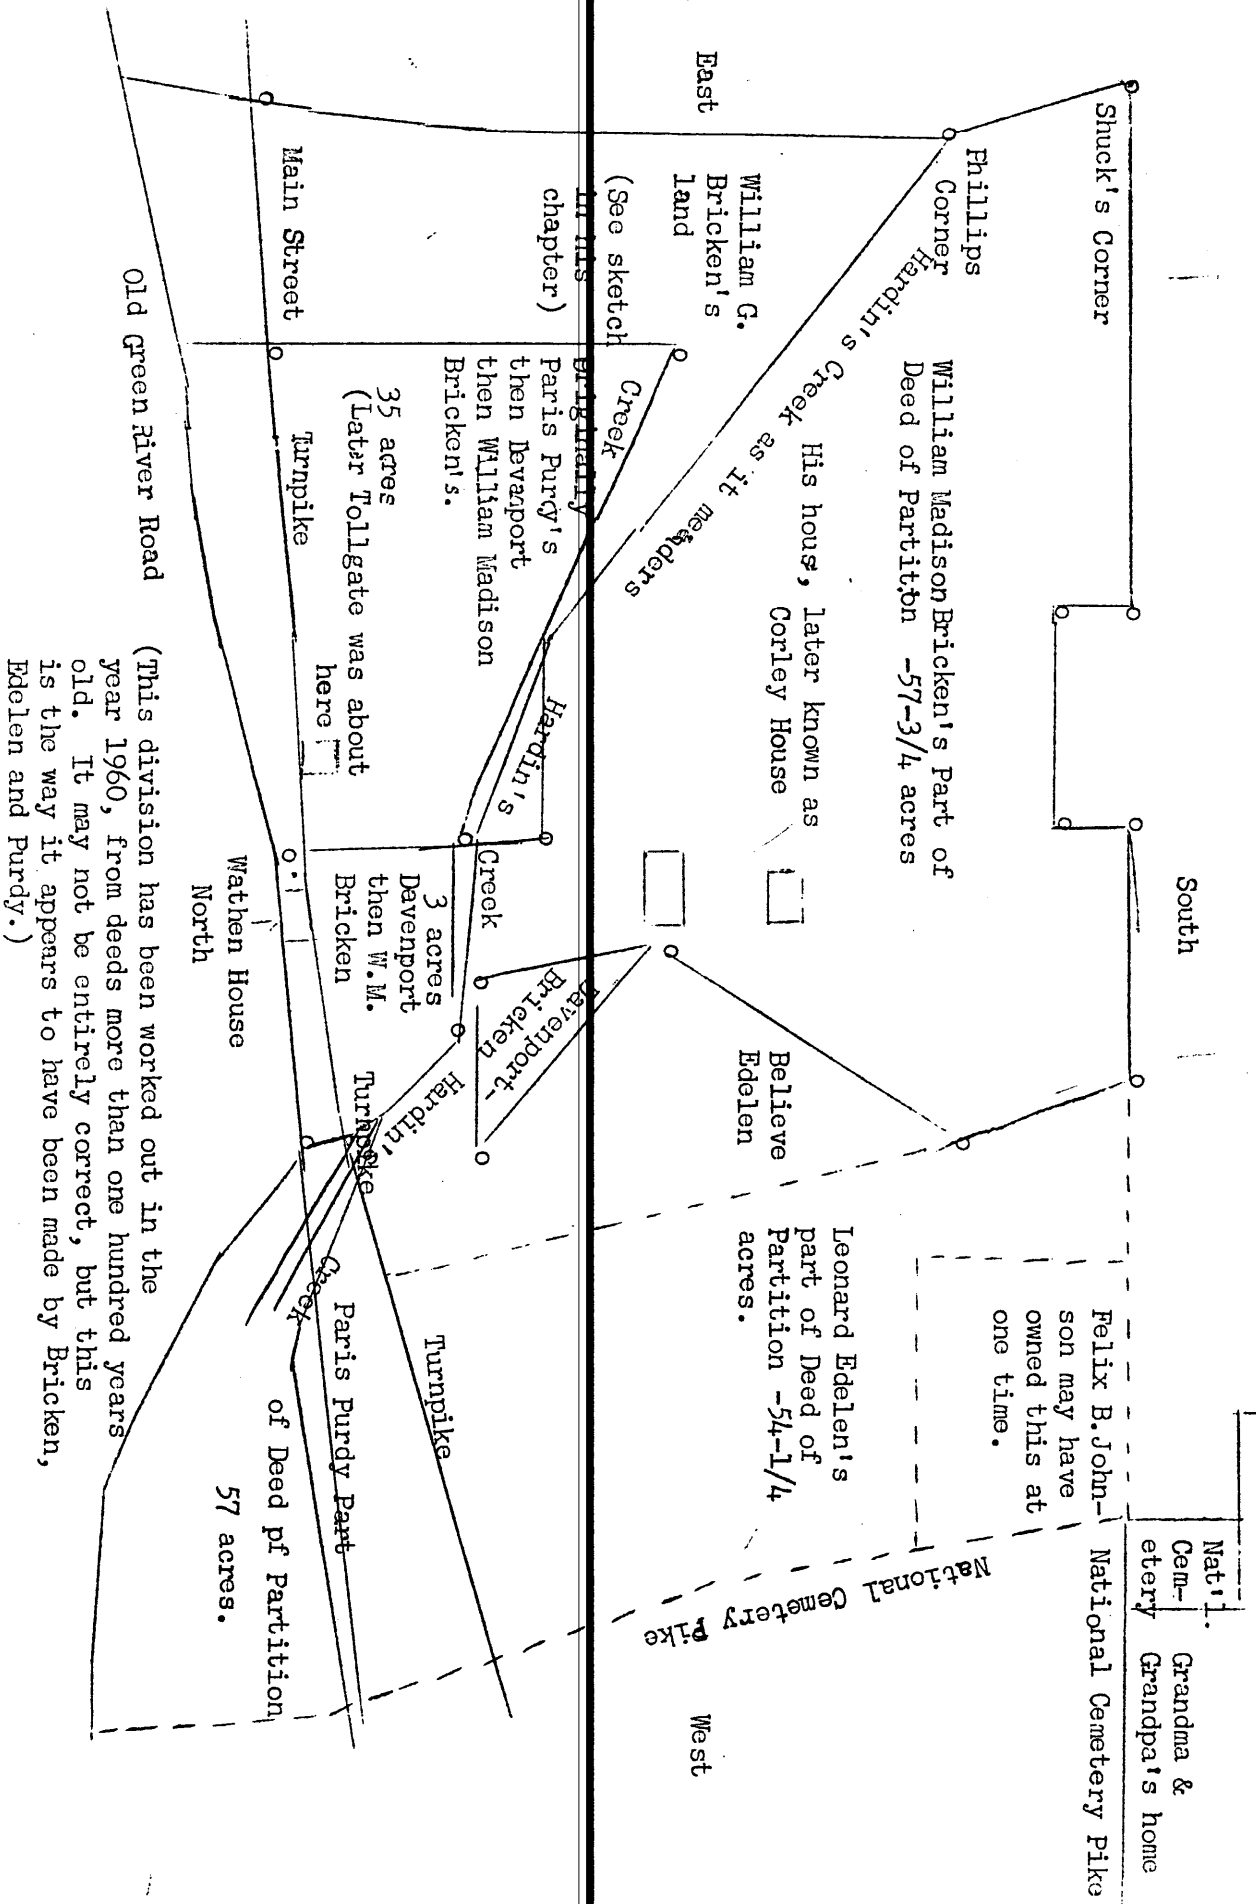

here on descendeñts of Martha Brickēn Johnston came to me unexpectedly in 1960, and at this time, I am adding it to Chart no. 2, and am including it here.

The information on Thomās J's. descendeñts was developed in the late 1930's when I found a letter in my father's papers from Bird E. Bricken dated 1917, asking for information. My father gave him what information he had at that time. After my tabulation of the papers, certain other facts became evident and I contacted Bird. He, in turn, supplied the information on his immediate family, and gave me leads on the Kansas and Missouri Brickens. The record shown here ends in the 1930's.

I do not know where William G. is buried, but in all probability it is the old Presbyterian Cemetery at Lebanon.

For continuation of William Madison Bricken's line, see subsequent chapters.

to have charge of that, W. M. and F. J. Bricken to take charge of my estate. This article not to be probated. My children to be made equal. If any of them owe my estate they are to be charged with that amount. J. B. O'Sullivan and Ethel O'Sullivan Raley to have there Mother's part. No appraisment and no sale. What I may have divide with my children.

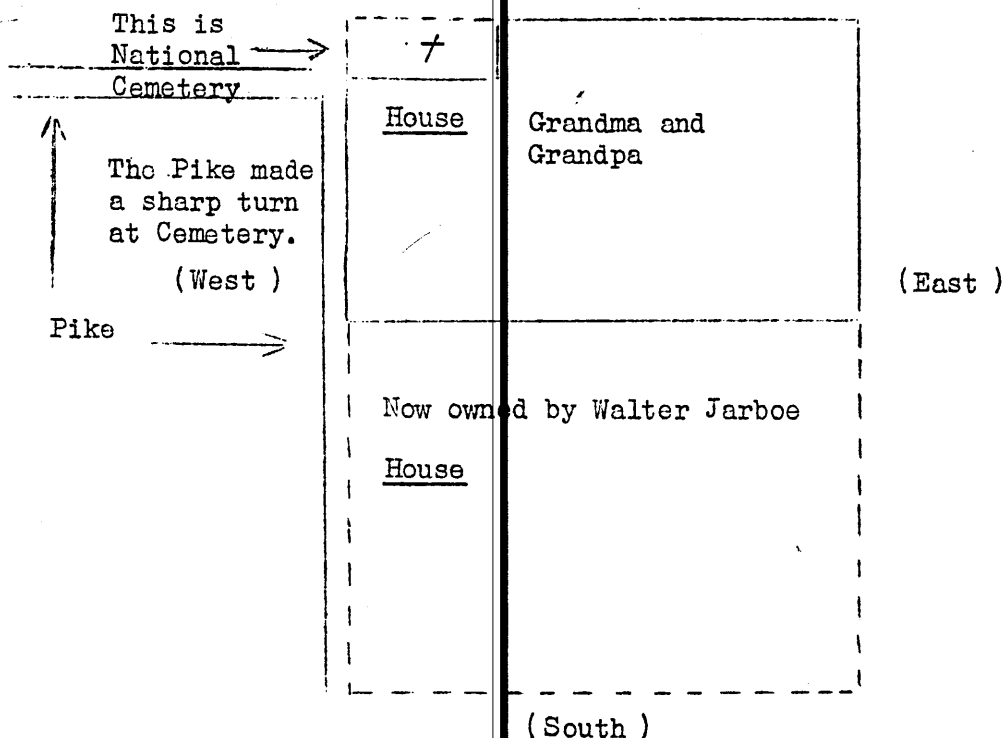

Mrs. Victoria Bricken

This copy is from the Original will, which is in the possession of my sister, Nelly Bricken Knapp, Atlanta, Georgia.

The estate was administered by my father and his brother; in accordance with Grandma's desires, on December 22, 1919. It was a sizable estate. Grandma was a pretty good business woman - she loaned money out at interest, and had investments in various bonds and bank stocks. But since this book will be placed in several hands, and in respect to her preference always for privacy, I am not including the figures.

Grandma died on December 17, 1919, and is buried in St. Augustine Cemetery, Lebanon, Kentucky.

This is tract owned by Felix B. Johnson- showing portion deeded to Grandma and Grandpa - and part sold by Felix in 1865 to Ed Cassady} Cassady. Located on : (North) National Cemetery Pike, Lebanon, Ky.

Record of Jarboe portion is as follows:

Ed and Mary Cassady sold to James Wathen, 1887
 James Wathen to B.S. Wathen, 1887
 B.S. Wathen to Florence O'Sullivan, 1900
 Florence O'Sullivan to W.B. Jarboe, 1906
 Now owned by Walter Jarboe, son of W.B. Jarboe

Beall

Seeking help in sorting out Bealls in Kentucky in the late 1700s and early 1800s. Many are related from Scotland-to-Maryland migrations in the 1600s and later movements south and west. At least one branch settled in Washington, Marion, and Nelson counties in Kentucky. Some changed the spelling of the name to Bell and other variations. I am trying to verify the parents of Mildred Smith (b. 1747, Va., d. 1803, Ky.), who married Rev. William Edmund Waller in 1769 in Virginia. The couple came to Bryan Station, Fayette County, in 1785 and moved to Buck Creek, Shelby County, in 1798. According to some sources, the church established at Buck Creek in 1799 was on land owned by Mildred's father. Was he Francis Smith and, if so, which Francis Smith? I have a source that says the correct Francis had a connection with the Preston family. Any help would be appreciated.

Beall

Seeking help in sorting our Bealls in Kentucky in the late 1700s and early 1800s. Many are related from Scotland-to-Maryland migrations in the 1600s and later movements south and west. At least one branch settled in Washington, Marion, and Nelson counties in Kentucky. Some changed the spelling of the name to Bell and other variations. Several efforts have been made to connect these. Any help?

Whitney/Whitley-Flournoy

William Whitney/Whitley was an early Kentucky hunter, scout, and Indian fighter. On page 202, October 1894, of Virginia History and Biography, the authorized publication of the Virginia Historical Society, Mr. P. A. Bruce, the secretary, being its editor, under the Flournoy family history, is printed an account of Mathews Flournoy, Sr., who was the progenitor of all the "Bluegrass" Flournoys. In this, the name is given as Whitney, and it is stated that Flournoy, with Whitney and others, were journeying to Kentucky from Virginia, Flournoy's 13th trip, when they were ambushed, and Flournoy killed. This Mathews Flournoy, Sr., was born June 21, 1732. He was the fifth son and seventh child of the Huguenot immigrant, John James Flournoy, who came over in 1717-20, and who was a nephew of the immigrant Jacob, who came in 1700. This son, Mathews, settled in Prince Edward County, Virginia, then in Charlotte County. On September 1, 1783, he sold his lands there; and on August 3, 1784, he made power of attorney to his brother, Thomas F., and brother-in-law, William Booker, to transact business. Hence his death with Whitley's or Whitney's party was in 1784 or 1786. Tradition says the locality was the Upper East Tennessee, between Holston and Clinch Rivers, at Cumberland Gap or Crab Orchard, it is not known for certain, but all these places lie on Daniel Boone's "Wilderness Road" into Kentucky.

Hence his death with Whitney's or Whitney's party was in 1784 or 1786. Tradition says the locality was the Upper East Tennessee, between Holston and Clinch Rivers, at Cumberland Gap or Crab Orchard, it is not known for certain, but all these places lie on Daniel Boone's "Wilderness Road" into Kentucky.

Walker-Duncan

Robert J. Walker was the son of Jonathon Hoge Walker and Lucy Duncan. Jonathan Hoge Walker was the first judge of the United States District Court for the Western district of Pennsylvania. He was born in East Pennsboro township, Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, in 1756. His grandfather, William Walker, was an Englishman, a Lieutenant under the Duke of Marlborough, and fought in Queen Ann's Wars in Germany. He was at the battle of Blenheim. He came to America in 1710, and settled in Philadelphia. His son, William Walker, married Elizabeth Hoge, a daughter of John Hoge, who had settled where Hogestown now stands in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, nine miles west of Harrisburg, 1735. Judge Walker's maternal great-grandfather, William Walker, was born in Scotland. He came to America and first settled in New Jersey, but finally at Kernstown, three miles south of Winchester, Virginia, where he died ca. 1750. Robert J. Walker's mother was Lucy Duncan, daughter of Stephen Duncan and Ann Fox, and granddaughter of Thomas Duncan and Jane ?. Thomas Duncan is said to have lived in Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, in 1740. He died in 1776. His will is among the Cumberland county wills. It is said that five Duncan brothers landed in Virginia in 1722, viz.: Charles, William, Henry, Townsend, and Thomas. It is supposed that Thomas Duncan, the grandfather of Lucy Duncan, was the Thomas of the emigrant band, and went from Virginia to Pennsylvania and settled in Cumberland County in 1740.

was the progenitor of all the "Bluegrass" Flournoy's. In this, the name is given as Whitney, and it is stated that Flournoy, with Whitney and others, were journeying to Kentucky from Virginia, Flournoy's 13th trip, when they were ambushed, and Flournoy was killed. This Mathews Flournoy, Sr., was born June 21, 1732. He was the fifth son and seventh child of the Huguenot immigrant, John James Flournoy, who came over in 1717-20, and who was a nephew of the immigrant Jacob, who came in 1700. This son, Mathews, settled in Prince Edward County, Virginia, then in Charlotte County. On September 1, 1783, he sold his lands there; and on August 3, 1784, he made power of attorney to his brother, Thomas F., and brother-in-law, William Booker, to transact business. Todhunter

The Todhunter family came from Reading, Pennsylvania, to Virginia. Hannah Todhunter married Joshua Jones. They came from Wythe County, Virginia, to Wayne County, Kentucky. Hannah's brother, Jacob Todhunter (father of Parker), settled near Lexington, Kentucky. The Todhunters were, religiously, Quakers.

A split-bottom chair and an old table made by the Lindsays were in possession of Mrs. Jefferson Patterson, aged daughter-in-law of Colonel Patterson, who was living at Dayton, Ohio, in 1890. The lands occupied by the Lindsay brothers are now known as the Sandersville precinct, lying between Lexington and the Scott and Woodford County lines.
