He was not in any lost sight of, and those having charge of his money could never hear of him until his first baby was born, when his name appeared in the Lebanon Standard. Seeing this (for everybody reads the Standard) they immediately wrote to him, and he will start tomorrow for his money.

First Sale On Tobacco Floors Here To Be Held On December 5.

Announcement Made In Two-Page Advertisement In Today's Paper.

GOOD MARKET PREDICTED

MANY BARGAINS OFFERED

Tobacco warehouses in this city announce in advertisements in this morning's paper that they will be open to receive tobacco on Monday morning, December 8, and that the first sales will be held on Wednesday, December 5.

Every indication points to a good season. Local tobacco men express the belief that satisfactory prices are going to prevail, although, of course, it is impossible to know this at the present time. Decrease in the amount of tobacco in storage warehouses has given credence to the belief that the prices for good quality tobacco will be as high, or higher, than last year. It is said that despite the late planting of many crops last spring because of wet weather there will be a large crop of good tobacco this fall. Around three million pounds were sold last season over the floors of the three local warehouses.

The Boner Store, one of the city's best known houses, is shortly to quit business. An announcement of a closing out sale appears in a large double-page advertisement in this morning's paper. Prices have been reduced, and the management hopes to move all of the big stock within the next few weeks. The owner of the business, Ed Lerman, is offering the fixtures for sale, and the house, one of the largest and most modern in Lebanon, is for rent. It, too, is owned by Mr. Lerman.

The announcement that the Boner Store is to quit business forever will come as a surprise to many, and will be received with regret. The business was for many years owned by G. R. Elder, now of Louisville. Later it was purchased by the Boner-Oldham Co. and afterward by J. H. Boner, who operated it as the J. H. Boner Dry Goods Co. A year or so ago Mr. Boner sold it to Ed Lerman who, with his brothers, owns and operates a chain of stores in Central Kentucky. The closing of the Boner Store will have nothing to do with the operation of the other stores. It means merely that Mr. Lerman in the future will be interested only in one store in Lebanon, the big one of Lerman Bros., on the corner of Main street and Proctor Knott avenue.

In making the announcement that we are going to close the Boner Store we wish to say that the passing is going to be just as honorable as has been our commercial career. We have been out "clean, straight, and above board," Mr. Lerman said. "The stock must be closed out by the first of January and we will have low prices. We know low prices will follow."

Preceding the ceremony a musical program was given with Mrs. Robert H. Johnston presiding at the organ. Mrs. W. S. Bolles sang two solos, "Because" and "Perfect Love."

The ~~bridal party~~ entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" and the wedding recessional by Mendelssohn was played as the party left the church.
