have often heard her in secret prayer. My mother has a child by her first marriage, Thomas Alford. He was a devout Christian. My grandmother and my mother and father and Thomas Alford were all Methodists, members of the Methodist Church South. Thomas removed to the state of Ohio where he died. He was born in 1822. He died about 1872. I had a letter from him in his last illness, requesting an answer in ten minutes after I received it. I replied but received no answer. He was dead. My father held family prayers. In his absence, my mother officiated at these services. She was a most devout Christian. There were born to my father and mother children as follows: the oldest was Amelia Ann Stook, Isabel Barnett, Alexander, who died of typhoid fever when 19. I was next, James, Elizabeth Farris, Margaret Freeman, Mary Frazier. James lives now at Goose Creek furnace. He married Martha Bundy of Clay County. She died in 1897.

My father had no correspondence with his brother, Samuel, I think in New York or Philadelphia, and I knew nothing of him. He had another brother who lived in Ohio whose name was Archibald, I think. I do not know what part of Ohio he lived in. My father kept no correspondence with him, and I knew nothing of him. My father reported his brothers in fine circumstances when he visited them. His brother, John, had a fine farm on New River in Wythe County and was in good financial condition. He had a son, Samuel, in Abingdon, Virginia, in the mercantile business, had a saddler shop, a vineyard and was estimated to be worth $50,000, was a bachelor. He had another son, Thomas, who lived in Tazewell

County, Virginia. He was a physician and in fine circumstances. He wanted to take me and give me a medical education, but my parents objected. I was anxious to go. I was not more than 12 or 15 years old at that time. He had another son, Newton, who married a Miss Coffey and died. My sisters located in Wythe County, Virginia, after their marriages. When I was about 21 years old I joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and shortly afterwards was converted. I thought I was converted before I joined the church, but I received so much greater blessings later that I doubted it.

I was married to Miss Jane Kenzie when I was 19 years old, 1851, in Wythe County. Three boys and one girl blessed our union but all are dead. I was conscripted into the Army of the Rebellion in 1861 in the fall. I was in the 51st Virginia Infantry, Colonel Trigg and Colonel Wade later. My captain was Joseph Scales, a graduate of West Point. He had a brother in the same company, a lieutenant, also a graduate of West Point. We were sent to Kentucky under Humphrey Marshall. I was in hearing of the Perryville fight. We retreated south, Marshall's Army up Big Sandy Valley to Tazewell. Went to Richmond, Petersburg, Suffolk. We had various skirmishes. We then went to Knoxville, then to London Bridge, thence by Chattanooga to Tullahoma. Then we were ordered back to Knoxville, Tennessee. Thence we were ordered to Chickamauga, and when we reached Hiawasse River several of us concluded that we had had as much of war as we wanted and concluded to leave the Confederacy to its fate.

Thirteen of us started at the same time, but we scattered. I went back by way of Knoxville, leaving the city half a mile, and crossed the river just above the town. After crossing the river we passed two forage wagons with 25 or 50 men with them. We were within 80 yards of them. We had on our grey uniforms, but they took no notice of us. At Clinch Mountain three men came running out of a house with their guns, calling us to halt. A man named Beery Wharf was my comrade; we begged off, telling them we were deserters and were going home. Before the war I had removed to Scott County, Virginia. Thither I went. I found my wife and little daughter there. Three of my children had died before I went to the Army. I was arrested by

Winter Feed Situation

Many Marion County livestock producers do not have a normal supply of hay. Perhaps the best way to supplement the hay supply is to fill a trench silo with corn silage. If this is not practical, you might try stacking silage and covering it with black plastic. With the recent rains, a heavy seeding of cover crop can furnish a tremendous amount of pasture. Seeding rye in an old lespedeza sod is one way of increasing pasture production for winter and next spring.

Seeding Alfalfa

Alfalfa is not a poor land crop. If you are to be successful in growing alfalfa, lime, potash, and phosphate are essential. Alfalfa should be sown now and before the 15th of September. The chances for a good stand at a later planting than this are very poor.

U.S. Marcum, 73, Dies In Taylor

Ulysses "Uncle" Marcum, 73, who for 37 years had owned and operated the Marcum Wholesale Grocery Company in Taylor County and for several years (1941-1954) operated a branch house on West Main Street in Lebanon, died at 4:45 p.m. Monday at Hoxley Hospital, Campbellsville. He suffered a heart attack at his home here Sunday morning at 10:4 p.m., the same day, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage at the hospital.

He was a native of Green County, a son of Harry Gay and Mary Lee. He was married to a man from Lebanon.
