COUNTY HISTORY —

By Mrs. Clint Elliott

Gaddie, Stiles, Churchill, Holderman

Several of our old pioneer families in the county and their ancestors kept family records through several generations and the Gaddie-Stiles genealogy is an unbroken line back to 1550, over four hundred years.

George Griffin Gaddie whose wife was Eliza Thurman was a son of John Gary and Margaret Ann Willet Gaddie. His maternal grandparents were Griffen Willett and Rhoda Stiles Gaddie, and his maternal grandparents were David and Elizabeth Kitchell Stiles.

And from David Stiles, 1760 to 1839, on back in the Stiles grandfather line were Thomas Stiles 1740 to 1803; Jonathan Stiles 1868-1758; Isaac Stiles 1630(?); John Stiles, 1595-1662, or 3; and Thomas Stiles 1550 to 1614.

The last three named and their families all lived in England; and then some of them began a new life in the new land of America, where Johnathan, Thomas and David all did their part in the War for Independence from England, the Revolutionary War, David being only fourteen years old when he enlisted for service, this information being found in the War Records of New Jersey. And when the war was over many of the Stiles name, as did many others, came to the region of Kentucky, and the name is yet quite prominent and important in La

? tons and a Walters or two. Also Van Leer and Wayne, from whom some of the family connections come. Hannah Van Leer was a sister of General Anthony Wayne, and her daughter Hannah married Jacob Holderman who was a part owner of Aetna Furnace in Green County and another in Hart County with General Simon B. Buckner, until his death in 1825. His daughter Mary Holderman married Cadwalladar Churchill, who succeeded his father-in-law in the activities of the furnaces which constituted an important industry in this section of the state in the early days.

Besides Mary Holderman Churchill there were two other daughters Louise and Arabella, and a son Anthony Wayne Holderman (1815-1870) whose wife was Jane Thurman, and one of their daughters Hannah Holderman Walters was the mother of the late Mary Walters Mather, wife of our noted county historian the late Judge O. M. Mather, also the late Mrs. Eliza Ovesen, Jacob, John and Anthony Walters, all of whose descendants are proved of their kinship with the Revolutionary War and Indian War hero, General Anthony Wayne.

There are several Wayne and Van Leer and Anthony first names in the Holderman, Churchill and Thurman families. And there was a Cadwallader Middleton, Cadwallader Churchill, and Cadwallader Thurman, and a Mary Cad Thurman. Our information does not give the origin of the name Cadwallader, but was no ill in England was made, a deed in the reign of Edward XI. And on down the line was a John Churchill of Winseton, Dorsetshire, Winston of course now a familiar name throughout the world.

The first Churchill in this country was Josiah, who settled at Weatherford, Connecticut in 1630. His father John came in 1643, from whom most of the American Churchills are descended.

Armistead Churchill of Virginia came with some members of his wife's family, Blackwells, to Kentucky about 1789 and settled on a plantation which he named "Blenheim", in the southern limits of Louisville and where he and his wife and some of their ten children are buried. And it was he who changed the spelling of the name when the birth of his 6th child was recorded. Churchill Downs, the race track is part of the estate. And the name Thurston of Louisville, a very well known name, was connected with the family.

John Churchill, son of Armistead, married Matilda Slaughter and moved about so much he came to be called the "Great mover", saying he "didn't think it was healthy to live too long in the same place." He came from Virginia with his father to Jefferson County, then lived in Hardin for awhile, then to Illinois and back to LaRue again for the remainder of his life.

Some of their children were Cadwallader; Armistead; Slaughter; Richard; and John. M. D. Two of his sons married Brown sisters; and a granddaughter, Matilda, married William Brownfield; another Mary, to John Hays, of Elizabethtown; and another Judith, to a Mr. Howard, a Hodgenville merchant a good many years ago.

There are many other names and interesting facts in these old family records, but our space is limited. We still have members of the Stiles, Gaddie and Thurman families, but now, no Holdermans or Churchills, but no doubt many who would belong in the branches of their family tree. And the late Mr. Churchill Sherrard, and Mr. Churchill Price who recently passed away, both natives of LaRue County proudly had Churchill for their first, or Christian names.

Gaddie, Stiles, Churchill, Holderman

Several of our old pioneer families in the county and their ancestors kept family records through several generations and the Gaddie-Stiles genealogy is an unbroken line back to 1550, over four hundred years.

George Griffin Gaddie whose wife was Eliza Thurman was a son of John Gary and Margaret Ann Willet Gaddie. His maternal grandparents were Griffen Willett and Rhoda Stiles Gaddie, and his maternal grandparents were David and Elizabeth Kitchell Stiles.

And from David Stiles, 1760 to 1839, on back in the Stiles grandfather line were Thomas Stiles 1740 to 1803; Jonathan Stiles 1868-1758; Isaac Stiles 1630-; John Stiles, 1595-1662, or 16; and Thomas Stiles 1550 to 164.

The last three named all their families all lived in England, and then some of them began a new life in the new land of America, where Johnathan, Thomas and David all did their part in the War for Independence from England, the Revolutionary War David being only fourteen years old when he enlisted for service, this information being found in the War Records of New Jersey. And when the war was over many of the Stiles name, as did many others, came to the region of Kentucky, and the name is yet quite prominent and important in LaRue and adjoining counties.

And of course the Gaddie name has also been prominent and trustworthy in our county's history. Many residents remember the fine doctor, the late Dr. D. W. Gaddie, and the late J. Tolbert Gaddie, superintendent of the LaRue County Schools for a number of years. All of its branches have contributed to the welfare of the county, and the name still goes on in its bounds.

In Eliza Thurman Gaddie's ancestral family Bible and some old family papers there are names of many Churchills, Holdermans, Thurmans, some Middle-tons and a Walters or two. Also Van Leer and Wayne, from whom some of the family connections come. Hannah Van Leer was a sister of General Anthony Wayne, and her daughter Hannah married Jacob Holderman who was a part owner of Aetna Furnace in Green County and another in Hart County with General Simon B. Buckner, until his death in 1825. His daughter Mary Holderman married Cadwallader Churchill, who succeeded his father-in-law in the activities of the furnaces which constituted an important industry in this section of the state in the early days.

Besides Mary Holderman Churchill there were two other daughters Louise and Arabella, and a son Anthony Wayne Holderman (1815-1870) whose wife was Jane Thurman, and one of their daughters Hannah Holderman Walters was the mother of the late Mary Walters Mather, wife of our noted county historian the late Judge O. M. Mather, also the late Mrs. Eliza Ovesen, Jacob, John and Anthony Walters, all of whose descendants are proved of their kinship with the Revolutionary War and Indian War hero, General Anthony Wayne.

There are several Wayne and Van Leer and Anthony first names in the Holderman, Churchill and Thurman families. And there was a Cadwallader Middleton, Cadwallader Churchill, and Cadwallader Thurman, and a Mary Cad Thurman. Our information does not give the origin of the name Cadwallader, but was no doubt of considerable importance since it has come down through several generations of some of the county families. Probably from the Churchill family in England.

The Churchill name, like many others of our county's ancestors, was changed and simplified in America as the years passed. Churchill family records give the name in England as Courceller, Roger de Courceller is listed as a landed proprietor in Dorsetshire, and is believed to be the progenitor of all the Churchill family name, having its origin in Dorset where the first record of Church-ten children are buried. And it was he who changed the spelling the name when the birth of his 6th child was recorded. Churchill Downs, the race track is part of the estate. And the name Thurston of Louisville, a very well known name, was connected with the family.

John Churchill, son of Armistead, married Matilda Slaughter, and moved about so much he came to be called the "Great mover", saying he "didn't think it was healthy to live too long in the same place." He came from Virginia with his father to Jefferson County, then lived in Hardin for awhile, then to Illinois and back to LaRue again for the remainder of his life.

Some of their children were Cadwallader; Armistead; Slaughter; Richard; and John, M. D. Two of his sons married Brown sisters; and a granddaughter, Matilda, married William Brownfield; another Mary, to John Hays, of Elizabethtown; and another Judith, to a Mr. Howard, a Hodgenville merchant a good many years ago.

There are many other names and interesting facts in these old family records, but our space is limited. A few more old family histories can yet be used before we close the pages of the History book if any wish.

Old soldiers' names sent will also be used. It is interesting though, to give some facts of their service, and especially those in the Civil War, tell if on the North or South side.

A few more old family histories can yet be used before we close the year.

by early German population of Pennsylvania, who came from Germany, many of them of the religious faiths of Amish, Menonites, Moravians, Dunkards, many Catholics and others for the purpose of more freedom of worship.

We recently had access to some information from the pages of a book entitled Pennsylvania Germans, compiled by Strassberger and Hinke, giving lists of people, names of the ships that brought them and of the Captains, or Masters, or Commanders of the ships, from 1727 to 1774, and dates of landing at Philadelphia.

There were several hundred lists and in three classifications: The Captains, the signers of the Oath of Allegiance and the signers of Abjuration. Some of them told of so many people, some of so many foreigners, but most of them were classed as Palatines, coming from parts of Germany so called, something like provinces, and is of Roman origin.

In these lists there were dozens of Millers and Walters. Part of the Miller spellings Millar, Millear, Millier, and in Germany Mueller, finally settled to its present spelling, as we of the name now have.

And the Walters name as we of this genealogy now use were in these ship lists as Walter chiefly, but also Walther, Walder, Wolter, and the name Waller, though not in these lists may have also been once part of the clan. As time passes many letters similar to each other may be mistaken for each other, then extra letters in names are sometimes omitted for more simplified pronunciation.

Other names found in these ship lists are Bell and Belle, Brown; Gardner and Gurdner; Gobel; Haney, Heltzel; Holderman (this may the Holdermans that intermarried with some of the Walters); Michel, Midele, Michell and Michael; Nickolas and Nickolaus; Nauman; Phillips, also spelled Philip; Reed, Reid and Reynd; Smith; Thomas, and Wirth. Nearly all these names still here.

Some of the first names often used were Adam, Abraham, Conrad, Conradt, Christopher, Christian, Hans, Johan and Johannes, Jacob, James, John, Joseph, Michell and Michael, especially in the Miller and Walters lists, and some rather unusual ones were Andony, Andreas, Albrick, Baradel, Conerat, Conrath, Chronomus, Davit, Eberhatt, Galtheit, Godfitt, Gregarius, Gerick, Han-were "William and Sarah", "Adventure", "Friendship of Bristol", "Thistle of Glasgow", "Charming Betty", and "Charming Nancy", "Princess of Augusta", "Molley", "Loyal Judith", "Mary", "Hope", "Rob and Alice", "Pennsylvania", — "i" instead of "y" — and many others.

And some of the commanders of the ships, were Hill, Davis, Brown, Dunlop, Parish, Carr, Spurrier, Reid, Nicholas, Thompson, Bell, Ewing, Morris, Ford, Hall, Doyle, Ross, Moore, Gray, Arnett, Smith, Lasley, Goodman, Wilson Randolph, Mason, Mitchell, Lee, Cunningham, Clymer, Muir, Carter, Allan — most all common everyday names that we have always known.

Most of the ships sailed from Rotterdam and the month, day of the month, and year, from September 18th 1727 to June 21st, 1774, are given for all of them.

This gives us an idea of how Europeans came in large numbers, and in many ships, to make new homes in the land across the seas, and then many in a short while went to war to keep it from the exploits of a far away king who sought only to fill his coffers and denied them the freedom for which they had braved all the dangers and hardships to obtain.

Also in Pennsylvania records, 6th Series, Vol. 5, is mentioned John LaRue 4th class, and George LaRue 6th class, who were in Capt. Wm. Spiles Co., 7th Battalion, Lancaster County Militia, and John LaRue elected Ensign 2nd Battalion Bucks County Militia April 24th 1786.

And in West Virginia Writers' Program, Page 493, is found the statement that "Isaac and Jacob LaRue, two Frenchmen, settled on land granted them for their services in the Revolutionary War. Their graves are on Middle Island, reached by a ramp leading down from the bridge across the Ohio River".

And so our Historical Society and our County Histroy, seek to trace our lineage and our names, and something of the activities of our forbears, and their courage, for the sake of history for each new generation in our county which is known all over the world.

JUDGE La FAYETTE STILES PENCE

La Fayette Stiles Pence, LL.B., as a member of our own Kentucky Family. He was known personally by many members of the family now living, his death having occurred only a short time prior to this writing. He was a son of Rebecca Elteugy Stiles, of Morristown, N. J. and Nelson County, Ky., head of one of the ten branches of the Kentucky Family; he being a son of David Stiles, of Morristown, N. J. and Nelson County, Ky., the Kentucky pioneer who came from New Jersey to Kentucky in the year 1809; he being a son of Thomas Stiles, of Morristown, N. J.; he being a son of "Long" Jonathan Stiles, of Stratford, Conn. and Morristown, N. J., head of the New Jersey Family; he being a son of Isaac Stiles, of Windsor, Conn., Wethersfield, Conn. and Stratford, Conn., reported to be the first male child born in the Colony of Connecticut; he being a son of John Stiles, of Millbrook, England and Windsor, Conn., who came from Millbrook, Bedfordshire, England in 1634 and, with others, founded the town of Windsor in the Colony of Connecticut;

he being a son of Thomas Stiles, our first ancestor known by name, who resided at Millbrook, England.

Judge Pence was born near Bloomfield, Nelson County, Ky., April 6, 1865 and was the youngest of five children. Upon the death of his mother when he was a very small child, in 1867, he went to LaRue County to make his home with his aunt, and twin sister of his mother, Mrs. Minerva Ford Stiles Beall and her husband, George Washington Beall, near Raywick, Ky. There he spent his boyhood with all the advantages of a son in the home of this respected and cultured couple and their only child, Mary Martha Beall.

After completing the courses offered in the county schools he attended East Lynn Academy at Buffalo, Ky., and later entered upon the study of law in the College of Law, University of Louisville, Louisville, Ky. where he obtained his degree in 1889.

The following year he began the practice of law at Lebanon, Ky., making his home with the family of his cousin Mary Martha (Mattie) Beall and her husband Joseph N. Wilson. It was in the home of the parents of this cousin he had spent his early life and their relationship was more like that of brother and sister than of cousins. The practice of his profession at Lebanon extended over a period of thirty years.

In 1902 he was elected Police Judge of Lebanon, Ky. and for eleven years served in that office. He at one time served as County Judge of Marion County during the illness of Judge William M. Spalding.

Besides his law practice Judge Pence did much research work. Being a member of a pioneer family he was deeply interested in genealogy, and was the author of a book, "The History of the Stiles Family in Kentucky and Missouri", published in 1896. Also deeply interested in American history, he was particularly a student of Lincoln lore, and long corresponded with prominent historians in all parts of the country concerning the life of the Great Emancipator.

He was the author of a series of articles which were published through "The Enterprise", a Lebanon newspaper, under the title "Life sketches of the Rev. Jesse Head", the story of the minister who performed the marriage ceremony which joined Nancy Hanks and Thomas Lincoln, parents of the Civil War President.

Third Family Historian.
Family 20.

Judge Pence was widely known and his services were in almost constant demand for research in connection with titles and deeds, and many old and valuable documents were brought to light through his efforts, his work taking him not only into most of Kentucky's counties but into other states as well.

After supplying a quantity of data concerning the parentage and early life of Abraham Lincoln to Senator Albert J. Beveridge to be used in his work "Abraham Lincoln" Judge Pence received in acknowledgment the Senator's personal check and later a copy of the two-volume biography of Lincoln. These two volumes with the uncashed check pasted in one of them are now the prized possession of the writer, a gift of Judge Pence.

It was through his encouragement and that of his cousins Margaret Beall Wilson LaRue and Mina Beall Wilson LaRue that the family was called together in the first Stiles reunion in 1936 and it has continued to be an annual event since that time.

But for his inherent modesty many more interesting incidents of his life might be recorded, for he was requested to furnish first hand information, but friendly as he was to all forms of family lore he silently declined to make himself the subject.

He was a member of the Lebanon Methodist Church and often returned to Lebanon for visits after his retirement. Every one who knew Judge Pence liked him. He was extremely amiable and, although he pursued his duties diligently, was never too busy to fraternize with his friends. Possessed of a good mind, his conversation was always interesting, and invariably sparkled with humor. He was at all times a gentleman, a friend to the friendless, and a wise counsellor to those who sought his advice.

During the last few years of his life he spent months at a time at a farm home which he owned near Raywick, Ky. occupied by Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Whitfield, where he maintained a furnished room.

In the fall of 1936, having heard of the writers interest in family history, he made a visit to his home and lent much help and encouragement to the work just then in the beginning. He was at that time in failing health but still the charming guest.

During the early part of 1938 he was seized by a disease of the heart which later resulted in his death at the age of 73,

June 24, 1938. He died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Wright (T.E.) Stoner at Bardstown, Ky., all of his near relatives having preceded him in death. He was buried in Bardstown Cemetery.

Charlie Stiles

Charlie Stiles was a horsebreaker and probably a few other things. Some people say that he worked with Al Capone and made moonshine. Others say he would do anything that was wrong or illegal. One night after the police had found that he had done something else wrong they set out to find him. And when the police finally did find Charlie they shot him.

Charles Stanley Gaddie
Charles Stanley Gaddie was my grandfather and was born on December the 15, 1912.

There is a knoe near my uncle's house that I climbed about a year ago.
my cousins and my uncle <sup>Stanley</sup> found a rock that had a bunch of nails in it. It is said that Charles Stanley Gaddie put them there sometime before he died.
