

Lobb - Mattingly

The marriage of Miss Arlene Lobb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lobb, and Mr. Eldon Mattingly, son of Mrs. Lucille Mattingly of Springfield, was solemnized at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, November 26, at First Baptist Church, Springfield. The Rev. James A. Perkins performed the double ceremony before a back-draped altar of white gladioli and ferns and candelabra candles. Mr. James A. Perkins sang "Perfect Love" and the "Lord's Prayer" with Mrs. Robert H. Johnston at the organ. The bride, entering with her bridesmaids, wore a ballerina length gown of white embroidered nylon over slipper satin, fashioned in scalloped, pointed neckline, fitted skirt with scalloped emerald hemline and brief sleeves. With this she wore long white mitts and a fingertip veil and a long white orchid corsage. She carried a purple-throated white orchid. The groom wore a white tuxedo. The matron of honor, Mrs. Alice Gates of Breckenridge, the bride's sister, wore a white dress featuring a draped

The matron of honor, Mrs. Joseph Allen Willett, Lafayette, Ind., wore a scarlet velvet sheath, with hat and slippers to match. She carried a crescent of carnations and pompons.

The bridesmaids, Miss Carol Huffman, of Louisville and Miss Betty Hart, of Paducah, were identically gowned and carried the same flowers.

Mr. Marion Spalding, of Louisville, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Messrs. Larry Nally of Louisville, and John Spalding of Springfield.

A reception was held at the Lebanon Country Club.

The bride is a graduate of St. Augustine High School, St. Helena's Commercial School and St. Joseph School of X-ray Technology.

The groom, a graduate of Springfield High School, served two years in the Army, eighteen months of that time in Formosa. He is a member of Ballantine College, Louisiana.

The maid of honor, Mrs. Coyle, sister of the bride, wore a white gown with a full train and a narrow white sash. She carried a white baby pink veil and white gloves.

The Glascock/Glasscock family has been well researched and is beleived to have come to America from Essex, England. In the Gaelic language of ancient Scotland, glass means green and cock means hill, so the name may mean Green Hill.

The ancestor of Carl L. Porter, Sr. that left England for America was Thomas Glascock and his wife Mary. They were in Virginia by 1643 and lived about 30 miles from Jamestown, Virginia. They received two land grants. One was for 130 acres and the other for 200 acres. By 1652, Thomas was appointed Justice of the Peace for the Peankatanke area. During the same year, he received another land grant of 600 acres thirty miles north. By the early 1660s, Thomas received another patent for 280 additional acres in this Morattico Creek area and moved his family north. It is believed that Thomas died by 1667, for at that time his son, Gregory Glascock, had possession of the land.

Gregory was the oldest son and was married by 1667 when he and his wife, Mary, deeded the Morattico Creek land that had been his father's, to his brother, Thomas. He and Mary had only three known children. The only son was named Thomas, after his grandfather and uncle.

Thomas was born before 1671, according to court documents that declared he was of full age by June 1, 1692. In 1689 he married Sarah Stone and had a tobacco plantation on Farnham Creek, where he raised his family. In 1723, according to the records, "Thomas Glascock made an assault on the body of William Forrester by stabbing him with a knife by means whereof the said Forrester instantly 'dyed' ". The reason that Thomas may have had for killing another man is unknown. It is known that he fled and was never heard from again.

The Rev. Lawrence Glassco, in his book about the Glascock family, records the consequences in this manner:

"His son, Gregory, who was 23 at the time, accompanied him on his escape and was later arraigned by a Richmond County Court as an accessory after the murder. After hearing the testimony of Gregory and his brothers...the court found that 'the principall not being attainted, no indictment will lye against the accessory, therefore' said Gregory Glascock is Admitted to Baille'. Following is a copy of testimony at the hearing: 'Gregory Glascock being examined saith that on the fifth of November last about midnight he set off in a boat with his father Thomas Glascock from their landing on Farnham Creek and the next morning his father put him on Shoar the other side of the River about five miles below Morattico Creek, and then he travelled to Gloucester Town, and went over the Ferrey to York Town, and from thence went to Hampton Town, and so went over James River and landed at one Willsons, and from thence traveled through Norfolk Town and went to a place called Northwest Landing, and then came back about two days before Christmas to the house of one Nehemiah Jones, and from thence made the best of his way home' ".

Thomas fled and left his wife, Sarah, and children behind. The property on Farnham Creek was eventually taken by Robert Carter, called "King" Carter, the largest property owner in Virginia. Carter's 1726 will (in which he left his four sons a total of 333,000 acres !) states "...if my son John Carter comes to enjoy the said Glascock's lands under a good title that then he further consider the said Glascock's children in such proportion as he shall think fitt, or otherwise gratify them according to his discretion".

The children eventually moved north to once more start over, this time in the Piedmont area of Virginia. The youngest son, Peter, is our ancestor. He married Jane by 1735 and lived in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, along with his brothers and their families. A poll list for 1761 still exists and shows that Peter Glascock voted for Colonel John Baylis and Colonel Henry Lee (father of Lighthorse Herry Lee of the Revolution and grandfather of General Robert E. Lee of the Civil War) for burgesses of Prince William Co., Va. (So much for the secret ballot.) Peter was 61 years old in 1775 at the beginning of the Revolution. He was appointed Surveyor of the road from Painter Skin to the Blue Ridge and was charged with keeping the road in repair. Because of this "Road Reviewer" service, his descendants are entitled to DAR membership.

In the 1780s Peter Glascock was sued for two pounds by his neighbor. Peter lost and had to pay the two pounds to John Marshall - first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Peter died in 1783, leaving nothing to his children of his first marriage to Jane. The children or his second wife received all his property. Between the two wives he had sixteen children!

Gregory Glascock was the third son of Peter and Jane. He was born in 1738 and married Jemima about 1760. He had land grants in Kentucky, but apparently never visited the property. Little is known of him or Jemima. They did have at least thirteen children, many of whom left Virginia and settled in Kentucky.

Their fifth child and third son was also named Gregory Glascock. He moved to Kentucky along with some of his brothers and cousins. He was first mentioned in Breckinridge County, Kentucky in 1807 when he was on a jury. In 1809, he and his cousin John bought 500 acres in Breckinridge Co. from Wm. Henry Harrison of Indiana Territory. The land cost $1.00 per acre. They settled in the southern part of Breck. Co., on Rough Creek. This Gregory was married to Nancy and they had at least seven children. Gregory died in 1847 in Breckinridge Co., Ky. and left a will naming his children. His wife was not named, so she must have died before this time.

The only known surviving son of Gregory and Nancy was Redmon Gregory Glascock, their youngest child. He was born in 1810 and married Sarah Pettypool in 1831. He lived in Breck. Co. all his life and died in 1872, leaving a widow and eleven children. The fifth child of Redmon and Sarah was William J. Glascock.

William Glascock was born about 1843 and married Josephine Basham in 1861, at the beginning of the Civil War. He and Josephine had ten children. They lived in Breck. Co. and were a farming family.

James Henry Glascock was the first child of William and Josephine. He was born in November, 1861 and married Laura Belle Spencer about 1880. They had nine children, seven girls and two boys. Their oldest child, Bertha Ann married Wavy Edwards. Bertha Ann and Wavy were the grandparents of Carl Lewis Porter, Sr.

Thomas Glasscock

born in the early 1600's, probably in Essex County, England died (probably) at his home on Morattico Creek in Lancaster County, Virginia

married 17 June 1634 in London, England to

Jane (Jean) Just (or Juet)

Children: All probably born in England before 1643

1. Gregory
2. Thomas
3. John

BIOGRAPHY:

In the year 1643, 36 years after the first permanent English settlement at Jamestown and 23 years after the landing of the Mayflower Pilgrims, Thomas Glasscock, our immigrant ancestor, is first listed in the records of the Tidewater country of Virginia. Perhaps he and his family arrived earlier, but his first known patent, in 1643, was for 130 acres in Warwick River County, located on the lower part of the peninsula between the James and York Rivers, and situated nearer the James River. On 30 August 1643 Thomas also patented 200 acres on the south side of the Peankatanke River. Thomas Glasscock, Jane, and their sons Gregory, Thomas, and John lived on the Peankatanke patent in 1652 for in that year Thomas was appointed Justice of the Peace for the Peankatanke area by the Burgesses, sitting in Jamestown.

On 28 July 1652 Thomas Glasscock was granted a patent for 600 acres about 30 miles north of his Peankatanke land on Morattico Creek in Lancaster County and on 9 January 1662, he patented an additional 280 acres adjoining this property. He and his family settled on Morattico Creek during the early 1660's. The name Morattico was derived from the Moraughtacund Indians who lived in this area.

Thomas Glasscock was a well-to-do tobacco planter, his lands tended by slaves or indentured servants. He died before 3 June 1667, for his eldest son Gregory was then in possession of the Morattico Creek property.

The family name may be found spelled Glascock, Glascocke, or Glasscocke his will we find the following: "Whereas, I am now in possession of the groes & personal estate of Thos. Glascock which was forfeited to me as the proprietor's agent upon the conviction of the said Thos. Glascock for murder, these negroes and personal estate I give to my son John and his heirs, desiring him to be kind to the Children of the s'd Glascock, such of them as he shall think deserves it, in some proportion to the value of the estate as whereas there is an outlawry prosecuting at the General Court in order to attain the s'd Glascock, that his lands may be escheated, which are also now in my possession. My will is that if my son John comes to enjoy the said Glascock's lands under good title that he then further consider the s'd Glascock's children in such proportion as he shall think fit, or otherwise gratifie them according to his discretion." Carter's will, written in 1726, is filed in Lancaster County.

Robert Carter's wish was apparently honored as John and Peter later were granted land belonging to John Carter in Prince William (now Fauquier) County.

IV

John Glasscock, Sr., son to Sarah Stone and Thomas Glasscock born 14 January 1699 in Richmond County, Virginia died before 28 June 1784 in Fauquier County, Virginia aged about 85 years buried in Rockburn Cemetery, Fauquier County, Virginia married in 1728 or before to

Margaret Orear

Children:

1. William, born 9 April 1729, probably died as a child
2. Thomas, born 9 March 1731
3. Mary, born 30 July 1734
4. John, Jr., born 21 September 1736
5. Susanna, born 18 February 1739
6. George, born 2 July 1741
7. Margaret, born c. 1745
8. Hezekiah, born 22 January 1746

BIOGRAPHY:

In 1728 John Glasscock obtained a patent of 633 acres "above the thoroughfare of Broad Run, at the foot of Mother Leathercoat Mountain" in Prince William County. This property, located north of present day Rectortown, later fell into Fauquier County when that part was cut off from Prince William County. His home was called "Rockburn" because of his custom of building fires on large rocks to break them up for use in constructing his home and fences. The house, consisting of four rooms and a cellar, was burned and rebuilt during the Civil War, and remained in the Glasscock family into the ch lead to small rooms for powdering wigs. Outbuildings included slaves' quarters, a barn, a carriage shed and a well house. Foundations of the old kitchen, ice house and well still remain.

In addition to stories of the local Negroes about strange sounds and ghosts which inhabit the old house, there is one which seems plausible..... (concerning) a secret tunnel which leads from the house to nearby Lancaster Creek. Here a boat could have been hidden to give people a chance to escape from Indians on the warpath and to get to the larger settlements down the river. Even today, a man stamping on the ground near the gate under which the tunnel is supposed to pass, causes hollow vibrations to resound in a living room fireplace which is suspect, for there is a sizable space behind that is unaccounted for.

There is no doubt whatsoever that this magnificent colonial structure, which still stands on the promontory above Morattico Creek where its two branches enter into the Rappahannock, was built on land originally patented by Thomas Glasscock and that it remained a center of Glasscock activity for about a hundred and thirty years until 1822 when it was sold outside the Glasscock family."

FATHER Thomas GLASCOCKE-291

Thomas is believed to be the first Glascock in America, arriving in 1643 from Essex Co., England. He made claim for 130 acres of land in what is now between Newport News and Yorktown, Va. He also patented (claimed) 200 acres on the Peankatanke River which is one the peninsula between the York and Rappahannock Rives that flow into Chesapeake Bay. He was the 5th person to claim land in this area and was indeed an original settler.

In 1652, Thomas was appointed Justice of the Peace in York Co., Va. and was granted 600 acres about 30 miles north.

In 1662, he was granted an additional 280 acres adjoining the 600 previously held. He moved north about this time.

This land was called the "Northern Neck" and can be located on the enclosed map.

MOTHER Jane-292

CHILD 1 Gregory GLASCOCKE-293 (1634)

Earmarks of his cattle and hogs were recorded in Feb. 22, 1665, indicating that he was of age.

By 1667 he owned his father's land, indicating that he was the oldest son. He referred to himself as a "Rappahannock Planter", which meant he was well to do.

CHILD 2 Thomas GLASCOCKE-294 (1643)

Thomas apparently amassed considerable wealth for his family. In 1667 and 1683 he was deeded parts of his fathers land inherited by his brother, Gregory. In 1691, he and his wife Anne Nichols were willed over 1,000 acres of lande by her father. He was listed as "Gentleman" in legal papers, a step above "Planter".

Children: Jean, George, Frances, Anne, Winifred, Mary were born between 1673 and 1690. Only one son to carry on name.

Son George m. Million Downman and built a home called "Indian Banks" in 1699. The home stands today.

Daughter Anne m. Col. John Tarpley. Their grandson, James Tarpley was a prominent merchant in Williamsburg, Va. and in 1761 he gave the historic bell to Bruton Parish Church which is still there.

CHILD 3 John GLASCOCKE-295

May be the John who appeared in Northumberland Co. in 1712 & Westmoreland Co. 1712-1731. May have had daughter, Rebecca, who m. Col. William Travers.

MOTHER Mary-296

Mary had a second marriage to Richard Peacock, who gave her children 10,000 pounds of tobacco in 1695.

CHILD 1 Thomas GLASCOCK-297 (1662)

Thomas (2nd) resided on Farnham Creek in Richmond Co., Va. In 1715 he acted on a committee to take depositions on a property question. In 1718 & 1719 he was appointed surveyor of the road from Capt. Tarpleys to the main road.

On Nov. 5, 1723, Thomas "made an assault on the body of Wm. Forrester by stabbing him with a knife by means whereof the said Forrester instantly 'dyed' ". After the attack, he fled to the south and was never heard from again. (Perhaps he fled to N. C. to live with his Uncle John.) His son, Gregory, who was 23 at the time, accompanied him on his escape and was later arraigned by a Richmond Co. Court as an accessory after the murder. After hearing the testimony of Gregory and his brothers John and Thomas, Jr., the court found that "the principall not being attained, noe indictment will lye against the Accessory, therefore the said Gregory Glascock is admitted to Baillie" (He had to acknowledge himself "Indebted to our Sovereign Lord the King" & post a bond of 40 pounds sterling and appear before the court at any time called within a "Twelve month and a Day". There was no trial.

Both personal and real property were taken by Robert "King" Carter, the richest man in Va. and the representative of Lord Fairfax, proprietor of Va. "King" Carter's 1726 will states "if my son John comes to enjoy the said Glascock's lands under a good title that then he further consider the said Glascock's children in such proportion as he shall think fitt, or otherwise gratify them according to his discretion". Both John and Peter Glascock settled on land belonging to John Carter in Prince William Co., which may indicate that John Carter did honor the request of his father's will. But as "King" Carter had amassed more than 300,000 acres of Virginia land by 1726, perhaps it was hard to purchase any property that did not belong to him or his heirs.

At any rate, Thomas' children had to leave the Tidewater of Va. and start over in the west.

m. Charnel Hightower in 1717/18. Moved to N. C.

CHILD 6 Peter GLASCOCK-306 (1714)

m. by 1735 to Jane.

By 1741 Peter had left Richmond Co. and moved northwest to the "backwoods", joining his oldest brother John. In 1741, he leased 200 acres and continued to live in this area for 20 more years. (This land was 5 miles southwest of the present town of Manassas and 7 miles south of the Manassas National Battlefield - Bull Run).

By the early 1760s, Jane died and he remarried to Mary Rector. They had 7 children: Spencer, Charles, Moses, Wm., Wharton, Elijah, and Margaret.

Peter and Mary moved with their family a few miles northwest and settled in what is known as "Ashby's Gap", a pass thru the Blue Ridge Mountains in present day Fauquier Co., Va. A neighbor of Peter's was John Marshall, who became Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in 1801. Peter was sued for 2 pounds - he lost to Justice Marshall.

He was 61 when the Revolution began. Because of his service as a road "reviewer" his descendants are entitled to membership in the DAR.

In 1782, Fauquier Co. tax lists show he owned 11 slaves.

In 1782, he moved to Rowan Co., N.C. with most of his second family. His 1783 will leaves most of his property to his second family, with the children of his first wife receiving one shilling each. They had remained in Virginia.

BIOGRAPHY:

The Richmond County Court of 1 June 1692 declared that Thomas Glasscock had "arrived at full age" so we are certain that he was born before 1671. Another source (Glassco, page 139) mentions that Thomas Glasscock received land from his father Gregory in 1683, and gave his date of birth as 1 June 1662.

Thomas Glasscock lived on Farnham Creek, about three miles north of Indian Banks, then occupied by his first cousin, George Glasscock. During the early part of the 18th century, the Glasscocks enlarged their tobacco plantation and estate on Farnham Creek. Active in community affairs, Thomas was appointed to a committee to settle a property question in 1715 and in 1718 and 1719 he was appointed a highway surveyor.

On 5 November 1724 tragedy befell the family when Thomas "made an assault on the Body of William Forrester by Stabbing him with a knife by means whereof he said Forrester instantly Dyed". No further details of the event are available, for no trial was held. Thomas, accompanied by his son Gregory, fled southward and was never heard from again. There was a court case on 11 January 1725 in which some of Thomas's sons testified. John Glasscock (age 24) and Thomas Glasscock, Jr. (age 18) testified at the trial of their brother Gregory who was charged with helping his father escape in a boat; Gregory was judged to be an accessory to the murder, but was admitted to bail and released on his own recognizance. The testimony, which appears on pages 67- of the 11 January 1725 Court record is as follows:

"John Glasscock aged twenty four years or thereabouts, being sworn saith that on the fifth of November last about midnight he saw Thomas Glasscock and Gregory Glasscock set off in a boat from Thomas Glasscocks landing on Farnham Creek and that the said Gregory Glasscock assisted in Carrying Down from the house to the boat provisions and other goods and that he also saw the s^d. Gregory Glasscock set the said boat off from the Landing with an Oar about the distance of forty yards and further saith not.

Gregory Glasscock being Examined saith that on the fifth of November last about midnight he set off in a boat with his father Thomas Glasscock from their landing, and the next morning his father put him on shoar the other side of the River about five miles below Morattico Creek, and then he Travelled to Gloucester Town and went over the ferrey to York Town and from thence to Hampton Town and so went over James River and landed at one Willson's, and from thence Travelled through Norfolk Town and went to a place Called the Northwest Landing, and then came back about two days before Christmas to the house of one Nemehiah Jones, and from thence made the rest of his way home."

As a result of the conviction, all of the land and possessions of Thomas Glasscock were taken by Robert ("King") Carter, agent of the Proprietor (Lord Fairfax). In Robert Carter's will, specific instructions were given to his heirs to the benefit of the children of Thomas Glasscock. Though Carter now had possession of the Glasscock estate, he was apparently in sympathy with the family.

FATHER Peter GLASCOCK-306 (1714)

m. by 1735 to Jane.

By 1741 Peter had left Richmond Co. and moved northwest to the "backwoods", joining his oldest brother John. In 1741, he leased 200 acres and continued to live in this area for 20 more years. (This land was 5 miles southwest of the present town of Manassas and 7 miles south of the Manassas National Battlefield - Bull Run).

By the early 1760s, Jane died and he remarried to Mary Rector. They had 7 children: Spencer, Charles, Moses, Wm., Wharton, Elijah, and Margaret.

Peter and Mary moved with their family a few miles northwest and settled in what is known as "Ashby's Gap", a pass thru the Blue Ridge Mountains in present day Fauquier Co., Va. A neighbor of Peter's was John Marshall, who became Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in 1801. Peter was sued for 2 pounds - he lost to Justice Marshall.

He was 61 when the Revolution began. Because of his service as a road "reviewer" his descendants are entitled to membership in the DAR.

In 1782, Fauquier Co. tax lists show he owned 11 slaves.

In 1782, he moved to Rowan Co., N.C. with most of his second family. His 1783 will leaves most of his property to his second family, with the children of his first wife receiving one shilling each. They had remained in Virginia.

MOTHER Jane-307

CHILD 1 John GLASCOCK-308 (1736)

m. Mary

Was a tailor by trade.

Children: John, Anna, Lydia, William, Thomas, Peter, Downing

MURDERED BY HIS DEBTOR

Lebanon, Ky., April 30.

Samuel Hayes, twenty-one years of age, was shot and killed last evening, at Riley, a small town nine miles east of here, by his brother-in-law, Thomas Hourigan, a practicing physician of that place. The tragedy resulted from a quarrel over a small debt which Hourigan owed. The murderer came to Lebanon and gave himself up. Hayes belongs to one of the wealthiest families of this county.

A CLOSE CALL FROM A MOB

Louisville, June 28

A determined effort to lynch Dr. Thomas Hourigan, who shot Samuel Hay, was made by a mob at Lebanon, Ky., Tuesday night. The cell doors were battered down, but the prisoner's life was saved at the last moment by a volley from the sheriff's revolver, which scattered the crowd until law-abiding citizens came to the rescue. It was a narrow escape, and Hourigan was badly frightened.

J. P. Hourigan, Jr., died Tuesday evening at 10 o'clock at his home at Riley after several months illness of a complication of diseases. He had been in declining health for about eight months. Mr. Hourigan was born at Riley and had been a resident of that community most of his life. He was twenty-nine years of age. He was married to Miss Pauline Glasscock December 31, 1921. Surviving him are his widow, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hourigan, Sr., and four brothers and one sister as follows: Messrs. S. T., Fred, A. J. and R. B. Hourigan, all of this county, and Mrs. Mattie Gray, of near Harrodsburg. Mr. Hourigan was widely known in the community. He was an energetic young man and his many friends will learn with sorrow of his death. He had held several responsible positions, filling each with satisfaction and always making good. He was telegraph operator, rural mail carrier, railway mail clerk, operator in the naval radio wireless service during the World War, and for the past several years had been engaged in the mercantile business at Riley. Mr. Hourigan was a Mason and a member of Marion Commandery No. 24, Knights Templar. Early in life he united with the Haysville Baptist church in which faith he died. The funeral was held at Haysville church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, the Rev. J. W. Martin conducting the services. Burial was in Haysville cemetery. Marion Comandery having charge of the services at the grave.

This Thomas Glascock was Brigadier General Thomas Glascock Jr. His father was Brigadier General Thomas Glascock Sr.
His grandfather, Col. William Glascock (acting Governor of Georgia during the American Revolution). Brigadier General Thomas Glascock Jr. served with Andrew Jackson during the Seminole Wars and also served in the War of 1812 which ended in 1815. Thomas Jr. was an attorney about the time this marriage bond was made. Thomas Jr. later became a state representative and later too a US Congressman. I believe that Glascock County, Georgia was named in honor of him. Thomas Jr. also had a brother named William that probably is on the census that you refer to in your posting at the other Glascock Genforum.

tioner to mark the western line of the northern neck, granted to Lord Culpeper. In 1749 Joshua Fry and Peter Jefferson completed their map of Virginia, and the same year he was one of the commissioners to continue the line between Virginia and North Carolina, which in 1728 had been run from the Atlantic ocean to Peter's Creek by William Byrd and others. This line was completed to the Tennessee river by Thomas Walker and David Smith, on the part of Virginia as commissioners. In 1752 he was one of the commissioners to negotiate the treaty of Logstown in the Ohio, by which the "Six Nations" surrendered their claim to the territory south of the Ohio river. When the French and Indian war began, Fry was made colonel of the regiment to defend the Ohio river, and Washington was lieutenant-colonel. Soon after, while on the march, he died at Willis' Creek, May 31, 1754. He married Mary Micon, widow of Colonel Hill, and daughter of Paul Micon, who was an exile from France to Essex county.

French, Daniel, lived in Culpeper county where he was one of the justices. He was son of Hugh French, of St. Mary's parish, Richmond county, who died about 1701, and father of Margaret French, who married James Strother.

Fulford, "Mr. Francis," was Burgess from Henrico in the assembly of 1641.

Gaines, Harry, was Burgess for King William county in 1766 and 1767, and major of the militia. He died in July, 1767.
Gaddes (Gadis), John, Burgess for James City county in 1703-1706.

Gale, Thomas, was a Burgess from Isle of Wight in the assembly of 1752-1755.

Galt, Dr. John M., was son of Samuel Galt, a covenanter, of Londonderry, Ireland, who came to Virginia about 1735, and married Lucy Servant. He was born in 1744, was educated at William and Mary College and studied medicine at Edinburgh and Paris, 1765-66-67. He was for a time a surgeon with the Hudson Bay Company, settled in Williamsburg, Virginia, and was vestryman of Bruton parish church. In 1774 he was one of the committee of safety for Williamsburg. During the American war he had charge of the sick soldiers in the hospitals in and around Williamsburg. He married Judith Craig, daughter of Alexander Craig and Mary Manpin, his wife. He died in 1808.

Galthorpe, Stephen, sailed with the first settlers to Virginia in 1606. In the West Indies he attempted to raise a mutiny among the passengers. He died during the summer at Jamestown, August 15, 1607.

Gany, William, came to Virginia in 1616, and his wife Ann came in 1620. In 1624, aged thirty-three, he was living at Elizabeth City. In 1635 he obtained a patent for land in Accomac, due him on account of the personal adventure of his wife Ann, son William, daughter Ann, brother Henry Gany, and the importation of twenty-one servants.

Gardner, Captain Thomas, had command in 1673 of his majesty's hired ship The Barbadoes. In 1676 he was in command of The Adam and Eve stationed in James river and captured Bacon when he came to take part in the assembly after his first march against the Indians. This caused his arrest during Bacon's assembly and his being imprisoned and fined.

Garnett, James, son of John Garnett, of Essex county, was a Burgess from Essex county in 1741 and in the assembly of 1742-1747. He married Elizabeth Muscoe, daughter of Salvator Muscoe, a lawyer and Burgess, and his will was proved in Essex county, July 15, 1765. He was father of Muscoe Garnett, who married Grace Fen-ton Mercer, daughter of John Mercer, the celebrated lawyer.

Gaskins, Thomas, son of Thomas Gaskins and Mary Conway, daughter of Colonel Edwin Conway, was Burgess for Northumberland county in 1766-1768; lieutenant-colonel, justice, etc. He married Sarah Eustace, and was father of Thomas Gaskins, lieutenant-colonel of the Fourth Virginia Regiment in the revolution. His will was proved April 12, 1785.

Glascock, Thomas, member of an influential family of Richmond county, was Burgess for that county in the assembly of May, 1769.

George, John, patented, in 1635, 900 acres on Bayley's Creek in Prince George county, due for the importation of his wife Jane and seventeen other persons. He was afterwards a prominent citizen of Isle of Wight county, for which he was Burgess in 1647 and 1652; lieutenant-colonel of militia, etc. He died in 1678.

Gerrard, Dr. Thomas, an early emigrant to Maryland, where he was for a long time member of the council. His first wife was Susanna, daughter of Justinian Snow.

John is also credited by tradition with military service during the Revolutionary War. The SAR papers of Herbert Ray Odell state that John Glasscock, Jr. served in the 14th Virginia Regiment; however, a search of the references used disclosed that the service was performed by John Glass, a gentleman of military age from Goochland County. The National and Virginia Archives contain no records of military service for John Glasscock. At least two published histories state that he was a Revolutionary soldier and no doubt he was. No official documentation of this service has yet been found. Nevertheless, his descendants and those of his brothers are eligible for DAR or SAR membership on the basis of their public service of providing flour, rye, and beef for the Continental Army.

On 17 March 1769 George Washington made a lifetime lease to John Glasscock, Jr., his wife Elizabeth and son Hezekiah for 100 acres on Pantherskin Run, Ashby's Bent of Blue Ridge (recorded 28 August 1769 in Fauquier County Deed Book 3, pages 460-465). Ashby's Gap in the Blue Ridge Mountains, a favorite gateway to the west, is in the exact northeast corner of Fauquier County.

About 1799 John moved from Fauquier County to Monongalia County in what is now West Virginia. He first settled on Pharoah's Run in (now) Marion County and in 1803 settled on Indian Creek in Monongalia County above the present town of Arnettsville, probably on the (1912) Benjamin J. Miller farm, where he is buried with his wife and one daughter. Monongalia County deed books show that John Glasscock purchased 100 acres from Zachariah Barker on 11 April 1803 (recorded in 1806); he conveyed this land to his son John on 6 February 1817, and probably died shortly thereafter. The deed was acknowledged in April 1817 and again on 5 October 1817 by Elizabeth Glasscock without her husband's presence or signature, indicating that he had died shortly after the deed was made. Elizabeth, of course, survived her husband and probably died after 1817. The land on which John and Elizabeth Glasscock are believed buried was located in 1974, but no trace of their graves was found.

20th century. The celler still remains as a wall in the garden of the present house. John is buried in Rockburn Cemetery.

John lived through the French and Indian Wars and is credited by the DAR as a Patriot of the American Revolution for supplying beef and bacon to the Continental Army. Several members of the DAR have used the record of John Glasscock, Sr. as a basis for membership. Richmond County Court records for 3 April 1782 show that he was given recompense for 86 lb of bacon at 1 shilling per pound and for 2,000 lb of grass beef at 20 shillings per hundred pounds; these supplies were "impressed by John How, deputy commissary of this county". We do not know why the record appears in Richmond County, but John was an elderly man of substantial means who probably had financial interests in the county where he formerly resided.

John Glasscock's will, found in Fauquier County Will Book 2, page 25, was written 9 December 1780 and probated 28 June 1784. Three of his children married members of the Rector family for whom Rectortown is named.

BIOGRAPHY:

John, Jr. and his three brothers George, Hezekiah, and Thomas all performed patriotic service during the Revolutionary War. The following records are found in the Public Service Claims of Fauquier County:

John and Elizabeth Glasscock had two great grandsons who became governors of their respective states. Leanna Glasscock Mellett was the grandmother of Arthur Calvin Mellette, the first elected governor of South Dakota when it became a state in 1889. Note his line added an "e" to the name Mellett. Charles Glasscock was the grandfather of William E. Glasscock, governor of West Virginia from 1909 to 1913. These two men were second cousins of each other.

6. Susan, born 15 March 1815 in Monongalia County

BIOGRAPHY:

Judith Glasscock's name also appears as Juda, Judy, or Judah in other records. Jesse Mellett's parents are believed to have their origins in the Alsace-Lorraine region of France. Sarah was remembered to have spoken broken English, so she may have been an immigrant. John Mellett, Sr., born about 1745 in eastern Virginia, was probably of French Huguenot extraction (his parents were foreign born), had a brother who died at age 18, was a carpenter, and died about 1790 or 1792 in Loudoun County, Virginia. He married Sarah Suter in June 1771 in King George County, Virginia.

Sarah Suter was born about 1745 and died about 1815 in Monongalia County, West Virginia. Her father, Andrew Suter, purchased land in King George County, Virginia on 4 November 1756. He and his son Thomas later moved to Woodford County, Kentucky, where his will, written 14 May 1807 and recorded on page 124 of Woodford County Will Book C and proved 4 January 1808, listed his daughter "Sarah Millet having married and left me".

Migration

GLASCOCK FAMILY

From England to Virginia to Ohio to Illinois to Iowa to Wyoming and finally to California and then Missouri, some sixteen generations of Glascok ancestors have been identified, beginning with the immigrant, Thomas Glascok. Their story begins with early English church members, continues to the time of early migration into the colonies, and then parallels the development of this nation as settlers moved westward in the quest for more and better land.

The European origins of immigrant Thomas Glascok, though, have not been definitely identified. Lawrence A. Glassco, who has researched the family for many years, has published his findings in two family histories. He has identified three possible families for the immigrant Thomas:¹

- The Glascok family of High Easter and Farnham, county Essex, England. Within this family group, which is the one most often cited, the earliest ancestor is sometimes given as William, who was born in High Easter in 1528, and sometimes given as John of High Easter, who was born about 1550 and died 11 February 1638. The immigrant's father is usually identified as Henry of Farnham, who married Margery Fitch.
- The Glascok family of Much Dunmow and Ireland, whose father was Charles of Athy Parish, county Kildare, and whose mother was Margery [—?—]. William Glascok, born about 1525, is the earliest known ancestor in this line.
- The Glascok family of Felsted, county Essex, England. The father of the immigrant of this family was Sir William Glascok of Wormley, a small village a few miles north of London, and the family continues back to William Glascok of Felsted, county Essex.

Sorting out these conflicting and very different possible lineages will take extensive research into the Glascok records in England and Ireland. For now all that can be said with certainty is that Thomas Glascok was of British ancestry.

First Generation—The Immigrant, By 1643

1. THOMAS¹ GLASCOCK

Thomas Glascok was born before 1620 in England and died before 1667 in Old Rappahannock County, Virginia.² On 17 June 1634 in England, he married JEAN (ORMARY) JUET,³ of whom only her name is known.

Thomas Glascok immigrated to Virginia before 1643.⁴ At the time of his arrival, Virginia encouraged settlement by offering free land in exchange for paying the costs of transporting new residents—a system called headrights. The individual who paid the costs could claim from the Virginia government fifty acres of land for each immigrant. First, though, the payer had to petition the county court for a "certificate of importation" and take his certificate to the Secretary of the Colony to get his "right" recorded. Then the individual returned to the county, where an official surveyed the chosen land and created a plat or map of the tract that included measurements. Finally, the individual returned to the Secretary of the Colony with the survey and was issued a patent for the land as long as there were no conflicts over the survey. More than once the same land was claimed by two or more individuals, so additional steps were needed before a patent was issued. Two conditions were attached to each patent: first, the owner had to pay a rent, usually called a "quitrent," to the crown of one shilling for each fifty acres owned; and, second, the owner had to build a house and keep livestock or begin to cultivate at least one acre of land within three years. These requirements were called seating and planting.⁵

Land records show that Thomas was one of those who took advantage of the headrights system to acquire property. On 30 August 1643 he received two land grants. The first, for 130 acres⁶ in Warwick River County for transporting three persons, was for land that adjoined his property, indicating Thomas already owned land in Virginia. The second grant, for 200 acres along the Peankatanke River, was for transporting four individuals including himself and wife Jean.⁷ Various records indicate Thomas lived on the Warwick River property from as early as 1651.⁸ He was appointed a justice of the peace in Peankatanke in 1652 and served as commissioner at a court for Warwick County on 12 April of the same year.⁹

Thomas later received 600 acres in Lancaster County along the Moratico Creek—partly by "trading" his earlier 200-acre grant and partly from additional headrights for transporting eight more individuals. A final patent, dated 9 January 1662, was for 280 acres on the north side of Old Rappahannock County at the head of the Moratico Creek adjoining land he then lived on for transporting six people.¹⁰ When he settled along the Rappahannock River, Thomas was a tobacco planter.

The 1662 patent was deserted "for want of due seating and planting," then later taken up by his son Thomas on 23 October 1677. It was deserted a second time, granted to Edward Eastrice on 3 May 1682, and finally sold back to son Thomas.¹¹

Thomas Glascock died without a will. According to Virginia law, all his land became the property of his oldest son, Gregory, who later sold portions to his brothers.

2. GREGORY² GLASCOCK (*Thomas*¹)

Born before 1644 in Virginia, Gregory Glascok died about 1688 in Farnham Parish, Richmond County, Virginia. He married, before 1662 in Virginia, MARY FAUNTLEROY,¹³ daughter of Moore Fauntleroy. She was born about 1650 and died about February 1695/1696, both in Virginia.¹⁴

In colonial Virginia the church parish was both a religious and a civil unit. On the religious side, each new settlement had its own church with specified boundaries (the parish). The church was affiliated with the Church of England, later called the Protestant Episcopal Church. On the civil side, the parish was the official record keeper for the area, regardless of church membership (or lack thereof). Vital events were recorded in the parish registers for all area residents. Parish records were treated as official government records.¹⁵ Because of their official purpose, parish registers often included records of individuals known to be members of other denominations, such as Quakers. Events such as Gregory's birth were often noted as occurring in a specific parish because that is where the record was located.

On 18 January 1662, Gregory Glascok received 600 acres of land on the Moratico Creek in Rappahannock, Virginia, from his father, Thomas.¹⁶ Likely this transaction took place at about the time of his marriage or when he reached the age of twenty-one and could legally dispose of property he owned. The birth of his first child, Thomas, on 1 June 1662 would strongly indicate he had married by the time of the transfer.

Three years later, on 22 February 1665, Gregory recorded an earmark for cattle and hogs in Rappahannock; his brother Thomas recorded an earmark the same day.¹⁷ Earmarks, like the cattle brands later used in the American West, were a method of identifying the owners of livestock by assigning unique markings to each owner. Rarely were properties fenced, so animals could easily wander. Owners had to be of legal age to have their own mark. During the colonial period these brands were registered in the local courts and the descriptions of many of them survive.¹⁸

Before 1667 Gregory sold 200 of the 600 acres of land on the Moratico Creek he had received from his father. The purchase price was 6,000 pounds of tobacco—a commodity that was often used in place of money. That same year he sold 100 acres to his brother Thomas.¹⁹ In the last records found for him, Gregory gave his brother Thomas a power of attorney to deal with an estate settlement²⁰ and on 4 September 1678 transferred ownership of a horse “to George Glascok, son of my brother Thomas Glascok and my godson, for good will, love and affection I bear him . . . one mare filly, a dark bay with white starr in her forehead foaled in June last from the mare called Jenny, and the increase.”²¹

After Gregory's death, Mary married as her second husband, Richard Peacock. On 1 November 1695 they recorded an agreement by which her property would go to her children.²² Similar agreements were often made by women at the time of their marriage. Without these legal agreements, any property owned by the woman at the time of her marriage would have become her husband's, and he could direct its disposal. Mary's estate was probated at the February 1695/1696 court.²³

Children of Gregory² and Mary (Fauntleroy) Glascock, as now identified, all born presumably in Old Rappahannock County (now Richmond County), Virginia:²⁴

- + 6 i. THOMAS³ GLASCOCK, born 1 June 1662.
- 7 ii. MARY GLASCOCK, twin, born 10 November 1673, died about December 1721,²⁵ married (1) Zacharias Nichols and (2) Thomas Carpenter on 13 January 1717.
- 8 iii. ANNE GLASCOCK, twin, born 10 November 1673, died before 24 July 1704, married John Wilson.

Third Generation—Murder Charge, 1723

6. THOMAS³ GLASCOCK (*Gregory*², *Thomas*¹)

Thomas Glascock was born in Virginia, probably in Old Rappahannock County, on 1 June 1662²⁶ and died in Virginia about 1730. Sometime before 1698 in Richmond County, Virginia, he married SARAH STONE, the daughter of William and Sarah [—?—] Stone,^A born 1671 in Richmond County and died there on 8 January 1726.²⁷

Sarah's family, like that of Thomas, were early arrivals to Virginia. The immigrant was George Stone, born about 1597, who was in Virginia by 1636. His son John was born in Virginia at about the same time. John's son William, born in 1666, was Sarah's father.²⁸

About the time he married Sarah Stone, Thomas Glascock found that his home was in Richmond County rather than Old Rappahannock.²⁹ Rather than a move, the change was a boundary adjustment. In 1692 Old Rappahannock County was divided into Essex and Richmond Counties and the original county ceased to exist. All records from the original county went to Essex County. Adding to the confusion is the existence of a modern-day Rappahannock County in the Shenandoah Valley area.

The change did not prevent Thomas from being involved in a 1711 land dispute with Capt. William Woodbridge over the boundaries of the Old Rappahannock property.³⁰ During the dispute Thomas presented the court with a patent for 5,350 acres of land that had been granted to his maternal grandfather, Capt. Moore Fauntleroy, on 22 May 1650.³¹ Surviving details of the dispute are sketchy, but perhaps the land in question was part of this grant and Thomas was attempting to prove his right to the property by showing the grant. If nothing else, the existing records do prove the connection between Thomas Glascock and Moore Fauntleroy.

When Mary Carpenter died in Farnham Parish about December 1721, she included her brother Thomas and two of his sons, as well as others, in her will. To her brother Thomas, Mary willed "a Negro man named Robin," six pieces of good linen, twelve new diaper napkins, and "all my new nails." Diaper was a cloth woven in a diamond pattern.³² John and Thomas, sons of Thomas, each received a featherbed and furniture and a cow; John also received a young horse and an iron pot. The rest of her estate was left to John Tarpley Jr. and John Tarpley Sr., but no relationship to these heirs was given.³³

The two oldest sons of Thomas and Sarah were also included in the 1704 will of her father, William Stone, who was by then living in Farnham Parish, Richmond County. For some reason Gregory and John took Sarah's place as an heir and neither Sarah nor Thomas were mentioned in the document. When Sarah's mother, also named Sarah, wrote her own will in 1711, she did not mention any Glascok heirs, though she devised to her daughter Elizabeth Dawson a tract of land containing forty acres near land owned by George Glascok.³⁴

Although he had already had several encounters with the authorities with the 1711 land dispute and his children's inheritances, the biggest legal conflict of Thomas's life was still to come. On 5 November 1723 he was accused of stabbing William Forrester to death. Thomas's son Gregory was brought before the Richmond County court investigating alleged assistance given Thomas in escaping. Gregory testified, according to court records, that:

On the Fifth of November Last about midnight he set off in a boat with his father Thomas Glascok from their Landing, and the next morning his Father put him on Shoar the other side of the River about five miles below Moratticoe Creek, and then he Travelled to Glocester town and went over the Ferrey to York Town and from thence went to Hampton Town and soe went over James River and Landed at one Willsons. And from thence Traveled through Norfolk Town and went to a Place Called the Northwest Landing, and then came back about Two Days before Christmass [sic] to the house of one Nehimiah Jones, and from thence made the best of his way home.³⁵

Additional testimony was solicited from Gregory's brothers John and Thomas. John, then twenty-four, said he watched Gregory carry provisions and other goods to the boat and then set off from the shore with their father. Thomas, eighteen, simply repeated his brother's words. The court found that Gregory was an accessory after the fact. He was required to post a bond of forty pounds sterling, and additional bonds of twenty pounds each were posted by George Devonpart and Hugh Harris. Gregory was allowed bail but was required to be available to appear in court at any time within twelve months and a day.³⁶ Perhaps it was to son Gregory's advantage that his family was one of the leading planter clans in the county when he appeared in court.³⁷ His sentence does seem rather mild.

Following the murder, Robert "King" Carter, the Virginia burgess and councillor, took charge of both Thomas's personal property and real estate. No trial was ever held³⁸ and Thomas eventually returned to Virginia, where he died.³⁹

Children of Thomas³ and Sarah (Stone) Glascock, all born probably in Richmond County, Virginia:⁴⁰

- 9 i. JOHN⁴ GLASCOCK, born 14 January 1699 and mentioned in the 1704 will of his grandfather William Stone,⁴¹ married Margaret Orear.
- + 10 ii. GREGORY GLASCOCK, born 10 March 1700.
- 11 iii. ELIZABETH GLASCOCK, born 20 April 1703.

Fourth Generation—Young Widower, 1730

10. GREGORY⁴ GLASCOCK (Thomas³, Gregory², Thomas¹)

Gregory Glascock was born on 10 March 1700 in Farnham Parish, Richmond County, Virginia, and died in the same county in 1752.⁴³ His first wife was Alice Elder, who died 25 June 1730 in Richmond County.⁴⁴ At North Farnham Parish, Richmond County, he married, second, on 29 January 1730/1731, ELIZABETH ELDER.⁴⁵ The daughter of William and Ann [—?—] Elder,^B she was born on 4 September 1712, probably in Richmond County.⁴⁶

Like his older brother John, Gregory Glascock was a beneficiary named in the 1704 will of his grandfather William Stone.⁴⁷

Gregory's first wife, Alice Elder, died on 25 June 1730, just a month after the birth of William, their second child and first son.⁴⁸ Left with two young children to care for, Gregory remarried within six months. His second wife was Elizabeth Elder,⁴⁹ with whom he had five additional children. Any relationship between Alice and Elizabeth is undetermined.

The Moratico Creek, site of the home of the Glascock immigrant, Thomas, was also a place where Gregory owned property. On 29 July 1736 he sold fifty acres along the creek. To review and protect her dower rights on the sale of the property, Elizabeth appointed Charnock Hightower as her attorney.⁵⁰ When a husband died without a will, his wife was entitled to a portion of his estate for her maintenance and that of any children. Dower was the term given to this right.⁵¹ While women were usually asked, most often out of their husband's presence, if they actually concurred with a sale of real estate and gave up their dower rights, rarely did one actually have any question about her rights to the property.

William, son of Gregory and Alice (Elder) Glascock, settled in Georgia where he was an attorney and speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives. He was sometimes called the "Rebel Counselor" because he supported the idea of American independence.⁵²

19. TRAVERSE⁵ GLASCOCK (Gregory⁴, Thomas³, Gregory², Thomas¹)

Traverse Glascock was born on 1 October 1734, most likely in Richmond County, Virginia, and died in Fauquier County in 1784. He married, probably before 1750, DINAH BOWLES,⁵⁶ who is thought to be the daughter of Charles and Phyllis [—?—] Bowles.⁵⁷

When his mother-in-law died, Traverse Glascock was named executor of her estate. In the will dated 15 June 1750, Phillis Bowles left all her estate "of whatever kind"—except the one shilling sterling "and no more" bequeathed to her daughter Elizabeth—to "Dinah Glascock, wife of Travers Glascock and to her heirs forever." Perhaps Phillis felt Elizabeth had already received her share of the estate or perhaps there had been an estrangement between mother and daughter. On 4 September 1758, Traverse appeared at the Richmond County court and presented the will, which was then accepted as a legal record the same day.⁵⁸

Traverse likely was engaged in farming and had little contact with local authorities, therefore leaving few records.

Children of Traverse⁵ and Dinah (Bowles) Glascock, all born probably in Richmond County, Virginia:⁵⁹

- 22 i. BENJAMIN⁶ GLASCOCK, born 16 September 1760, married Peggy Flowerree in Fauquier County, Virginia, by bond dated 23 April 1792.⁶⁰

Sixth Generation—Move to Ohio, About 1830

29. ELI⁶ GLASCOCK (Traverse⁵, Gregory⁴, Thomas³, Gregory², Thomas¹)

Born 19 October 1774,⁶² probably in Richmond County, Virginia, Eli Glascock died in Highland County, Ohio, in February 1844.⁶³ On 20 November 1798 in Culpeper County, Virginia, he married SUSANNAH BUMGARNER.⁶⁴ The daughter of Frederick and Sarah Bumgarner,^c she was born about 1788 and died in Highland County in 1854.⁶⁵

From his birthplace in Richmond County, Eli Glascock began the family migration away from the eastern seaboard. By 1796 he had moved northwest to Fauquier County, where he appeared that year on a tax list.⁶⁶

The marriage of Eli Glascock and Susannah Bumgarner took place in neighboring Culpeper County, Virginia, on 20 November 1798. A Baptist minister, Lewis Conner, performed the ceremony.⁶⁷ "Ely" Glascock witnessed the will of John McGammon in Culpeper County on 26 December 1802.⁶⁸ In 1813 Eli was involved in a land transaction with Robert Covington and Thomas Hawkins,⁶⁹ and he appeared in both the 1820 and 1830 census for Culpeper County.

Sometime about 1830 Eli moved his family again, this time to Highland County, Ohio, where they were pioneer settlers. The deed by which Eli purchased 200 acres of land from Jesse Ewick was dated 1831.

The town of Boston, located 6 miles east of Hissboror [Hillsboro] was platted on 7 November 1840 by Noah Glasscock. Eli and Susan Glascock emigrated from Culpeper County, Virginia, to Highland County in 1830. Their first home was on a farm adjoining the town.⁷⁰

Only a few years later, Eli died in February 1844 without leaving a will. His property was divided among his heirs. All of his children were named in the deed dividing Eli's property after his death.⁷¹

During the turbulent times that preceded the Civil War, many residents of the free states like Ohio made their homes available to blacks escaping slavery. Others helped direct or escort the escapees from one "station" to the next. With its location in the southern part of Ohio, Highland County was probably one of the first stops for those using this railway without tracks. Members of the Glascock family are known to have served as "conductors" on the Underground Railroad.⁷² Perhaps Susannah and her family were among the Glascocks involved in this activity.

Susannah continued to live in Highland County until her death in 1854,⁷³ making her home with her son Seth and daughter Mary at least part of the time.⁷⁴ Her sons George, William, Noah, and Joseph were also living there with their families.

Seventh Generation—Ohio Landowner, 183234. FREDERICK⁷ GLASCOCK (Eli⁶, Traverse⁵, Gregory⁴, Thomas³, Gregory², Thomas¹)

Frederick Glascock was born about 1802 in Virginia and died after 1850, probably in Highland County, Ohio.⁸² He married FANNY MILLER about 1832, probably in Ohio.⁸³ She was born about 1811 in Pennsylvania, the daughter of Jacob and Mary [—?—] Miller, and also died after 1850.⁸⁴

Fanny's father was Jacob Miller, who was born before 1800, and died before January 1847 in Highland County.⁸⁵ Two possible candidates to be his father have been identified. One is Adam Miller, who was buried in Highland County. The other is Philip Miller, who served in the American Revolution and died in Highland County in 1825 at the age of seventy-four years. Philip seems to be the more likely candidate only because Jacob named his oldest son Philip, but did not have a son Adam.

Sometime prior to his death, Jacob Miller acquired a 536-acre tract of land in Highland County. Since he died without a will, the property was divided among his heirs. The land records resulting from this division, filed in 1846, identify all of Jacob's heirs living at the time, including his sons-in-law: Philip; Jacob; Jane, who married Samuel Zink; Eliza, who married James Willett; Sarah, who married Andrew Blunt; Mary Ann, who married John Easter; Angeline, who married David Zink; William; Barbara, who married Silas Blunt; Carey; and Fanny, who married Frederick Glascock.⁸⁶

Frederick, a native of Virginia, presumably of the Blue Ridge area where his parents were living at the time, moved with his family to Ohio about 1830. His first purchase of land occurred on 4 October 1832 when he bought seventy-five acres from Gabriel Chaney in Highland County.⁸⁷

At about the time of his land purchase, Frederick married Fanny Miller. Their first child, a daughter named Mary, was born about 1833. The purchase of an additional sixty-five acres of land from the heirs of James Morrow on 16 May 1840 added to Frederick's real estate holdings.⁸⁸

On 15 January 1848 the land—536 acres on the waters of Rattlesnake Fork of Paint Creek—of the late Jacob Miller in Highland County was divided among his heirs. Daughter Fanny Glascock was listed as one of the heirs, and the children of Fanny and Frederick Glascock were to divide her one-eleventh part of the property. A guardian ad litem was appointed to represent the children, who eventually were paid for their shares.⁸⁹ Generally this type of record appears when both parents are deceased. However, both Frederick and Fanny were living in 1850 and appeared in the census for Highland County.⁹⁰ Perhaps Frederick and Fanny transferred their share to the children.

Eighth Generation—To Illinois, By 1860

48. EZRA⁸ GLASCOCK (Frederick⁷, Eli⁶, Traverse⁵, Gregory⁴, Thomas³, Gregory², Thomas¹)

Born in Ohio in December 1839, Ezra Glascock was living in Iowa County, Iowa, as late as 1 June 1900.⁹⁴ On 15 July 1862 in Whiteside County, Illinois, he married ELIZABETH SWITZER,⁹⁵ the daughter of William and Catherine (Shawley) Switzer,^D who was born in Pennsylvania in October 1844⁹⁶ and was living in Iowa in 1900.⁹⁷

Ezra Glascock was living with his parents in Highland County, Ohio, in 1850. He possibly was a twin as his brother Thara was also born in 1839.⁹⁸ Both were among the children of Fanny Glascock, who appeared in the court records concerning the property of their grandfather Jacob Miller.⁹⁹ Sometime between 1850 and 1860 Ezra and his brother Jacob moved west to Whiteside County, Illinois, where they appeared in the 1860 census as working on the farm of J. H. Brothwell. Curiously, Ezra (listed as E. W.) was listed with a birth place of Hesse Cassel, a part of Germany, while Jacob was listed as a native of Ohio.¹⁰⁰ Among their neighbors was the family of William and Catherine Switzer, whose daughter Elizabeth, listed as "Sonia,"¹⁰¹ would marry Ezra two years later in Whiteside County.¹⁰²

The young couple remained in Illinois for a few years; their first two children were born there. By the time Frank Eli, the youngest, was born, they had moved across the Mississippi River and still farther west to Warren County, Iowa, where they appeared in the 1870 census. At the time, Ezra was the owner of $2,800 worth of real estate. Ezra and Elizabeth's household included, besides their children, Thara Glascock.¹⁰³

Ezra and Elizabeth evidently lived in Iowa the remainder of their lives. They last appeared in the 1900 census, when they were living with their son Frank in Iowa County. At that time Elizabeth was the mother of four children, three of whom were still living.¹⁰⁴ The deceased child has not been identified and may have died in infancy, since only three children ever appeared in various census records.

^DFor more about this family, turn to the Switzer Family chapter.

Known children of Ezra⁸ and Elizabeth (Switzer) Glascock, the first two born in Illinois and the last in Iowa.¹⁰⁵

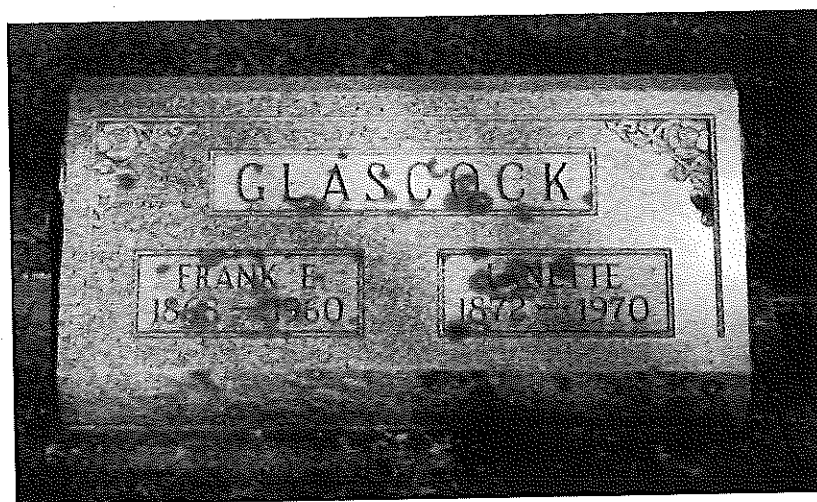

- 53 i. IRA⁹ GLASCOCK, born about 1864.
- 54 ii. EVA GLASCOCK, born about 1866.
- + 55 iii. FRANK ELI GLASCOCK, born 10 June 1868.

Ninth Generation—Born in Iowa, 1868

55. FRANK ELI⁹ GLASCOCK (Ezra⁸, Frederick⁷, Eli⁶, Traverse⁵, Gregory⁴, Thomas³, Gregory², Thomas¹)

Frank Eli Glascock was born in Indianola, Warren County, Iowa, on 10 June 1868¹⁰⁶ and died in West Union, Fayette County, Iowa, on 3 January 1960.¹⁰⁷ On 9 November 1892 in Westside, Crawford County, Iowa, he married LONETTE POWELL, the daughter of Charles Henry and Maria L. (Wagner) Powell.^B She was born 15 September 1872 in Clinton, Clinton County, Iowa, and died 12 March 1970, also in West Union.¹⁰⁸

The first Glascock ancestor to be born in Iowa, Frank remained there most of his life. His marriage to LoNette Powell took place on 9 November 1892 in Crawford County.¹⁰⁹ By 1900 the couple was living in Iowa County and by 1920 they had settled in West Union, Fayette County. Eli operated his own meat market at the time.¹¹⁰ Five years later, when a state census was taken for Iowa, Frank was engaged in a trade and was renting a house for thirty dollars per month.¹¹¹ Later in his life Frank was a keeper of the aircraft beacon.¹¹² He moved to Wyoming at one point, but returned to Iowa before his death.

LoNette's name appeared as Lo Nette and Lannette on various records, and as Lanette on her tombstone. She was educated at Westside High School in Clinton County. In 1913 she joined the Priscilla Alden Carroll Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (NSDAR) as a descendant of David Parke. Her mother had joined the society the previous year.¹¹³ LoNette served as regent of the Hannah Lee Chapter, and eventually marked fifty years of membership in the organization. She was also a Matron of the Order of Eastern Star.¹¹⁴

Frank Glascok died in West Union on 3 January 1960 at the advanced age of ninety-one.¹¹⁵ LoNette lived another decade, dying there on 12 March 1970 at ninety-seven.¹¹⁶ Both were buried at the West Union City Cemetery.¹¹⁷

Hannah Elizabeth Glascock m. James Waverly Anderson: d/o George F. Glascock

Transcribed from "An Illustrated History of The Big Bend Country, embracing Lincoln, Douglas, Adams and Franklin counties, State of Washington", published by Western Historical Publishing Co., 1904.

J. WAVERLY ANDERSON, one of the most prominent and one of the earliest pioneers of Lincoln county, and for several terms auditor of the county, resides at Davenport. He was born in Chesterfield county, Virginia, March 11, 1844, the son of Peter H. and Jane R. (Aiken) Anderson. Dr. Peter H. Anderson was a successful planter and practitioner of medicine of high standing and extended reputation. Both father and mother now reside in Yolo county, California. To her immediate family belonged that fine old country seat in Virginia, known as Verina, on the banks of the James river, seven miles below the city of Richmond. During the late war between the states it was known as Aiken's Landing, and was a point for the exchange of prisoners.

The parents of our subject, when he was fourteen years old, removed to the county of Henrico, near Richmond, and subsequently moved into the city where they resided until 1861. Dr. Anderson, considering the necessity of educating his sons, of whom there were five, purchased a farm in Prince Edward county, Virginia, in the neighborhood of the celebrated Hampden Sidney College, and of this institution his sons received the benefit. These educational plans were, however, frustrated by the opening of the Civil War. Our subject, at the age of seventeen, entered the confederate service in Company B, Twelfth Virginia Battalion of Light Artillery. Twelve months thereafter he was promoted to a First Lieutenancy under the command of General G. W. Curtis Lee, and saw considerable service and endured many hardships. Following the close of the war Mr. Anderson engaged in the mercantile business at Meherin, Prince Edward county, and later at Farmville, Virginia. In 1871 he arrived in Yolo county, California, accompanied by his family.

In 1872 Mr. Anderson was united in marriage to Miss Hannah Elizabeth Glascock, daughter of George and Elizabeth Glascock, formerly of Culpeper county, Virginia. In February, 1884, our subject came to Lincoln county, Washington, filed on one hundred and sixty acres of land, built a house and was joined by his family in October of the same year. His enterprise was successful, and he gradually acquired more land, but in 1890 he disposed of this property and was elected county auditor, on the Democratic ticket, serving four years. One year thereafter he followed the mercantile business, in Sprague, but was burned out. Following this disastrous fire he became a clerk in Davis & Gray's general merchandise store, at Sprague, going thence to Spokane. Removing to Harrington he engaged in the mercantile business with A. C. Billings, closing out his interest at the end of the year to his partner. He then came to Davenport where he was elected auditor by over eleven hundred majority, on the Democratic ticket, the largest majority ever given any candidate for office in the county. Mr. Anderson served two terms, and is at present deputy auditor under A. S. Brown who was his deputy for four years. He is secretary of the Montana Scotch Bonnet Copper & Gold Mining Company and the King Gold & Copper Mining Company, near Valley station, Stevens county, Washington. He is a member of the Lincoln County Pioneer Society, the A. F. & A. M., the K. of P., of which he is past C. C., and of the I. O. O. F., being past grand. The family of Mrs. Anderson dates back to the Jamestown settlement, Virginia, the Glascocks participating in the Revolutionary and other wars. A grandfather of our subject was, also, active in the war of the Revolution.

Nine children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson; Peter H., dying in infancy; Virginia A., wife of A. W. Lindsay, cashier of the Fidelity Bank, Spokane; Annie E., wife of E. W. Anderson, of Davenport; Henry G., of Nesperce, Idaho; Ernest R., in Spokane; J. Waverly; B. Brook; Robert E. L.; and C. May N.

Mr. Anderson is a gentleman whose hospitable bearing and genial disposition have rendered him markedly and deservedly popular with his large number of acquaintances both here and in the east.

George Glasscock and George Washington

[\[Follow Ups \]](#) [\[Post Followup \]](#) [\[Return to Message Listings \]](#) [\[Help \]](#)Posted by Anne on September 17, 1998 at 16:16:47:

A couple of months ago there was a discussion on the relationship of George GLASSCOCK (who married Patty HOWARD) and his relationship to George WASHINGTON. I said I would post more once I found the information. I got this out of a book titled "Colonel William Ball of Virginia; the great-grandfather of George Washington". It was published in 1928 and was written by Earl L. W. Heck. Here it goes:

Joseph BALL, son of Wm and Hannah, married first Elizabeth ROMNEY. Their daughter Esther married Raliegh CHINN. Her half-sister Mary is the mother of George WASHINGTON. Mary's mother was Mary JOHNSON.

William BALL II, son of Wm. and Hannah, had three wives, Margaret DOWNMAN being the mother of Richard BALL. Richard married Sarah YOUNG and their daughter Esther married Capt. William GLASSCOCK. That should make their son, Dr. George, and George Washington second cousins once removed.

I do not know how much of this has actually been documented. Anne

JOSEPH B. GORE was born August 26, 1848, in La Rue [sic] County, and is a son of Dr. John W. and Elizabeth (Brown) Gore, who had born to them three sons and three daughters. Dr. John W. Gore was born March 21, 1821, in Nelson County; was raised on a farm and received a fair English education in the common schools; attended night schools at twenty-two, and commenced the practice of medicine in La Rue County, to which he moved in 1841. During the war he was put in charge of hospitals as surgeon at different points, and he has practiced for twenty-six years. In 1870 he was elected county clerk, commenced the study of law, and in 1885 was admitted to the bar, in the same year elected county attorney. He was a son of Henry and Ann (Glasscock) Gore. Henry Gore was born in Culpeper County, Va., about 1794, and when a lad of seven years, with his parents, came to Nelson County, Ky. There he grew to manhood. He was a painter by trade, and was elected constable, after which he served as sheriff of Nelson County for twenty-six years, and also served two terms in the Legislature. He was a farmer and slave holder, and died in 1865, aged seventy eight years. He was a son of Jonathan Gore, who married a Miss Rector, both of Virginia. Jonathan Gore's father was born in Ireland, and immigrated to and settled in Virginia, and in 1794 moved to Nelson County, Ky. He was a farmer and slave holder. Ann (Glasscock) Gore was a daughter of Micaja and Catharine (Rector) Glasscock, who were both natives of Virginia, and of Irish descent, and who settled in Nelson County in 1794. Joseph B. Gore was reared on a farm, and received a good English education; at eighteen he entered and clerked in a dry good store for four years. In 1872 he was elected sheriff for one term, after which he farmed till 1882, then entered the circuit clerk's office as deputy. In 1884 he was elected for an unexpired term. He was married, in 1871, to Miss Lura [sic] Rogers, of La Rue County, a daughter of James and Mary (Kennedy) Rogers, of Irish origin. James Rogers' first wife was Lura Roundtree. Mr. Gore has had born by this union seven children, six living: Jessie R., John W., Elenor, Anna B., William R. and Logan M. Mr. and Mrs. Gore are members of the Christian Church, and in politics he is a Democrat, having cast his first presidential vote for Greeley. Mr. Gore's mother was a daughter of James and Nancy (Ash) Brown.

His grandfather's name was Jonathan Melton, who fought in the Revolutionary War, and died in the service at "Valley Forge".

When Father was five years of age, the family moved to Polk County, Mo., and lived there only one year. They then moved to Barry County, Mo. in 1836. This county became Stone County afterwards when organized in 1851. My grandfather (Austin Melton) was the first Treasurer of Stone County. My father told me that his father kept all of the tax money in a hollow-gourd, setting upon a shelf in their living room, in plain view of everybody, but not a penny was ever taken from it. Once per year my grandfather would mount his mule and ride to Jefferson City, Mo., taking the tax money to the Capitol. It was a long, hard trip and over unsettled country. He lived to be 88 years of age, and died of senile debility.

Grandmother Ailcy died in their home near Galena, Mo., and I believe was buried in the old Railey Creek Cemetery in Missouri. She was born May 15, 1807 and died at the age of 51 of dyspepsia. My grandfather (Austin) married the second time to a lady named "Polly" (I do not know her last name), but I believe they were married near Lebanon, Mo., where my grandfather had bought a farm. She had a son by a first marriage who lived with them and worked Grandfather's farm to make their living.

After Grandfather died, my father and his brothers deeded the farm to Polly, so she would have a living from it. I remember of Father's attending Grandfather's funeral and taking care of all expenses, etc. He was buried near Lebanon, Mo. This was the farm Grandfather had bought near Lebanon, where he moved to, after leaving Stone County, near Galena. I visited there one time when I was a small child. Father, Mother and we three youngest girls drove up and stayed a day and a night. It was the only time I ever saw my grandfather, and I remember my father gave him a lot of money which he put in his pockets and seemed very proud of the gift. Polly had yards and yards of beautiful knitted crocheted (I don't know which) lace a foot wide and yards of it was festooned from post to post on her high-post bedstead, and it also was draped on the wall.

Later we stopped at Springfield to say Hello to Aunt Emmalyn. She was asking all about Grandfather, and I told her of the lovely lace that I noticed, and she said most emphatically: "That is my Mother's lace . . . she made it! I had always heard that Grandmother Ailcy was a very progressive and efficient person, and a very hard worker. I heard by father once say she was a little body, but controlled her house full of boys with a very firm hand . . . and when she told them to do anything, they always did it."

In England, the Meltons made pottery (or china) and were also good weavers of cloth. I feel sure that is where the "Melton cloth" and "Melton china" got their names. Both are still made in England and no doubt are our ancestors from away back. Nellie Henson Bright used to have a pretty china dinner plate, which was stamped on back: "Melton" china. She showed it to me once, but I never asked her where she found it. It could have come out of Grandfather's home. Perhaps Rufe Scott has it now, or it perhaps was given to Lillian. I hope it is not lost, for it is a rare antique and valuable to our family. Grandfather Austin immigrated from Tennessee to the territory of Missouri and homesteaded 100 acres of government land, where he raised his family. It was located one mile south of Galena (Stone County) Missouri, and was afterwards known as "the old Seaman place." It is owned now by Rufe Scott of Galena. He was Fauni Henson's (my niece) husband. My father always had a warm spot in his heart for Stone County (where he was raised). He loaned or gave, (I do not know which) money to the County to build their first Court House. It was a large square stone building, and stood for many years. I cannot say whether he gave or loaned the money to Stone County, but the chances are he gave it to them, as he was a generous man, and he accumulated quite a nice fortune in his time.

NOTES ON McCARTY, CHINN, GLASSCOCK, TURLEY, AND HARDWICK FAMILIES.

By ARTHUR LESLIE KERR, Northfield, Minnesota.

A writer in The Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, July, 1915, asks my authority for the statement that Thaddeus McCarty married Ann, daughter of Rawleigh Chinn. It is found in a deed on file at Leesburg, Loudoun County, Va., which is dated October 8, 1773, wherein Thaddeus McCarty and wife Ann of Lancaster County sell land which the said Ann had inherited from her father, Rawleigh Chinn. I have no special acquaintance with the history of the Chinn family. The July, 1908, number of The William and Mary Quarterly, pages 61 and 63, give some records of the family. They show that prior to 1682, John Chinn had married Elizabeth, daughter of Rawleigh Travers. The following account, which I believe is substantially correct, though I cannot guarantee its accuracy absolutely, was furnished to me a few years ago by a descendant of the family, and has, so far as I know, never been published.

John Chinn appears in Lancaster County, Va., in 1664. He owned land on Morathis (?) Creek. The Chinn's, Balls, Downmans, all settled in that part, and intermarried. The McCarty's came later.

John Chinn had the following children: 1. John T. md. Elizabeth. 2. Ann, md. (1) William Fox, (2) Richard Chichester. 3. Sarah md. _____ Chilton. 4. Katherine md. _____ McCarty. 5. Rawleigh md. Esther Ball. 6. Joseph. 7. William Rawleigh Chinn, who md. Esether Ball had son Thomas Chinn who md. Mrs. Edmunds, and their son Rawleigh Chinn, the sailor, Lucy Tarpley, and their granddaughter was my informant in this matter. She refers to a Rawleigh Chinn, Jr. (whom she apparently makes the son of the Rawleigh who md. Esther Ball) who died in 1756 leaving will in which he mentions as his only heirs, daughters Ann and Catharine, both under 21 years of age, and she states that Ann later md. Col. Thaddeus McCarty, and Catharine md. Francis Humphrey Christian.

I believe that the writer referred to, at the beginning of this note and Hayden are both in error in regard to the Billington McCarty who died in 1771. There were two of this name. The Richmond Co., Va., records give the will of Billington McCarty, dated July 1, 1745, wherein he mentions son Billington and others (without name). This Billington dying in 1745 I identify with the Billington McCarty who md. Ann Barber, June 16, 1732, and had 1. Daniel, born Oct. 22, 1733, died Aug. 6, 1739; 2. Billington, born Oct. 3, 1736 (therefore oldest living son, and heir at law, and so mentioned first in his father's will). 3. Thaddeus born Apr. 1, 1739 (probably the one who in 1758 md. Ann Chinn, above referred to); 4. Charles Barber, born Aug. 23, 1741. The Richmond Co., Va., records show another Billington McCarty whose will is dated March 1771, and he, I think, must be identical with the Billington born Oct. 3, 1736. He mentions in his will, children Nancy, Daniel, William Thaddeus (no comma between last two names), Dennis and Elizabeth Downman McCarty. He seems to be identical with the Billington McCarty, who with wife Ann had son Daniel, born Aug. 24, 1757; with wife Eliza had son Billington, born March 18, 1759 (not mentioned in will); Thaddeus, born Sept. 1, 1763; Elizabeth Downman, born Nov. 30, 1768. I identify the elder Billington, of will 1745, with the son of Daniel McCarty who died in Westmoreland Co., Va., in 1724, receiving, by terms of his father's will, land in Farnham Parish.

In my notes published in The William and Mary Quarterly, January, 1914, I made an error in regard to the mother of Susan Hardwick, who, in 1787, md. Cornelius McCarty. *I stated that she was an Orear, but referred to the tradition of a Glasscock connection. She was not an Orear, but one Margaret Glasscock, as is shown by the will of John Glasscock made in Fauquier Co., Va., Nov. 27, 1774, wherein he mentions wife (not by name); sons Thomas, George, John, and Hezekiah; and daughters Mary Rector, Margaret Turley, and Susana Jackson. A descendant of this John Glasscock still lives on his farm near Rectorstown, and preserves the traditions of the Turley and Kincheloe connection. The Fan-William Hardwick probably married in 1776-7] and have never had a death in our family. Old Sarah the negro that nursed me is still with me * * * 500 miles separate us [she in what is now Meade County, Ky., and he near Louisville, Georgia] * * * I pray for my two sisters that is (sic) parted from me."

The other page is intended for his brother-in-law, Cornelius McCarty. "that you had moved from Fauquier County, Virginia to Kentucky in Harden (sic) near Elizabethtown [Meade was later formed from Hardin] and that you with your wife and one of your children had embraced religion * * * I became a Methodist in 1788 and in 1792 went into the ministry and for nineteen years [whence I infer the date of the letter as 1811] have been trying to persuade sinners. My son William P. Hardwick (sic) having business in Kentucky * * * is a good surveyor but makes no pretension of religion—I have directed him to hand you this letter * * * Methodist Church flourishing in Georgia. We live near Louisville near our eldest son Garland Hardwick (sic) * * * if we cannot get acquainted personally [had probably never met his brother-in-law] * * *"

The William P. Hardwick mentioned in the above letter is undoubtedly identical with the great-grandfather of the Hon. Thomas W. Hardwick, member of Congress from Georgia, who gives me the following data. "My great-grandfather was William Park Hardwick who lived near Louisville, Georgia. He married Sarah Baker Cheatham about 1820. My grandfather was Thomas William Hardwick who married Mary Elizabeth Davis in 1848, and my father was Robert William Hardwick who married Zemula Schley Matthews in 1870."

Another letter loaned to me by Mr. Murdock is dated December 30, 1817, but is unsigned. It is addressed to aunt Susan [McCarty] and speaks of a visit from uncle Cornelius [McCarty] who is to bear the letter. The writer sends a message to her uncle Sampson [Turley] and mentions her sisters Louisa and Polly who send gifts to Peggy and Nancy. The writer sends a gift to Elon (sic) [the connection implies that she is the writer's namesake]. Little Emily sends gifts to Effalua (sic). Mentions the great distance between them and her expectation that they shall never meet again. I think this letter was written on the occasion of a visit of Cornelius McCarty to the Kinche-loes in Virginia. Peggy, Nancy, Eleanor and Evalina, who receive gifts, are his four daughters.

From Mr. Murdock I received a deed dated Dec. 23, 1816 between Cornelius McCarty and Susannah his wife late susannah Harridge (sic) of Hardin Co., Ky on the one part and James Kincheloe of Fauquier Co., Va., on the other part. They sell 200 acres in Fauquier Co., Va., that had been purchased by Margaret Hardridge (sic) while a widow of Thomas Glasscock, which said Margaret afterwards intermarried with William Turley who is now tenant of said tract by the curtesy of said Susannah being one of the children of the said Margaret by her first marriage. This deed is apparently not recorded in Fauquier Co or elsewhere so far as I can ascertain.

Reliable tradition makes the above Margaret an Orear. Cornelius had a son named Enos Orear McCarty. Her family history may probably be reconstructed as follows:

Margaret Orear, born about 1745, md. 1st ——— Hardwick (who was probably a widower with son William) and had Susanna Hardwick, wife of Cornelius McCarty; John Hardwick; Elizabeth Hardwick, wife of James Kincheloe. Margaret and 2nd. William Turley and had Sampson Turley and others. There is an unconfirmed tradition that the mother of the above Elizabeth Hardwick was a Glasscock, a sister of George Glasscock. If this tradition is to be accepted I can explain it only on the hypothesis that she was but a half-sister of Susannah who md McCarty and a daughter of ——— Hardwick by a first marriage.

I find various Turley items. John Turley was a vestryman of Truro Parish, 1749-56. James and John Turley appear on a list of Cornelius McCarty in The William and Mary College Quarterly, Vol. XXII, page 188. The oldest son of his large family was named Aaron Hardridge McCarty, born 1792 in Virginia. His name suggests that he was named for his maternal grandmother. The suggestion becomes a virtual certainty when we find that the above Susan Hardwick McCarty had a brother, William Hardwick, who named his oldest son Garland Hardwick, which fact connects him with James Hardwick, 1737, who married Henrietta Garland, see above.

Aside from this brother, William Hardwick, Susan Hardwick McCarty also had brother John Hardwick and sister Elizabeth Hardwick. James Kincheloe was granted license to marry this Elizabeth Hardwick in Fauquier County, Va., Dec. 7, 1790. They had Brandt, Hardwick, Eleanor Kinchloe, and probably others. The writer has seen a deed (not recorded apparently) dated Dec. 23, 1816, by which Cornelius McCarty and Susannah, his wife, late Harridge (sic), of Hardin County, Kentucky, sell to James Kincheloe, of Fauquier County, Va., 200 acres in Fauquier County, bought by Margaret Hardridge (sic), mother of the said Susanna McCarty, while a widow, of Thomas Glasscock, which said Margaret Hardridge afterwards married William Turley. Notwithstanding the writer's statement in The William and Mary College Quarterly, Vol. XXII, page 184,* the above Margaret Hardridge was born Glasscock and not Orear. She was the daughter of John Glasscock, who patented land in present Fauquier County in 1728, and made will in Fauquier County, Nov. 27, 1774, in which will he mentions, among others, daughter Margaret Turley. On Oct. 1, 1771, Thomas Glasscock (son of the above John and brother of Margaret) and wife Agnes sold to Margaret Harwich (sic) 244 acres. It is this transaction that the deed of Cornelius McCarty and wife Susannah, above mentioned, refers to. In 1774 Thomas Glasscock and wife Agnes sold to William Turley. On March 1, 1815, Sampson Turley, of Fauquier

County, sold to James Kincheloe the land which Thomas Glasscock and wife Agnes in 1771 sold to Margaret Harwich. This seems to be the same land referred to in the unrecorded deed of Cornelius and Susanna Hardwick McCarty, cited above. We may conclude then that before Oct. 1, 1771, the first husband (Aaron?) Hardwick, of Margaret Glasscock had died and in 1774, or before she had married William Turley, by whom as we know from other sources, she had eight children. From this fact we infer that she was comparatively young when her first husband died. For the reasons already given the writer is convinced that her first husband was Aaron Hardwick, son of James, 1737. It also seems certain that Aaron Hardwick was twice married, Margaret Glasscock being his second wife. The reasons for this belief are as follows: Susan Hardwick McCarty had a brother (half-brother?) William Hardwick, who was married in 1776. But between 1771 and 1774 Susan's mother, Margaret Hardwick, married a second time to Turley, to whom she bore eight children. She could hardly, therefore, have been the mother of William Hardwick, old enough to marry in 1776. Furthermore, confirmatory evidence is found in the fragments of an old undated letter which the writer has seen, written by the above William Hardwick to Cornelius McCarty and Susan McCarty. In this letter he calls Susan his sister, but he also speaks of "your stepfather, William Turley, whom your mother married." The pronoun your (twice used) indicates that they had different mothers. He mentions the removal of her mother to Goose Creek, near Rector Town. And then "on my return (from where, not shown in existing fragments) I found you, brother John and Sister Elizabeth playing in the negro house, which was the first time I ever saw you" (confirms conjecture that he was an older half-brother). "The year 1783 was the last time I ever saw you." He speaks of "our niece, Ellen Kincheloe," through whom he had heard of Susan McCarty's whereabouts. He states that

Lassen County, California

Death/Obituary Index
Lassen Advocate for 1868 through 1879
Susanville, California

This newspaper was established in 1865 and was originally known as Sage Brush, then as the Lassen Sage Brush and finally was known as the Lassen Advocate. There are only several individual issues known prior to 1868. This index begins with the 22 March 1868 issue.

*Indicates that death occurred outside of Lassen County, whether a resident, former resident or a relative of a Lassen County resident.

Book 15 page 171: Feb. 25 1795, Thomas Stockstill (makes his mark & no wife signs) lets Zebadiah Stockstill--both of Rowan Co.N.C.--have 100 acres on the waters of Dutchmans Creek, beginning on the corner of Warnel Stockstill at a post oak post, going west 30 chains to a post oak sapling, north 33¹/₂ chains to a stake, east 50 chains to a stake, then to the beginning, for 10 shillings, witnessed by Philip Swartslander & Warnel Stockstill & proved by the latter in Aug. 1797

Thomas Glascock 4-22-1814 to 7-23-1885 after the war. While in Missouri he married a Miss Dodd. He taught school in Missouri until his eyes began to trouble him. In the meantime, a child had been born to him, and both his wife and child were taken from him by death. He then returned to the old home place and became a farmer and school teacher.
"His second marriage was to Emily Fletcher (not a relative), a daughter of Tacy and Dr. John Fletcher; and to them six or seven children were born, of whom, at this writing, only one son survives--Bedford Glascock.
"Upon the outbreak of the Civil War, he was too old for military duty, and his sons were too young; but he strongly sympathized with his native State, and, like all other Virginians who were debarred by age from military service, did what he could to maintain the men in the field and contributed in that way his share towards maintaining that great struggle."**

"The ancient Slater and Glascock marriage of 1630 has been referred to in the George M.Slater sketch. In this generation, Thomas Glascock married Emily Fletcher; their daughter Tacy Glascock, married her cousin, Robert Fletcher; and Robert and Tacy Fletcher's daughter, Tacy Glascock Fletcher, married George H.Slater. So, after nearly three hundred years, we come around to a renewal of the old alliances.

"Among the papers in the possession of Mrs. George H.Slater, is a will of John Glascock, of the County of Fauquier, dated the 27th of November, 1774, which impresses upon the reader two things: first, the gross partiality of our ancestors in the disposition of their estates among their children, especially in the way in which they preferred the sons to the daughters; and, secondly, the little familiar details into which they entered by bequeathing such things as a "great pot" and "feather bed."

"Aquila Glascock was a farmer, a surveyor and a large land-owner. He was a reticent man, dignified, of strong will power, very cogent in his statements, of unusual business capacity, as may be judged by the fact that when he died he left each of his seven children an estate of thirty thousand dollars. Judged by the standards of the present day, this would more than equal a fortune of a million dollars; and when one considers that

ROSTER OF "FIRST KENTUCKY ANCESTORS"

JESSE GLASCOCK

Born 3 Mar. 1807, in Greene Co., Tenn., Jesse Glascock was the son of JOHN and SUSANNAH GLASCOCK, who were married 1 Jan. 1799, in Fauquier Co., Va. John Glascock (born 1772, Fauquier Co., Va.; died 1843, Greene Co., Tenn.) was the sixth of thirteen children of GREGORY GLASCOCK (1738-1819, Va.; possibly Rev. War soldier) and JEMIMA DULIN, daughter of WM. and CLEMENCE DULIN. Jesse Glascock's mother, SUSANNAH GLASCOCK (born 1778, Fauquier Co., Va.; died 1831, Greene Co., Tenn.), was the daughter of HEZEKIAH GLASCOCK (1746-1818, Va.) and SARAH STEPHENS GLASCOCK. In 1858, Jesse Glascock moved his family from Greene Co., Tenn., to Knox Co., Ky., where he eventually owned a large farm in the Davis Bend area. Jesse died 4 July 1864 in Knox Co. and is buried there in the Glascock Family Cemetery. Jesse Glascock had been married in 1842, in Cocke Co., Tenn., to:

ELIZA JANE FAUBIAN

Born 28 Aug. 1818, in Cocke Co., Tenn., Eliza Jane Faubian was the daughter of JOHN FAUBIAN (born 29 Feb. 1776; died 4 Dec. 1869, Cocke Co., Tenn.) and LEAH McKAY, who were married 6 Apr. 1797 (place unknown). Eliza Jane--affectionately known by her family and children as "Elizer"--died 2 Nov. 1895, in Knox Co., Ky., and is buried there in the Glascock Family Cemetery.

Parents of: THOMAS GLASCOCK

Born 20 Mar. 1849, in Greene Co., Tenn., Thomas Jefferson Glascock died 18 Sept. 1893, of diabetes, in Knox Co., Ky. Thomas Glascock was a mason in the Eight Division of the Kentucky Masonic Lodge. He was married to ALICE TYE (born 1 Sept. 1860, in Knox Co., Ky.; married 2nd, Jeff Canady; died 30 Mar. 1933, in Knox Co., Ky.; buried between two husbands in Glascock Cemetery). Alice was the daughter of GEORGE WASHINGTON ("G. W" or George) TYE (born 24 May 1807, Whitley Co., Ky.; died 16 Mar. 1894, [in a housefire, with his wife] Knox Co., Ky.) and his second wife, VIRGINIA "JENNY" BAIN (born 28 July 1837, Knox Co., Ky.; married 14 Oct. 1858; died 16 Mar. 1894, [in a housefire, with her husband] Knox Co., Ky.), daughter of ROBERT and SALLIE LEE BAIN (d/o JAMES LEE of Va. and NANCY MAYS); Robert and Sallie Lee Bain married 1823, Knox Co., Ky.

Descendant: Dennis Glasscock, 109 Allison Ave., Barbourville, KY 40906, great-grandson of Thomas and Alice Tye Glascock

Thornton Glasscock Bio: Pickaway Co, OH s/o John Glascock & Mary Ann Leach

548 - HISTORY OF PICKAWAY COUNTY

THORNTON GLASSCOCK, an esteemed agriculturist of Darby township, residing on a well-improved estate of 167 acres, owned by himself and wife, is a native of Virginia and an old resident of Pickaway County. He was born in the Old Dominion, December 28, 1846, and is a son of John and Mary Ann (Leach) Glasscock and grandson of Thomas and Margaret Glasscock.

Thomas Glasscock and his wife were natives of Virginia and there spent much of their lives, engaged in farming. Four sons and three daughters were born to them.

John Glasscock, father of our subject, was born in Virginia and there grew to manhood and married Mary Ann Leach, only daughter of Thornton and Nancy (White) Leach, whose family also included four sons--Leroy, Armster, William and Benjamin. Nine children were born to our subject's parents, namely: Mary, who died at the age of 13 years; Newton, who with his wife, Mary Jane Caldwell, is now deceased ; Warren, who married Virginia Glasscock, his cousin, and now lives in Missouri; Margaret, whose husband, Alfred Stump, is now deceased; Sarah, who married Darius Shockley; Martha C., who married Rev. Robert W. Peters, a minister of the Baptist Church; Thornton, the subject of this sketch; and Alice, wife of Richard R. Leach, of Darby township--all born in Virginia; and William, the only member of the family born in Ohio, who married Ella Balla. Both parents died in 1895, the mother on February 4th and the father on November 18th.

Thornton Glasscock was eight years of age when the family located permanently in Ohio. Several years before, however, his parents with some of the children came to Ohio, but remained only a short time, when they returned to their old home in Virginia. Later all the members of the family came to Ohio, lived here two years and then started for Missouri. The family and goods were loaded into three wagons, one of them being a four-horse team driven by Thornton and his sister Sarah. The family did not long remain in Missouri, however, but returned to Ohio and located in what is now Darby township, Pickaway County, where Thornton Leach, the maternal grandfather of our subject, had purchased a tract of 600 acres of forest land. The country was quite unsettled at that time. Thornton Leach had made a clearing on this tract and here had built a rude log house, with a stick chimney and a puncheon floor, and with a quilt hung up for a door. It was amid such surroundings that William Glasscock, the youngest member of the family; was born.

On August 21, 1866, Thornton Glasscock was married to Frances Rush, daughter of John W. and Nancy (Yocham) Rush. Mrs. Glasscock's mother died in June, 1906. Besides Mrs. Glasscock, there were five sons and two daughters in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rush, namely: William, who wastwice married and both of whose wives, Sarah Worthington and Jennie Watson, are deceased; Jesse, deceased, who married Fidelia Seeds; John, also deceased, who never married; Nelson, who is single; Dennis, deceased. who never married; Sarah, who married George Burgett; and Alice, who married Theodore Shockley.

Five children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Glasscock, as below: Laura, who married John Gillen; Milton, deceased at the age of 24 years, who married Julia Johnson; Effa, who married Herman Matthews--both died within four months of each other, the latter on November 22, 1894, and the former on March 22, 1895, at about the age of 30 years, leaving three children (Harry. Alta and Laura), who are living with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glasscock; John R., a resident of Oregon, who is the father of one child; and Sarah, who married Nelson Martno, and has had seven children--Dennis (deceased), Francis, Rush, May, Ruth, Lewis and Edna.

Although the old family homestead was willed to Mr. Glasscock by his father, he came into possession of it before the latter's death. It consisted of 52 acres, besides which he inherited another farm of 27 acres. He purchased other tracts of land, his wife came into possession of landed property, and the result is their ownership, as stated, of 167 acres in Darby township. Mr. Glasscock has devoted the bulk of his time and energy to the care and improvement of his property. He is a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and keeps in intelligent touch with the questions of the day.

Notable Southern Families, Volumes I & II

Aside from this brother William, Susan Hardwick McCarty also had brother John Hardwick and sister Elizabeth Hardwick, James Kincheloe was granted license to marry Elizabeth hardwick in Fauquier County, Virginia, December 7, 1790. They had Brandt, Hardwick, Eleanor Kincheloe, and probably others. The writer has seen a deed (not rcorded apparently) dated December 23, 1816, by which Cornelius McCarty and Susannah, his wife, late Hardridge (sic) of Hardin County, Kentucky, sell to James Kincheloe, of Fauquier County, Virginia, 200 acres in Fauquier County, bought by Margaret Hardridge (mother of the said Susannah McCarty), while a widow, of Thomas Glasscock, which said Margaret Hardridge afterwards married William Turley. The above Margaret Hardridge was born Glasscock and not Orear. She was the daughter of John, Glasscock who patented land in present Fauquier County in 1728, and made will in Fauquier County, November 27, 1774, in which will he mentions among others, daughter Margaret Turley. On October 1, 1771, Thomas Glasscock (son of the above John and brother of Margaret) and wife Agnes sold to Margaret Hardwick, 244 acres. It is this transaction that the deed of Cornelius McCarty and his wife Susannah, above mentioned, refers to. In 1774 Thomas Glasscock and wife Agnes sold to William Turley. On March 1, 1815, Sampson Turley, of Fauquier County, sold to James Kincheloe the land which Thomas Glasscock and wife Agnes in 1771 sold to Margaret Hardwick. This seems to be the same land referred to in the unrecorded deed of Cornelius and Susannah Hardwick McCarty cited above. We may conclude then that before October 1, 1771, the first husband (Aaron?) Hardwick, of Margaret Glasscock had died and in 1774 or before she had married William Turley, by whom as we know from other sources she had eight children. From this fact we may infer that she was comparatively young when her first husband died. For the reason already given the writer is convinced that her first husband was Aaron Hardwick, son of James, 1737. It also seems certain that Aaron Hardwick was twice married, Margaret Glasscock being the second wife. The reasons are as follows: Susan Hardwick had a brother (half-brother) William Hardwick who was married in 1776. But between 1771 and 1774 Susan's mother Margaret Hardwick married a second time, to Turley, to whom she bore eight children. She was not likely therefore to be the mother of William Hardwick, old enough to marry in 1776. Furthermore confirmatory evidence is found in the fragments of an old letter, which the writer has seen written by the above William Hardwick to Cornelius McCarty and Susan McCarty about 1811. In this letter he calls Susan, his sister, but he also speaks of "your stepfather (William Turley) whom your mother 'married'. The pronoun YOUR (twice used) indicates that they had different mothers. He mentions removal of her mother to Goose Creek, near Rector Town. And then "on my return (from where, not shown in existing fragments) I found you, brother John and sister Elizabeth playing in the negro house, which was the first time I ever saw you" (confirms conjecture that he was an older half-brother). "The year 1783 was the last time I ever saw you". He speaks of our "niece Ellen Kincheloe" through whom he had heard of Susan McCarty's whereabouts. He states that he became a Methodist in 1788 and in 1792 he went into the ministry in which he had been laboring for nineteen years. From this statement we placed the date of the letter in 1811. He states that he has been married thirty-five years next June 26 (apparently then in 1776; further confirmed by the fact that their oldest son was born in 1777). "We have five sons and four daughters and have never had a death in our family. Old Sarah, the negro that nursed me, is still with me". "We live near Louisville," (that is Jefferson County, Georgia). He mentions son William P. Hardwick, a surveyor, who is making a trip to Kentucky and who is to carry this letter. He also mentions eldest son Garland Hardwick, near whom they are living. Descendants of this William Hardwick agree that he once lived in Fauquier County, Virginia, and later settled in Jefferson County, Georgia. He married Judith Parker, June 26, 1776. They had five sons and four daughters (see old letter) as follows:
