All the marks of Thomas Dinwiddie's grave (a former ruling elder here) are gone. Rd. Wilson's grave (Mr. J. W.'s father) was opposite the west square of the meeting house, but when, he says, we enclosed the other graves, the head and foot stones of this were broken down, and we co'd not identify the spot. Two acres were reserved by Mr Marshall in wanceying the land. The graves are mostly, if not all, to the west of the house.
