EVER SINCE the land has been under cultivation by white man, the hill just south of Jasper, in Section 35, known as Conrad Eokert's hill has produced the highest grade of fruits and vegetables, not because of the land itself but because those who lived there since the entry by Graham have been successful gardeners. — Vol. 2, p 357.

This is a site dedicated principally to Clan Graham but also to those families, the Grahams, the Morgans, the Biggerstaffs, the Mardells, the Reids, and more, who are connected in some fashion to John and Claire E. Graham, as well as the Roos and Mertens family who enter through John's second wife, Mieke Roos.

Who are the Grahams?

GRAHAM

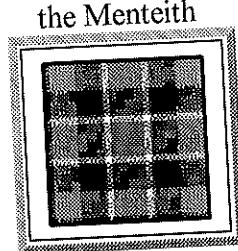

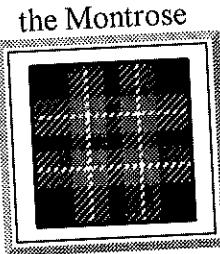

A Scots surname allegedly from 'Gramus' demolisher of a line of defense built by Antonius between the Forth and the Clyde across Scotland. The first authentic Grahams appeared in 1128 from 'De Graham' who obtained lands of Abercorn and Dalkeith in Midlothian county.

A biography of the clan notes that ":They were mostly honorable men."

See a more complete history and another site devoted to Clan Graham.

THE CLAN

There were two major divisions of the Grahams --two clans:

Their tartans are different, but their histories are intertwined.

JOHN GRAHAM and MIEKE ROOS

Since we are marked in some way by our direct line of descent:

- Who is John Graham ?
- Who is Emmy (Mieke) Roos ?
- Who is Claire Graham ?
- Who is Jean Reid? and why is she mentioned in this Graham family?

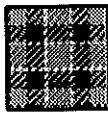

NOTEWORTHY JOHN GRAHAMS

John, its Gaelic version, Iain, and the older Eoin, are ancient Scottish names meaning 'The Lord's Grace'. Hence, also MacIain, MacKain, and Johnston, all of which mean the son of John.

John Graham of Claverhouse, Viscount of Dundee, greatest of the Jacobite commanders and known as 'Bloody Clavers of Bonny Dundee', fell at Killiecrankie in command of the army of James VII in 1689.

John Graham, born in 1827, was my Great-grandfather. Another John Graham, this one a Reverend gentleman, was my father's older brother, my uncle --the Graham family has always liked the name.

Return to the family

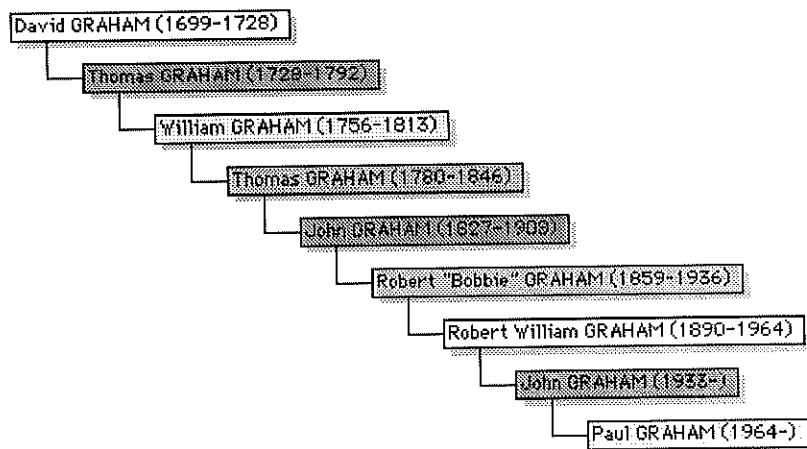

John Graham

His Life --

He was born in Windsor, England, in 1933; spent his youth and was educated in Wales through a degree in Mathematics at the University College of North Wales, Bangor, in 1954; worked first in England for the UK Atomic Energy Authority and then in 1968 moved to work in the USA for Westinghouse. In 1984, he moved with his family, Claire, Paul and Jennifer, to Richland, WA, then in 1988 to Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, and, finally, in 1991 to Denver, CO - each time changing employers.

In 1996-7, John made a large change by remarrying. His new wife is Emmy (Mieke) Roos.

This genealogical chart of John's Father's side is the old chauvenistic chart following the male line alone. However, John also has a daughter, Jennifer, with a son, Ian Angus, so the generations are one more than the nine shown. You can see the end of the generations below Claire in her chart.

John's Mother's side is not as well known extending back three generations less.

always liked the name.

John Graham represented the Boston Athletic Association at the commencement of the Olympics in Greece in 1896 and had been impressed by the running of the marathon. He came back to his club in Boston to recreate the event in the new world. Thus, the first Boston Marathon took place on Patriot's Day 1897. John Graham noted as "trainer/manager" started the race as he would for many years.

There is always a golfing story among Scots and this one is a John Graham golfing story. At the St. Andrews golf course, the oldest, in Scotland, there is a history wing where one can see how the golf ball has evolved through history. Of the balls shown, the oldest is a stitched leather ball bearing the name ... of course ... John Graham. This message was of course sent to me by ... guess who ... John Graham.

In the 1970's another John Graham, from Scotland, came third finisher in the New York Marathon.

Another John Graham is infamous, especially to United Airlines for becoming, in 1955, the first person to put a bomb on a plane. He took out extra insurance on his mother-in-law's life at the airport, before giving her a suitcase with a bomb in it before she boarded. He killed 44 people on her flight out of Denver, Colorado. Three months later, the John Graham of this page arrived in Denver, and spent the night in the city jail (that's another long story!). The two John Grahams were then the same age, 23-years-old, and presumably their records in the files were next to each other. The bomber later executed that year.

For many years, a John Graham was employed as the Washington correspondent of the American Nuclear Society, creating considerable confusion between himself and the Treasurer of the Society, also John Graham. The latter became President of the Society in 1995-6 and is the originator of this Web site.

INFAMOUS GRAHAMS

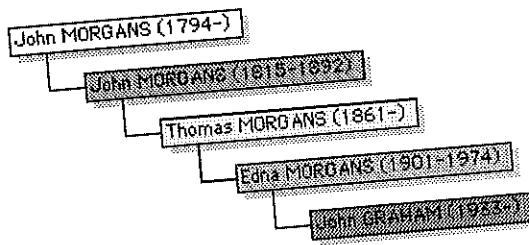

Apart from Bloody Clavers (see above), the first Graham recorded in the New World, was, apparently, according to one of the commercial firms that record different families, Anton Graham who came to Virginia in 1651. One will have to take that 'fact' with a pinch of salt. Who ever heard of a Graham being called Anton -- especially in 1651?

GRAHAMS OF THE WEB

There are, at the time of writing, 11,167 references to Graham, and only 8,950 references to John, among 18 million records. Since John is a very common first name, the fact that it is out-numbered by Grahams is surprising. A couple of the Graham sites deserve special mention:

John Graham - Gentleman

John Graham

There was some small confusion in John's Mother's mind as to whether she was a Morgan or a Morgans. That confusion arose because in the past one of the male Morgans married a Morgan but the line was truly that above. There are only 123 Morgans references on the Web out of 18 million records at the beginning of 1996.

There are no real surprises in these descendent lines, but see Jean Reid's origins -- for a few odd events.

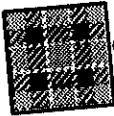

His Likes --

John like people and the outside life -- cycling, running, canoeing -- and traveling all over the world. He has traveled in all the Continents and run in nearly 50 countries.

On the more cerebral side, John enjoys chess, writing, and working with the computer.

Jean Reid

Jean Reid

Her Life --

Jean's mother was a Graham and John's aunt -- so Jean is John's direct cousin. She was born in Calgary in western Canada where her emigrating parents had settled. When she married she moved to the north of Vancouver Island working the logging camps with her engineering husband. Later they moved, settled, and retired in Victoria.

Jean's genealogical origin has two oddities: a strong minded woman who never married and a split and recombination of the tree in a small mountain village in England.

The following is her Pattinson origin.

Sarah Pattinson (1858 -) was an interesting individual living a small town in the north of England. She had three sons, by three different Fathers, and she never married thus enabling the Pattinson name to survive. Her eldest son, George, shown above, was said to be more responsible than his brothers. It was he who emigrated to Canada. Thus, Jean Reid became the Canadian matriarch of ensuing family members.

The following are her Graham origins. There are two! First:

Jean Reid

The Graham line descends to Sarah Ann Pattinson since Agnes Graham married John Pattinson on the chart above. Thus the Graham name died out in this line at this point. However, Jean Reid has another path of origin, also from the Graham family as follows:

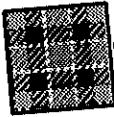

This line of descent -- also from David Graham (1699-1728) does not include Sarah Ann Pattinson. It is identical to the one above for the first four generations and at the 'brown' generation, the trees diverge. Her Father is a decendent of one brother, William, while her Mother is a descendent of another brother, John. The second line of descent has one less generation than the first. Another way of looking is as the graphic recombination.

Her Likes --

Jean has a critical mind and loves writing letters. For that reason she has kept in touch with every relative she knows and has a good sense of how everything fits. Much of this genealogy is due to her inspiration -- maybe perhaps because her own was so interesting.

Jean Annie Pattinson

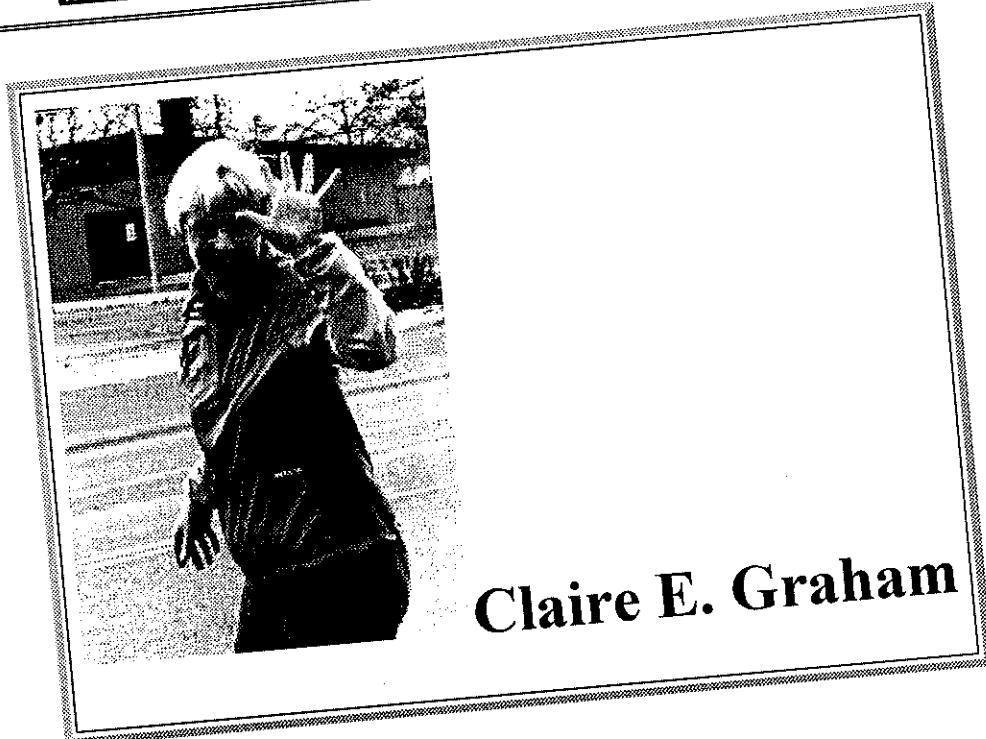

The two sons of Thomas Graham, William and John, were both direct ancestors of Jean Annie Pattinson, later to become Jean Reid. The family was separated for 3 generations on one side and two on the other principally because William was 17 years older than his brother John.

Claire E. Graham

Her Life --

She was born in 1934 within the sound of the bells of the Church of St. Mary le Bow in the City of London, England, and thereby qualifies as a genuine Cockney.

Claire went to work at 16 and grew up in London, meeting John when he attended graduate studies in the University of London from 1955 to 1958. They married in 1958 but were amicably divorced in 1996.

Her Father's side of the family was:

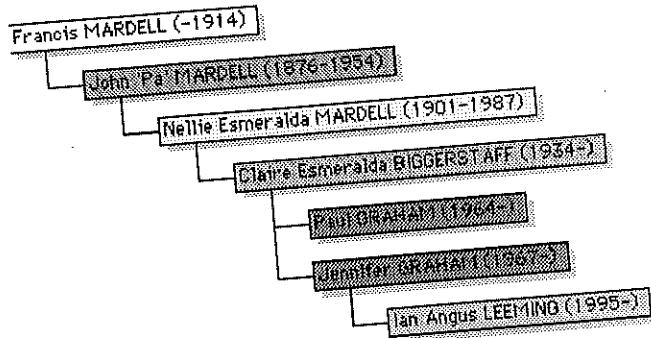

Claire E. Graham

Biggerstaffs are an old family probably arriving from Ireland to Lancashire, England, before one group moved down to London. There are only 128 references to Biggerstaffs on the Web among 18 million records in January 1996.

This line of the Biggerstaff family ends with George Benjamin Biggerstaff, Claire's father, since he produced three daughters who married as Beryl London, Claire Graham, and Edna London -- Beryl and Edna marrying brothers: Peter John London and John Peter London. George Benjamin did have one brother, William, who produced a son Peter Biggerstaff -- who might have promulgated the line but ... who knows !

On her Mother's side, Claire's origins are:

The only thing not shown is that John 'Pa' Mardell married a second time, so Claire remembers a second grandmother. Mardell is an unusual name -- there are at the time of writing only 10 references to it on the Web.

Her Likes --

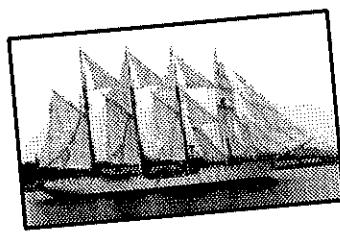

Claire likes people and the outside active life -- walking, cycling, running, canoeing -- and traveling both in the US and abroad. She has already traveled extensively in Europe, Asia, Australasia, and in North America.

Noteworthy Esmeraldas

Claire says there is "only one" noteworthy Claire Esmeralda Graham, but there are a few noteworthy Esmeraldas (and 185 citations on the Web).

Claire's middle name is from her mother, Nellie Esmeralda Mardell. However, her mother acquired the name because on the day of her birth, her father, 'Pa' Mardell had just bet, and won, on a horse named Esmeralda.

Claire E. Graham

The most noteworthy Esmeralda on the Web is this 113 meter four-masted schooner, built in Cadiz, Spain, in 1953 for the Chilean Navy. It is harbored in Valparaiso, Chile.

ADDITIONAL PAPERS OF THE GRAHAM AND TATE FAMILIES

SCOPE AND CONTENT

This material, 1798 (1857-1865) 1979, which includes ca. 135 items, concerns the Graham and Tate families of Wythe County, Virginia, and includes correspondence, financial and legal papers, genealogical and historical information, and an ambrotype of Squire David Graham.

The family papers consist chiefly of letters, 1857-1865, from Charles Beverly Tate (Feb. 18, 1847-July 10, 1925), James Graham Tate (Dec. 14, 1840-Aug. 25, 1864), and William Hanson Tate (Sep. 19, 1837-May 15, 1864) to their father, Charles Campbell Tate (Jan. 30, 1808-May 27, 1874), and siblings, Nannie Montgomery Tate (Feb. 8, 1843-Jan. 30, 1923) and John Montgomery Tate (July 15, 1833-Nov. 7, 1881).

Charles Beverly Tate entered Virginia Military Institute in 1862 at the age of fifteen. During the Battle of New Market, where his brother William was fatally wounded, he was a cadet private in Company C and was detailed to serve in the artillery section of the V.M.I. Corps. He continued in service with the corps until the evacuation of Richmond in April 1865. On January 22, 1865, a few days after being appointed a sergeant in Company B, Charles wrote his father, asking his advice as to whether or not he should resign V.M.I. to join the army, and, if so, what branch he should enter.

James Graham Tate entered Emory and Henry College in 1859 and remained until the spring of 1861. His letters during this time were mostly concerned with school, family and friends in Wythe County, and wanting news of the "ladies." On January 10, 1861, he wrote his brother John mentioning that he wanted to finish school but that he anticipated being called upon to fight soon. On May 11, 1861, he enlisted in the Wythe Grays which later became Company A of the 4th Regiment of Virginia, organized April 28, 1861; the regiment was accepted into Confederate service on July 1, 1861. In June 1861 he wrote from Harper's Ferry, Virginia about elections in his company and adapting to life in the barracks; and later, from Camp Stevens, Berkeley County, he described the burning of the Potomac Bridge and public buildings which had been ordered by Joseph E. Johnston as the Confederates evacuated Harper's Ferry. The 4th Regiment became a part of the Virginia First Brigade, which had established itself as the "Stonewall Brigade" at the First Bull Run Campaign, July 1, 1861. During August and September of that year, he discusses the loss of his knapsack and blankets after a skirmish, requested that his father send "Burkhart" to help in the mess and take care of luggage, and mentioned the court martial of a deserter, Francis Tomney. And, as their marching continued, he wondered about their purpose. An interesting letter of April 3, 1862, pertains to their orders to take their pieces of artillery to Staunton and having to use muskets again, the men wanting transfers to artillery and cavalry companies, and losing some 76 men in their regiment while fighting on March 23 (probably at the First Battle of Kernstown, Virginia). It was not until April 30 that "Stonewall" Jackson left Elk Run heading for Staunton, which became a major part of the Shenandoah Valley Campaign. During 1863, the Confederate armies seemed to be faced with severe hardships, including a shortage of rations, the reduction of transportation, and the scarcity of "white labor." In the spring of 1863, James revealed his disappointment in southern farmers for avoiding their duty by not growing grain to feed the men in the Confederate armies. In a March 1863 letter, Tate mentions "Jeb" Stuart's fight with the enemy, calling it a "right brilliant little affair," probably in reference to the Battle of Kelly's Ford in late December when the Federal Army pulled back from the site after a day's fighting. The following month, April 1863, he writes of marching toward Port Royal to meet the enemy who was crossing [the Rappahannock], only to find that they had recrossed. At this time there had been a three-day Federal they had recrossed. At this time there had been a three-day Federal expedition operating from Bell Plain to Port Royal. In late October 1863, Tate describes the engagement at Bristoe Station on the 14th which brought criticism to General Ambrose P. Hill who had "ordered only two brigades" to make the charge on General George Gordon Meade's Army of the Potomac. The following year, James Graham Tate was killed at Shepherdstown, Virginia on August 25.

William Hanson Tate became a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute on July 30, 1857, and was a member of the Cadet Corps. While at V.M.I., he wrote of living arrangements, social activities, new cadet initiation, and news of family and friends. In his September 4, 1857, letter, he gave a lengthy description of living in "encampment," mentioning the barracks and guard duty. As early as October 1857, he was looking forward to the cadets' trip to Richmond in February 1858; and, on March 8, 1858, he wrote an interesting and lengthy account of the trip to Richmond during which the cadets represented the Virginia Military Institute at the dedication of the Crawford equestrian statue of George Washington in the city's Capitol Square on February 22, 1858. In the fall of 1859 he became a teacher at the Anchor and Hope Academy as all V.M.I. men were expected to serve some time as teachers. Between October 1859 and June 1860, his letters contained news of the school; and, on February 14, 1860, he mentioned a trip to Richmond being planned by "Uncle David" [Squire David Graham] and his father. During this time he was on the muster roll of the Wythe Grays, although his real military service was in the 51st Regiment of the Virginia Volunteers. He was elected First Lieutenant upon its organization in May 1861. On November 20, 1861, he described their retreat from Cotton Hill which resulted in considerable loss of property, General [John Buchanan] Floyd's delay and retreat tactics, and illness among the men. In May and June 1862, his letters pertained to skirmishes in Princeton, and mentioned Colonel [Gabriel Calvin] Wharton, General [Henry] Heth, General [John Buchanan] Floyd, and General [Humphrey] Marshall. Later, on August 26, 1863, he wrote of a visit to the "Stone Wall Brigade" while at Liberty Mills. In November 1863, in camp near Blountsville, Tennessee, he wrote of his command witnessing the execution of three deserters from the Confederate Army, their orders to move toward Knoxville, and rumors of Knoxville being captured by General [James] Longstreet. During November 4-22 the siege of Knoxville was underway, but the Confederate Army was forced to retreat in early December. On May 1, 1864, while encamped near his home, Max Meadows, he wrote that it was his duty to remain with his company while so close to their home. Soon afterwards, on May 15th, he was killed in the Battle of New Market while leading a charge. At his death he was Captain of Company B, 51st Regiment, Wharton's Brigade.

This collection consists of ca. 2988 items (10 Hollinger boxes and oversize items), ca. 1787-1945, pertaining chiefly to the career of Egbert Watson Magruder as an agricultural chemist for the Department of Agriculture of Virginia and, later, for the F. S. Royster Guano Company of Norfolk, Virginia. Included are correspondence, reports, articles and speeches, laboratory data, architectural drawings and blueprints, printed material, and photographs. Magruder collected material, 1898-1945, on various subjects related to the different aspects of his work, including agriculture, chemistry, chemists' associations, fertilizer, horticulture, livestock, and mineralogy.

Also included are family papers, consisting of correspondence, legal and business papers, plats and surveys, and related papers. Topics or items of interest include several letters, 1861-1863, from John Bowie Magruder during his service in the Confederate Army during the Civil War describing several battles, including Fredericksburg and Suffolk, and camp life at Fort Dillard, Fort Drury (near Fredericksburg), and on White Marsh Road near Suffolk; an 1861 account book kept by John Bowie Magruder for the Rivanna Guards; a letter, October 17, 1864, to Benjamin Henry Magruder from his son, Horatio Erskine Magruder while a prisoner at Point Lookout, Maryland, during the war; papers pertaining to the purchase of "Glenmore"; papers concerning various Virginia estates such as "Edgehill" and "Glenmore" in Albemarle County, "Blenheim" in Caroline County, "Union Mills" in Fluvanna County, and "River Bend" in Spotsylvania County; an account book from the Charlottesville Grange; and genealogical and biographical information for the Magruder and allied families.

Biographical Sketches

Egbert Watson Magruder was born on October 25, 1868, in Albemarle County, Virginia, the son of Benjamin Henry and Anne Evalina (Norris) Magruder. After his early education in public and private schools, he entered Hampden-Sydney College in 1887, and received his B.A. degree in 1891. He completed courses in chemistry at the University of Virginia, and entered Johns Hopkins University in 1892, where he was assistant in the department of chemistry during his last two years. Afterwards, he received an appointment to the Mississippi College of Agriculture. For approximately fifteen years, until his resignation in 1915, Magruder was the Chief Chemist and Pure Food Expert of the State Department of Agriculture. During part of this time, he was also director of the Virginia Test Farm at Saxe, Charlotte County. In 1915, he accepted an offer to become the Chief Chemist of the F. S. Royster Guano Company of Norfolk, Virginia, where his duties included taking charge of all chemical laboratories, and performing analytical and investigation work.

On November 8, 1916, Magruder married the former Frances Byrd Alvey of Richmond, Virginia. Magruder was a member of the Board of Visitors of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia, the American Chemical Society, Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Virginia Academy of Science, and American Society of Agronomy, as well as being a member of the following clubs: Virginia Chemists' Club, Hampton Roads Chemists' Club (as one of the organizers and first president of each), the Kiwanis Club, Norfolk Country Club, and the Norfolk Town Club. In addition, he wrote numerous articles on agricultural chemistry and agriculture, including such topics as the manufacture and use of commercial fertilizer, the cultivation of wheat and tobacco, and food and food adulterations.

Magruder owned a farm of ca. 100 acres at Dry Bridge, Chesterfield County; he remained with the F. S. Royster Guano Company until his death in 1945.

Horatio "Rashe" Erskine Magruder was born on September 8, 1846 in Albemarle County, the son of Benjamin Henry and Maria Louisa (Minor) Magruder. He was educated in private country neighborhood schools before entering the Confederate Army at age seventeen in 1864. He served in the Rockbridge Artillery of Stonewall Jackson's old Brigade, and took part in the battles of The Wilderness and Spotsylvania Courthouse. He was captured, and imprisoned at Point Lookout, Maryland; after a lengthy illness in prison, he was exchanged, and returned to General Robert E. Lee's army in 1865 after his recuperation. He was in the retreat of the Confederate Army to Appomattox.

After the war, Magruder attended the University of Virginia, studying Latin, Modern Languages, and Mathematics. He returned to "Glenmore," the family home, where he formed a partnership with his father, and eventually took over management of the plantation. He was one of the most prominent farmers in Albemarle County.

Magruder married his cousin, Julia May Chewning, of "Island Home," Albemarle County, on December 12, 1894. He was a member of the vestry of Grace Episcopal Church in Cismont, the American Clan Gregor Society, and president of the Monticello Wine Company of Charlottesville and the Albemarle Mutual Fire Insurance Company. He died on January 19, 1924 at "Glenmore."

John Bowie Magruder was born on November 10, 1839, in Albemarle County, the eldest son of Benjamin Henry and Maria Louisa (Minor) Magruder. After graduating from the Albemarle Military Academy, he entered the University of Virginia, where he received his M.A. degree in 1860. In the spring of 1861, he took a special three-month military course at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, and then raised a company in Albemarle County known as the Rivanna Guards. As captain, he took the company to Richmond in June 1861 where they were mustered in with the 57th Regiment under Lewis A. Armistead. He was promoted to Colonel after the Battle of Fredericksburg on December 22, 1862. He was wounded during Pickett's Charge in the battle of Gettysburg July 3, 1863, and carried to a hospital near the battlefield where he died on July 5th.

SANDER, 1814-now, Germany>PA>TN
Peter Sander. Yes, Sander, not Sanders.

My SANDER line is traced back to Peter Sander. Nov. 1860 Pottsville PA)

1. John Robert Sander (3 Jan 1926 - Jul 1982)
m. Ruth Marie Dickins (24 Mar 1930 -)

Peter Sander's parents are claimed by some sources to have been French; possibly went to Prussia because of the French persecution of Protestants. On the other hand, a lot of Sander immigrants came from Germany.

The 1850 Census for Pottsville, PA, North West Ward, Roll 827, page 336, lines 16-20, says:

Peter Sander, 33 M, Boiler Maker, Germany
Elizabeth Sander, 22 F, Germany, cannot read or write English
George Sander, 3 M, Pennsylvania
Peter Sander, 2 M, Pennsylvania
Joseph Sander, 2/12 M, Pennsylvania

This is most likely my ancestor's census record. Based on previous data, Peter's age should have been 35 or 36; Elizabeth's age should have been 20 or 21; George's and Joseph's ages are just right. (These discrepancies are well within the normal tolerance in census reports.) My father did not know about Peter, so maybe he did not live to maturity. The report says Peter and Elizabeth were born in Germany; Prussia and Alsace were both at times part of Germany.

EVER SINCE the land has been under cultivation by white man, the hill just south of Jasper, in Section 35, known as Conrad Eokert's hill has produced the highest grade of fruits and vegetables, not because of the land itself but because those who lived there since the entry by Graham have been successful gardeners. — Vol. 2, p 357.

GEN. GRAHAM. THE "FARMERS' BANK" was the first bank in Dubois County. Its office was in what was then known as the "Stephenson Building"; later occupied by Dr. Huber, John Gramelepacher and the late Senator William A. Traylor. The bank existed in the decade of the fifties. In those days Fifth Street was the "Wall Street" of Jasper. John Gramelepacher is authority for the information that "we boys often gathered there, but I never saw any money. I think Dr. E. Stephenson was the cashier, and that General Graham was also connected with it, in some way.

Vol. 2, p 547.

JAMES A. GRAHAM. During the Mexican War, James A. Graham was the leader of the men who joined the Rockport company and came from Dubois County. Many Dubois County men went into Company E, of the 4th Regiment under command of Capt. John W. Crooks, for the Mexican War. A list appears on page 294 of Wilson's History. James McElwain was wounded in the foot, his leg was amputated, but he died in Mexico.

Vol. 2, p 381.

Edmonston was elected by more than fifty votes and Spurlock won McMahan's horse. Spurlock was indicted for gaming. His plea was guilty and he was fined $20 and cost. Dear Sirs;

I have been researching my ancestor Hampton Graham, who died in Marion County about 1847-48. I wrote to the county clerk and he tells me that the court house burned and they have no records.

Do you have any early history in your library, or is there a museum that had old records?

Does your county have a genealogy society or historical society? If so would send me an address. I am a member of the Green county society, and have found some good material, but since Hampton lived in Green county till Marion was formed they dont have any thing on death records. I am looking for cemetery records or whatever might help.

Please advise as to what is available.

Thank You

Doris McCord

Sir/Madam:

I have "family lore" only, and no record to prove that my third great grandparents, John Graham and his wife Mary Graham are buried in Marion County. He was born in Scotland or Ireland c. 1748 and died in 1798. His estate inventory was done 14 Oct 1798 in Washington County. Mary was born c. 1750, place unknown, and died in 1808. Her estate inventory was done 23 Sept 1808 in Washington County. I do not know if they were buried side by side, or separately.

My question. Is there any compilation of cemeteries and tombstone inscriptions for Marion County? If so, how might I locate the resting places of John and Mary, if they truly are buried in Marion County?

Any help, or suggestions, you might be able to give me, would be of greatly appreciated.

I enclose SASE for your use. Thank you for your time.
