R. Johnston, Miss Bessie Brewer and W. W. Rubel. The active pall bearers were Messrs. T. C. Jackson, J. M. Rains, G. T. Edelen, A. P. Carter, C. C. Spalding, R. L. Parnett, J. N. Wilson and Judge J. A. Burton. The honorary pall bearers were Dr. L. D. Knott, Judge J. P. Thompson, Messrs. J. M. Shreve, D. W. Edmonds, Dave Harding, A. Hourigan, Finley Shuck and R. E. Young.

To the Chairman and members of the Lebanon Kentucky Bar Association.

The undersigned committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Judge O. G. Kelly, a member of the Lebanon bar, respectfully reports the following:

The bar, the officers of court, the municipality of Lebanon, as well as the citizens of Marion county, all of whom for many years have been intimately associated with our friend Judge O. G. Kelly, in his capacity of Judge, mayor, and companion, appreciating him as a just and able officer, a kind and sincere friend, a benevolent, high minded and progressive citizen, beg leave to testify that we have suffered an irreparable loss in his death. To his wife, children and relatives, to whom he was always loving, kind, and loyal, we tender our heartfelt sympathy, and in their affliction call upon them to remember as a consolation that having lived the allotted span of life he passed away painlessly, full of years and honors, and left as a heritage an everlasting memory of his loving, kind and generous nature.

That a copy of these resolutions be published in the county newspapers, and also spread upon the records of the Marion Circuit Court.

WOODSON MAY CANDIDATE FOR I

The Somerset Times has the following concerning a gentleman who is well known in Lebanon and who has a host of friends in this section:

Hon. Woodson May, after being repeatedly importuned by his many friends from over the Eleventh Congressional District, has decided to become a candidate for Democratic State Central Committeeman, and we predict now that his friends will see to it that he is named for the position. In fact there is no opposition that we know of, and the probabilities are there will be none. Considering Mr. May's

STRICKEN WITH HEART ATTACK

End Is Sudden To Head Of Paper He Guided For Thirty Years.

FUNERAL HELD MONDAY

Sudden death took Oliver Gaither Kelly, 54 years old, for nearly thirty years owner and editor of The Enterprise, last Saturday afternoon about 4:15 o'clock, following a heart attack at his home on Walnut street. While he had not been in the best of health recently and for eight weeks had been confined to his home with heart trouble, unable to attend to his customary duties at the office, he was believed to be improving nicely. He was able to get up and about the house every day, and was sitting down when stricken with the fatal attack. When he spoke of feeling ill, a physician was quickly summoned and arrived a short time afterwards, but Mr. Kelly was already in a dying condition, and passed away about an hour later.

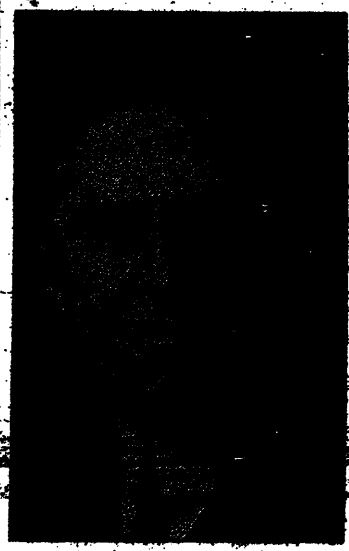

News of his unexpected passing came as a shock and grief to the entire community, for it is granted to few to be so widely known and so universally admired.

Mr. Kelly was the son of the late Judge Oliver C. Kelly and Mary Louise Stevenson Kelly. His father died on April 20, 1908, and his mother about four years ago. He began his career entering the publishing business he was Deputy County Clerk for a time, under A. P. Carter, now deceased. Later, he held a position as clerk in the local office of the roadmaster for the L. & N. Railroad Co.

Mr. Kelly purchased a half interest in The Enterprise while still a young man, with Thomas W. Mattingly, now deceased, as the other member of the firm. A few years later he bought his partner's interest, and since had been sole owner and publisher. He was a gifted newspaper writer and became widely known in press circles of the State. The Enterprise, in 1926, was adjudged by the Kentucky Press Association the best all-round weekly newspaper in the State. H. H.

OFFICERS ARE NAMED

A Marion County Taxpayers League is being organized. The first meeting having been held at the county home here on Saturday.

Mr. Rogers then addressed the assembly, pointing out the necessity for action on the part of the taxpayer people of the community to secure a reduction not only in city and county tax, which is urgent, on account of the depreciation in value of city and farm property, but also in Federal and State taxation, which have become equally burdensome.

Mr. Hardesty followed, with an outline of the plan of organization of the league, which consists of four committees and sixteen districts. The organization is to be entirely non-

HEART ATTACK

Warren has been associate publisher of the paper for a number of years.
In recent years Mr. Kelly also was assisted by his son, Oliver Kelly, Jr.

Mr. Kelly's work was a source of great pride, as well as of real pleasure to him; and that it was appreciated by the public he served so long and so well is evidenced by the tributes that are being spoken by men and women in all walks of life, rich and poor, old and young, black and white, all of whom called him—friend. He had no enemies. A man of high principle, he was fearless in stating his views; yet he always was ready to allow others the right to theirs and to give them the benefit of the doubt. He was utterly unable to stoop to anything mean or petty. His opinion was sought in weighty matters, and his convictions, to which he held unwaveringly, were respected.
He was the friend of every worthy cause in his town and county, and the sincerity of his support could be counted upon. It was as if he had dedicated his life and his talents to the welfare of the community, and in him was that happy blending of conservative thought and enthusiastic progressiveness which make for real accomplishment.

Quietly, for he was never one to put himself in the foreground, he of his space in these columns to whatever project needed his help to put it through. Further, his cheery disposition and genial manner, together with his rare ability to lay aside everything else and talk things over, no matter how busy he was, gave new courage to those who, in many cases, had the odds against him. His personal contacts drew him closer to the hearts of those he served.

He was devoted to his home and spent practically all of his spare time in the family circle, declining many offers of social, club and fraternal leadership, that he might have more time at home. He was a loyal, lifelong member of the Presbyterian church, actively interested in all of its work. At the time of his death he was a member of the board of deacons and was one of the church trustees. He served as a member of the building committee for the new United Presbyterian church, which was erected a few years ago; and in his church, as in his business life, he was one to whom his co-workers looked for counsel, knowing that his wholehearted cooperation would be given. He also was a Mason and a Knight Templar.

Mr. Kelly was the kind of citizen a town can ill afford to lose. He will be missed. In home, in office, in the church and the wide circle of his activity and influence, his place will be hard to fill. Stricken in his prime, his passing was so swift and the intervening time has been so short that a true realization of the loss established is scarcely possible for

OLIVER GAITHER KELLY
1878-1932

The community has lost one of its best citizens in the passing of Oliver Kelly. He supported every cause for the benefit of his town and county, and held firmly to his convictions, while granting freely to others the right to theirs. Though public-spirited, he cared not at all to be in the public eye, and passed by many opportunities to take part in public functions and club and social activities, in order to enjoy the quiet and comfort of the family circle, to which he was devoted. He contributed generously, however, of time and means, as well as through the columns of his newspaper, to all worthy causes, and never failed in the performance of his obligations. He took an especial interest in the work of his church, and his counsel there, as well as in public matters, was eagerly sought. He made many and lasting friendships and few if any enemies during the years of his journalistic career, and always had a hearty greeting for every one. No matter how busy he was, he always had time for a friendly chat. In fact, his ability in looking after the numerous duties of the editor was remarkable, in view of the time which must have been necessary for his contacts with the public. He was a splendid newspaper writer, able to tell the gist of any occurrence briefly and simply.
He was a true gentleman, unable to stoop to things unworthy, unwilling to take an unfair advantage. He will be missed most of all in the home, which he revered, and where he was loved and honored; but there also will be a void in the hearts of his associates in the community.

Death, inexorable and relentless, has again visited the vineyard of mortals and claimed my old friend and former associate, Oliver Gaither Kelly, for over a quarter of a century editor and publisher of this paper, who passed away Saturday afternoon at his home in Lebanon following a patient illness of two months. Thus as a friend and admirer of his, and as a word of consolation to his grief-stricken widow and two noble sons, the sad and solemn duty devolves upon me to offer a few words of imperfect tribute to his life and character. I know that in a time like this, no words of mine however fulsome they might be, can assuage the grief of those who loved him. In a letter to me only a few days before his death, he spoke optimistically of his condition, and expressed the hope that he would soon return to his desk in The Enterprise office. I had written him a letter consoling him and wishing him a speedy recovery, and was preparing to mail it, when I learned the shocking news of his

The immortal bard of Avon wrote, "When sorrows come, they come not single spies, but in battalion." So it seems my old "home" county has to the full, of late, vindicated the words of Shakespeare:

And now Oliver Gaither Kelly has passed on to his Valhalla.

Gracious, friendly, interested particularly in all matters, events and happenings pertaining to the trials, troubles and fortunes of its people in the past, as well as devoted to those of the present. Definite in his conclusions, kindly toward his associates, he possessed, in an eminent degree, that which (in this day and time) so many in his position and that of public men sadly lack—true mental and soul integrity.

It was his conception of The Enterprise that it existed for the purpose of carrying into actuality the high purpose of his public—namely, its creation to promote equality and justice to all.

It would be impossible, if it were appropriate at this time, to enumerate his many courtesies and kindly personal acts, but knowing him, did, now that he has gone, I can not refrain from referring to a recent and last personal letter I received from him, wherein he expressed the hope that I would submit certain articles, which would always be received with welcome and pleasure.

Such was his last greeting to me. I mention this instance to show the big-hearted character of the man, and I feel, I know, he received up yonder the same gracious welcome he extended down here. How we shall miss him! And his loved ones—language can not find words, nor painter portray or carver carve his loss to Gaul.

A prince once said of a king struck down:

He seemed in death
And the world holds grief for now as then,
It is after death that we measure man.

Oliver Kelly was a man, imbued with that sweet sentiment for his followers, which never during his long career as head of a medium of publication, permitted him to write or publish a line that brought pain to an overburdened soul or anguish to a single heart. Yes, I know he was imbued with that sentiment and his

Kelly, died on May 11, 1930, and another brother, Dr. Edward Kelly, died in August, 1928. Two sisters, Miss Bernice Kelly and Miss Louise Kelly, preceded them to the grave in comparatively recent years. A brother, Robert Lee Kelly, passed away many years ago. George E.
Kelly, this city, is a nephew, and Mrs.
George Curry of Columbus, Ohio, is a niece.

Funeral services were conducted at the home Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock by his pastor, Rev. G. Barrett Rich III, and burial was in Ryder cemetery. Pallbearers were: R. Y.
McElroy, Bowman Brewer, H. M.
Warren, Charles C. Boldrick, C. J.

New Home Is Completed.

Miss Grace Kirk, who has been occupying one of the Estes apartments, will move to her new home on Mulberry street, which has just been completed. The house is a log cabin, built of California pine, with log siding on the outside. The inside walls are of knotted white pine. It is a unique, as well as an attractive home, and is the first of its type to be erected in this section. The Boner Company held the contract for its construction, the carpenter work being under the supervision of J. R. Spahn.

Kelly, for over a quarter of a century
editor and publisher of this paper,
who passed away Saturday afternoon at his home in Lebanon following a prolonged illness of two months. Thus as a friend and admirer of his, and as a word of consolation to his grief-
stricken widow and two noble sons,
the sad and solemn duty devolves upon me to offer a few words—an imperfect tribute—to his life and character. I know that in a time like this, no words of mine however ful-
some they might be, can assuage the grief of those who loved him. In a letter to me only a few days before his death, he spoke optimistically of
his condition, and expressed the hope that he would soon return to his desk
in The Enterprise office. I had written him a letter consoling him
and wishing him a speedy recovery,
and was preparing to mail it, when I learned—the shocking news—of his passing away. The letter will not be sent.

Nature is said to be prodigal in her gifts; but in truth she is sparing in vouchsafing to the world the men of the mold of "Dick" Kelly, as he was familiarily known to his legion of friends. Like a rare gem that requires the trained eye of the lapidary to discern its purity, only a penetrating, discriminating mind and spirit, brought into close contact with him, could know his real worth. Some years ago it was my privilege for a time to be associated with him as an assistant in the office of The Enterprise, and during those years, which I have always counted as among the happiest of my life, I had ample opportunity to catch the glint of pure gold in his heart. Rather exclusive in his associations, and select in his friendships, he never sought popularity, and never played the role of the diplomat. He was too candid for hypocrisy, and too honest for deceit.
His quick intelligence and wide information; his optimistic and genial disposition made him a most delightful companion, and a hail fellow well met, among gentlemen, Impatient of shams and false pretensions, he might seem ascetic, but he was only candid. Cautious in placing confidences, he seldom lost his friendships. Big hearted and charitable, his hand was extended to lift up, he spoke kind words to hearten, and his loyalty to his friends, to his family and to his community was unfeigned.

Mr. Kelly had a passion for newspaper work, and he put his whole soul into it. He was every inch a newspaperman, and under his management The Enterprise has prospered immeasurably, until it gained the reputation a few years ago of being the best weekly newspaper in Kentucky.

"Dick" Kelly has passed to his reward, but the memory of his activities in the profession he loved, will live on. The Enterprise will continue to live and prosper, but it will never be the same paper to me received with welcome and pleasure.

Such was his last greeting to me. I mention this instance to show the big-
hearted character of the man, and I feel, I know, he received up yonder
the same gracious welcome he extended down here. How we shall miss him! And his loved ones—language can not find words, nor painter portray on canvas his loss to them.

A prince once said of a king struck
down:
"Taller he seemed in death."
And the world holds good, for now as then,
It is after death that we measure men.

Oliver Kelly was a man, imbued
with that sweet sentiment for his fellows, which never during his long career as head of a medium of publicity, permitted him to write or publish a line that brought pain to an overburdened soul or anguish to a single heart. Yes, I know he was imbued with that sentiment and his simple message to me in that respect is best expressed in the words of the poet, who must have had such a man in mind when he wrote:—

Let me live in a house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorners' seat Or hurl the Cynic's ban; Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Two years,

A year ago I wrote to you, trying to find a copy of a Lebanon newspaper item from the year 1919, but it turned out that 1919 was skipped in your microfilm of a Lebanon newspaper.

Now, I wonder if you would mind looking for an item from 1909, if that year is available in your microfilm.

HERNDON BROWNING KELLY, an officer of the Navy and native of Lebanon, appears to have been married on May 1, 1909, probably in the Far East and very likely in the Philippines. Lebanon appears to have continued as his legal residence at least until 1919, when he obtained a divorce in the court there.

The May 1, 1909, marriage may have been reported promptly in a newspaper in Lebanon, or, if the news was sent by letter, it may have been reported some weeks later. Does your microfilm cover 1909, and have you time to look through May for any mention of the marriage? If you do find it, I'd like to have a copy or a transcript of the article. I am willing to pay your usual search and copying fee.

If you do not have time to search, can you recommend someone who may be willing to do that work for me?

Very truly yours,

William A. Champlin

Dear Sirs:

Is it possible to find through your library any newspaper article about the divorce granted to Herndon B. Kelly on May 21, 1919, in Marion Circuit Court? I do not know the date of Mr. Kelly's plea for divorce. Mr. Kelly was a career officer of the Navy, born in Lebanon about 1883. He died about 1942 in Annapolis, Maryland.

If one or more articles is found, can you provide me with a copy of each?

I am willing to pay your search fee and copying fee.

If you do not ~~search~~, can you give me the name of someone there who may be willing to search?

If you do not have newspaper files or microfilm, can you recommend another source -- perhaps one or more Lebanon area newspapers still in existence?

Very truly yours,

Dear Ms. Parrott:

Thank's for sending the letter with the records of Kellys in Marion County. I had heard from a cousin that Jeremiah Kelly had gone to that part of Kentucky after serving in both the Union and Confederate armies. He might not have stayed long enough to get his name on any thing; or it might have been another part of the state.

Enclosed is a check for five dollars. If that is less than the amount you mentioned over the phone, please let me know.

Sincerely,

vocal cords. It was said that he could be heard in Springfield when he hollered for someone in the fields. He often helped honest, hard working people get ahead. Each year he took his farm hands and their families to the county fair and supplied picnic lunches for them.

In 1881, John married Lula Jane Smith, the daughter of Theresa Ann Mudd and James Smith. Lula was born July 29, 1861. Three of her sons married daughters of John and Prudence Simms. John, Richard and E.O. married Sara, Ann Jarboe (Blue Jay) and Catharine. One of John and Lula's grandsons, John Simms Kelly (Shipwreck) was an All American football player at the University of Kentucky. John and Lula lost their daughter-in-law, Blue Jay within minutes after Shipwreck was born.

Lula Kelly

The John W. Kelly family experienced a great tragedy on a beautiful day Aug. 6, 1924, when Lula and granddaughters Blue Jay and Ione, teenage daughters of John and Dan went for a buggy ride. Approaching a fork in the road, Lula asked the girls which fork shall we take? Ione pointed to the left fork. Lula promised to take that route after they stopped for a prayer visit at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, nearby, in Fredericksburg. Later as they were crossing the bridge over the Big Beach at Fredericksburg, the horse, Old Pete, panicked when he saw a hole in the bridge and started moving backward. Quickly, Lula and Blue Jay jumped out of the buggy, but Ione was frozen in place from fear. Lula holding a wheel with all her strength tried to get to Ione and rescue her, but, she got caught between the wheels and was dragged off the bridge as the buggy and horse tumbled 30 feet into the river. Blue Jay ran to the home of Sam Nally, nearby and summoned aid. In the river Grandmother turned to Ione and said, "It wasn't your fault". That was the last word that Ione heard her say. At the Nally home Lula received the sacrament of the living before she died. From there, she was removed to Forest Home to await burial. Ione was taken to Springfield where Dr. Mudd treated her crushed right ankle. Lula was noted for her hospitality, cheerful nature, and charming personality. Her husband, John had died 20 years earlier on Aug. 16, 1904 at Forest home.

In 1896 about 50 men from Washington County were chosen as outstanding citizens, and a biographical sketch of each was published. The following is quoted from the Springfield News Leader; "John W. Kelly, Director in the First National Bank and stock breeder was born in Washington Co., KY. He was educated in the public schools of the county and at St. Joseph's College, Perry Co., OH. Mr. Kelly has been an active farmer all his life and resides upon his large 700 acre of fine improved land. He has been successful breeder of blooded horses, racers, and saddle animals. He was owner of the celebrated saddle stallion Blood Chief, which was sold to Col. Elliot Houtcheons, of Nelson County, who afterward sold him to a Boston gentleman for $3,500. Blood Chief is said to be the handsomest horse in the world. Mr. Kelly has been a director of the First National Bank about 20 years, is a director of the Washington County Fair Association, and has been actively identified with the Association for 25 years. He is a prominent Roman Catholic."

For 207 years an old majestic oak tree, spread its branches out over the front yard at prominent Forest Home. John and Lula enjoyed its shade as did his grandparents (the pioneers). In 1985 after it was killed by lightning Powell Boone had it cut down. It had a diameter of seven feet. Submitted by Col. Arthur L. Kelly, USA Ret.

LOUIS G. KELLY, a member of the fourth generation of Kelly's in Kentucky, Louis Gonzaga Kelly was born in the Kelly Forest Home in Washington County on Nov. 5, 1888. He was the son of Lula Jane and John W. Kelly and the grandson of Rebecca Elena Riney and Daniel Kelly. Louis was 14 when his father died in Forest Home. During the World War I era, Louis and Dick Kelly were land speculators and mule traders. They owned land in Marion, Nelson and Washington County. His brother and closest friend Dick died of cancer in 1922 at age 36.

The first time he saw Mary Arthur Cecil, daughter of Mary Joseph Filiatreau and James Arthur Cecil, walking by across the street in Springfield, Louis told a friend, "I'm going to marry that beautiful lady". On Jan. 30, 1921, they were married at St. Rose. He was 33 and she was 19. She was considered one of the prettiest girls in the county. Mary Arthur never saw her father, Arthur Cecil. He died in 1902 three months after he married, from pneumonia. Mary Arthur's great-grandfather Nazarie Filiatreau (born March 20, 1809,) came to Kentucky from Canada.

Louis G. Kelly and Mary A. Kelly, 1920.

Louis and Mary Arthur had seven children: Mary Jane, John William, Arthur Lancaster, Rucker, Sara Elizabeth, Patricia, and Eleanor Rita. All except Libby were born in Forest Home. The great depression took its toll and in 1932 Louis lost the farm that had been in the family for five generations. However, by a partnership arrangement he was able to buy it back and eventually get full ownership.

The farming operation was diversified and labor intense. They raised sheep, hogs, beef cattle, dairy cows, horses, mules and chickens. Crops consisted of tobacco, corn, barley, wheat, rye, and hay. Before tractors, it took three large families, the Kellys and two tenant farmers, to get the job done. Parents and children worked six days a week. On major tasks like thrashing, the neighbors pitched in with extra wagons and hands. It was hard work but also a great social event. Neighbor relationships were close and meaningful.

Louis and Mary Arthur were devout Catholics. Their deep faith gave them strength and it comforted them through out their lives. Living by the golden rule coupled with their social skills made an encounter with them up-lifting. The now older generation who knew them still talk about the value of having known them. Mostly their recreation was visiting neighbors and kinfolks. Louis loved to dance and did so throughout his life. He was noted for his dancing skills.

In 1944 to get the children closer to school and to liquidate most of the remaining debt on the home place, they decided to sell it and buy a smaller farm on the Lincoln Park Road about two miles north of Springfield. Albert Rucker bought the 234 acre Kelly farm for $18,000.00. Forest Home had been home to five generations of Kellys and when Louis thought about that he regretted selling it. On the day they moved, Rucker Kelly noted that the move occurred on the 100th anniversary of the death of John Kelly, the pioneer.

In 1959 after forming a partnership with their son John W. They moved to 405 West Main St. in Springfield. Louis was a thin, fragile looking man. However, he made a daily trip to the farms and at 82 years of age his sons had to strain to keep up with him as he walked over the farms. On Feb. 16, 1971, while walking home from a visit with his son-in-law, P.S. Barber, at Barber Cabinet Company a pick-up truck nudged him hard enough to knock him down. Son John and John Albert Kelly took him to the doctor. He was treated and released, but in the quiet of the night, he died. He left a legacy to all of being able to see beauty in nature and the good in human kind. Two years later Mary Arthur suffered a heart attack and on April 17, 1973 she joined her husband, leaving a legacy of being loved by all who knew her. Submitted by Col. Arthur L. Kelly

COLONEL ARTHUR LANCASTER KELLY, USA RET., son of Mary Arthur Cecil and Louis G. Kelly and grandson of Lula Jane Smith and John William Kelly, and Mary Jo Filiatreau and Arthur Cecil, was born in Washington Co., KY, Aug. 7, 1925. He married Ollie Lee Hays (born March 1, 1928) in Cincinnati on Nov. 25, 1948. Their children: Sara Anne (born Oct. 21, 1949) died as an infant; Sue Anne Ballard, Sara's twin is a quality control manager at Fort Smith AK, Arthur Daniel (Dan) born (Aug. 29, 1950) is an attorney in Springfield KY. Deborah Jane Krautter (born Oct. 17, 1954 at Fort Sill) works for the University of KY, Steven Hays (born July 25, 1959 in Stuttgart, Germany) is a chemical engineer living in Charlotte, NC and Krista Lee (born Feb. 20, 1962 at Fort Sill) is a nurse working in Lexington KY.

Col. Kelly is a veteran of WW II, Korea and Vietnam. While serving as a Forward Observer with the 623rd Field Artillery Battalion in Korea, Lieutenant Kelly returning alone to C Battery from the Forward observation post entered no man's land and became pinned down by machine gunfire and mortar fire. He thought he would never see his family in Springfield again and no one would ever find him.

Col. Arthur Kelly, USA Ret. and Jane Phillips Kelly

At Fort Sill, OK in 1964, he co-authored an article on retrograde operations which became required reading at the Command and General Staff College. In Vietnam, while serving as an Artillery Battalion Commander with the 1st Cavalry Division and shortly after his article "Defense Of A Landing Zone" was published, his landing zone came under attack. Using the technical techniques described in the article massive volumes of fires were delivered so fast that the attacking force withdrew in panic leaving ammunition and equipment behind. The article was recently quoted in The Artillery magazine. In 1968 at Aberdeen, MD, he did a paper on "Application of Combat Power During Air-Mobile Operations" which received wide spread acclaim. Major General George Putnam, a former 1st Cavalry Division commander said, "There is no doubt that if we had had such a system then, our ability to inflict extensive damage on the enemy would have been incredible." In 1974, for the manner in which he dealt with student unrest while serving as the head of the Military Science Department during campus unrest before and following the Kent State Incident, Morehead State University awarded him an honorary Doctor of Law Degree.

In July 1974 at Fort Knox, a great tragedy struck the Kelly family. After complaining about a headache for a couple of weeks, Ollie Lee suffered a cerebral hemorrhage from an aneurysm. Within two hours she slipped into a coma and on Aug. 1, 1974 she died. She is buried at Saint Rose.

After holding every rank in the army up to Colonel and serving 30 years on active duty, Col. Kelly retired Aug. 31, 1976. His awards and decorations include: three Legion of Merit medals; a Bronze Star Medal for Valor with Oak Leaf Cluster; A Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry; and 23 campaign, meritorious, and service medals. He graduated with honors from the University of Nebraska at Omaha and from three of his military courses (finishing first in two of them). He is a Phi Beta Kappa.

On March 14, 1977 he married Jane Phillips Ray (born Feb. 24, 1933 in Lewisburg, KY) daughter of Laurine Shemwell and Zelma Phillips. Jane's first husband, Bobbie Ray, died from cardiac arrest in 1969. She has two children from that marriage: Susan Dickinson (born Nov. 1, 1955) is a school teacher living in Danville, KY and Sally Ray (born June 24, 1961), who is finishing her Ph. D. Jane presently directs the allied health programs, for the Office of Vocational Education, Department of Education in Frankfort. Submitted by Col. Aethur L. Kelly, USA Ret.

DAN KELLY FAMILY, Arthur Daniel Kelly was born in Springfield, Washington Co., KY, on Aug. 29, 1950. Five generations of ancestors had either been born or died in Washington County, or nearby Nelson County. In 1952 Dan's father, Arthur L. Kelly, who was employed with a local lumber yard and a member of the local National Guard, was activated to Korea and the family began its military career traveling to many different Army posts in the U.S. and Europe. Dan's mother, Ollie Lee Hays, often headed the family while Arthur was on military duty. In 1966 they returned to Springfield for one year while Arthur served in Vietnam. Dan attended St. Joe Prep. in Bardstown with the last class to graduate from that school. In 1968 Dan enrolled in the Army R.O.T.C. Program at Texas A & M University where he graduated with a B.S. degree in Zoology and was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant. At Fort Sam Houston, TX, he was converted to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, in which he has served in various leadership roles including many years as Bishop of the local congregation in Lebanon, KY. In April 1974, Dan was transferred to Ft. Knox, KY. This was probably the first time someone joined the Army and moved home. Dan's father and mother were also stationed at Ft. Knox. This pleasant reunion was soon marred by the tragedy of Ollie's unexpected death from a cerebral aneurysm on Aug. 11, 1974. Dan was at home alone with his mother when the tragedy struck. His father retired from the military shortly thereafter. It was at Ft. Knox that Dan met Darlene Marie Druen. They were married for time and all eternity at the Washington D.C. Temple on May 3, 1975. Their first son, Josiah Daniel, was born at Ft. Knox on Feb. 8, 1976. Dan fondly recalls the advice of his grandfather, Louis G. Kelly, who told him, "There's lots of pretty girls in Texas, but when you get ready to get married come home and find a Kentucky girl". Dan is glad he followed his grandfather's advice.

In his last year on active duty in the Army, Dan enrolled in the U. of L. law school night program, from which he graduated with honors in 1979. In Law School he served on the Family Law Review staff and was a member of the Brandies Honor Society. He also worked as a legal clerk for Jefferson County Planning Commission and served in the U.S. Army Reserve. Shortly after graduation, the family, which by then included Louis Duncan (born Dec. 20, 1977), Guy David (born July 22, 1979) and their daughter, Ollie Kristine (born May 8, 1981), returned to Springfield where Dan practices law with his uncle, John W. Kelly, and his aunt Mathilda C. Kelly. Their fifth child, Stephen Lancaster, was born on May 19, 1983. Dan has remained active in the U.S. Army Reserve, serving as a Major in the 100th Division. He was also an instructor in business law at St. Catharine College.

In 1988 Darlene enrolled in St. Catharine College to obtain a Teaching Certificate. She will graduate from Campbellsville College in 1991. The family is active in many local activities including service in Local Government, the Library, Boy Scouts, 4-H and various community and church activities. The family often sings together at local events such as the "Home for Christmas" program.

In 1989 Dan ventured into local politics by running for County Attorney on the Republican ticket. He lost the race in a close contest. In the following year, he ran as the Republican candidate for State Senator in the heavily Democratic 14th District and won, carrying four of the five counties by a large vote margin.

Having traveled widely with the military it is easier to recognize how wonderful a community Washington County is in which to live and raise a family. Submitted by Dan Kelly

OLLIE LEE HAYS KELLY, Ollie Lee's father, Joseph Edison Hays, was the only son of a hard working, prosperous farming couple, Joseph Neale and Ollie Williams Hays. Joseph Neal's family of six children was happy and close-knit. When Joseph Neal was bitten by a rabid dog, Ollie Williams desperately tried to suck the poisoned blood from her husband's wound. A healing rock was laid on the wound but Joseph Neal had second thoughts about relying on this rock and decided to undergo the recently developed shots for rabies. Bravely he made the trip to Chicago and endured many weeks separation from his family. Then it was decided Ollie Williams, too, should have the treatment. Upon returning to their farm, the couple found many of their cattle had died of rabies. The family drew together, thankful that they were all well and together.

Joseph Neal and Ollie Williams moved to Bloomfield, KY in May 1920. After serving in the Navy for the duration of World War I, their son, Joseph Edison returned to the farm as his father wished and remained on the family property.

Christmas time 1924, Edison married Christine Dodson, the young pretty daughter of Bertha Lee and William Lindsey Dodson. She had a sister, Louise, and two brothers, William Hickman and Donald. Donald died tragically (age 17 years) in an automobile accident. Like Edison, Christine's parents were of a prosperous farming background. Edison and Christine managed a 180 acre farm and raised two children, Ollie Lee (born March 1, 1928) and Joe Edison (born May 24, 1934.)

Ollie Lee's first school was a one-room, seven month school at Mt. Zion, so she would spend a remaining three months in school at Bloomfield, staying with her Hays grandparents. Three years of high school were spent in Chaplin; the last year in Bloomfield. An excellent student, Ollie graduated at 16. She attended the University of Kentucky, was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, and graduated with a degree in Home Economics.

Ollie Lee met her husband-to-be while he was attempting to steal peas from her father's garden. Edison had been bragging that he would have peas sooner than anyone else, so his nephew Billy Taylor conspired, with Arthur Kelly's help to raid the garden and confound Edison's plan. The boys were caught and in the ensuing ruckus, Ollie met Arthur. A year later, after Ollie's college graduation, Arthur Lancaster Kelly and Ollie Lee Hays were married in Cincinnati, Thanksgiving, 1948.

They took an apartment in Springfield where Arthur worked for Kelly Lumber Company and became parents of twin girls, Sue Anne and Sarah Anne, October 1949 but little Sarah survived only a few days. The following year Arthur Daniel was born.

With the outbreak of the Korean War, Arthur moved towards an Army career and Ollie became the mother of five children and an officer's wife ("the hardest job in the Army"). Debra Jane, was born at Ft. Sill, OK. Steven Hays was born in Germany. Krista Lee was born back at Ft. Sill.

Ollie spent her 25 years of marriage moving dozens of times, living in numerous states and overseas in every imaginable kind of housing. The family also traveled and camped during vacations seeing much of Europe and the United States.

Through it all, Ollie made every dwelling a warm and loving home. Her children learned through her to adapt to all situations. She was an adept hostess and led a busy Army social life, known for her good humor, warm manner and devotion to her family.

One evening after their guests had left, Col. Kelly stepped out to visit neighbors. Ollie suffered a severe aneurysm. By chance her son Lt. Arthur Daniel had stopped by. Ollie was rushed to the hospital; her children summoned. A week later, Aug. 1, 1974, Ollie was buried.

Her family, friends and relatives miss her still. Her children know the world is different without her loving presence.

ELEANOR RITA KELLY AND JAMES ROBERT BOONE'S FAMILY HISTORY, Eleanor Rita Kelly, youngest of seven children and better know as "Baby Rita" is the daughter of Louis Gonzaga Kelly and Mary Arthur Cecil Kelly. She was born in the Kelly Forest Home on Aug. 29, 1936 - feet first, with one tooth and a broken arm. Two of her older brothers Arthur and John, had decided that they did not want another girl in the family, especially a little red headed one that's what they got and they have loved her ever since.

JOHN AND MARGARET KELLY, were the first members of our family to come to America from Ireland. John Kelly was born in 1773 and Margaret, her maiden name is unknown, in 1770. We think they may have married in approximately 1795 at Saintfield Parish in the town of Patrick Down in Ulster Province. John's mother was a Polin. Of this union ten children were born; the first, Margaret, was born March 1, 1796, and died that same year; the second, Daniel, was born May 24, 1798, and passing away Feb. 23, 1865, at the age of 66; the third, Edward, was born May 24, 1800, passing away June 22, 1801; the fourth, Margaret, was born Oct. 28, 1802, dying April 10, 1830, at age 28; the fifth, Catherine, was born Sept. 4, 1804, dying Aug. 15, 1866, at the age of 61; the sixth Ann (Nancy), was born April 9, 1807, passing away Jan. 1852, at the age of 44. It appears, though it is not certain, that another daughter, the seventh child, was born in 1809, named Nancy, who passed away in 1829 at age 20. The eighth child, Mary, was born April 9, 1811, passing away Feb. 9, 1863, at age 51; the ninth child, Edward, was born April 9, 1813, and dying May 14, 1830, at age 17, the last child, Neil was born Feb. 1816, dying that same month.

Family tradition holds that John and Margaret left for America in the spring of 1798. John and Margaret were people of means when they arrived. As both were young it is unlikely that either had substantial independent property. John's father probably gave him his inheritance upon departure.

Tradition has it that their first son, Daniel, was born at sea in the spring of 1798 and that the family debarked at Baltimore.

Nothing is known of their route to Kentucky or their traveling companions, but Wilderness Road down the Great Valley of Virginia and through the Cumberland Gap to Louisville through Danville, Springfield and Bardstown was the most popular route, literally awash with immigrants. It would have been the safest and simplest route. The second son, Edward, died in June 1801, perhaps on the journey.

In 1806 they purchased their first homestead in Washington County when John acquires a 103 acre tract near what is now Lincoln Park. The grantor was listed as Mordecai Lincoln but the actual owner appears to have been Josiah Lincoln, his brother, who probably held a title bond. A large log house was located on the farm at the time, probably built by Josiah Lincoln at the time of his marriage to Catherine Barlow in 1802. This house may have been built with the help of Thomas Lincoln, a carpenter, and the Berry brothers who were professional contractors. The purchase price was 120 pounds sterling or about $600.00. John would continue to expand his farm holdings for the next 38 years.

In March 1841, he petitioned the County Court to procession his land. That is to have the land surveyed by the County Surveyor and the boundaries fixed by a jury, a useful process in the era before fences when boundaries rested on notched trees or the memories of neighbors. The result was something rare for that era, a plat revealing precise boundaries and corners and showing a total of 570 continuous acres in his home tract.

Among the ten children of John and Margaret Kelly, five lived to be adults. Margaret married Dominic Maguire in 1827 and, appears to have had no children. Catherine married John Ellery in 1841 and appears to have had no children. Mary married Nicholas Polin in 1832, they had one child, Margaret Ellen Polin, born 1834, seven months after her father died. Tragedy struck that family again in 1852 when Margaret Ellen passed away at age 18 in the great cholera epidemic of that year. Edward Kelly the eighth child, lived only to be 17 and did not marry. He died, probably of tuberculosis, at 45, after a protracted illness. He was married on June 15, 1831 and for the next 11 children. He was the first parishoner at the founding of St. Rose in 1808, he is buried just outside the church door. His epitaph reads "John Kelly, native of County Down, Ireland, who departed this life July 10, 1844, in the 71st year of his age, born 1773, he was a faithful husband and father, regarded by all as an honest and upright Christian. His works have gone before him." Submitted by Col. Arthur Kelly

DANIEL KELLY (1798-1865), tradition holds that the only surviving son of John and Margaret Kelly was born on the ship sailing to America when the family fled County Down, Ireland. He was reared on the plantation "Forest Home" with his sisters: Catherine, Nancy and Mary.

At age 33, in June 1831 when he married Rebecca Riney (1808-1889) he owned a large farm and a thriving distillery which produced and shipped barrels of bourbon. After 1844 the bottled bourbon became famous under the label "Old Dandy Kelly". One of Rebecca R. Kelly's ancestors, Christopher Springer served in the Swedish Royal court; his son when a student in England was kidnapped and shipped to Virginia Colony as an indentured servant where he was treated no better than an animal. After five years he made his way to a Swedish Settlement on Delaware River and from there his son, Charles Springer III, served as 2nd Lieutenant in Revolutionary War. A daughter, Rebecca, married William Ridge, also a patriot, and in 1786 they moved from Maryland to Washington Co., KY. Their daughter, Edith Ridge, married William Riney and had Rebecca, our subject's wife.

Daniel and Rebecca Riney Kelly

Eleven children were born to this couple; however, a baby daughter died in 1851. The household was ravaged in September 1852 when cholera claimed three of the children: Amanda, Julia Ann and Daniel who were buried in the ancestral grave plot of John and Margaret Kelly at St. Rose. Another child, James, died in 1853 at age 17.

The surviving children married and left descendants. Margaret married Richard F. Parrott (seven children); John W. married Lula Jane Smith (five sons); Edward D. married Sallie Hamilton (eight children); Francis married Mary E. Lyddane (six children); Mary married Thomas McShane (five children); Cornelius married Cecelia Hamilton (five children). See Biographical Sketches.

In February 1865, two months before the end of the devastating Civil War, Daniel died unexpectedly leaving no will. Two sons, John W. and Francis labored four years to partition among the heirs the nearly 1000 acres, free the 30 slaves, collect outstanding notes and liquidate inventory from the distillery. The widow, Rebecca, remained in her home and received her dower and along with two Negro servants to care for her. Tragedy continued to stalk this valiant, intrepid woman. When she was but ten years she lost her mother and with her sister and four brothers went to live with Benedict Wathen family. In 1851-52-53 she buried five of her beloved children. In April 1889 when she was seriously ill and 85 years old, her home burned to the ground; neighbors laid her on the ground to wait for her son, John W. to carry her to "Forest Home". April 23, 1889 she prepared her will and June 29 died; her children buried her along side her husband at St. Rose. Submitted by Marithelma D. Kelly

EUGENE O. KELLY, SR. AND KATHARINE SIMMS KELLY, E.O. Kelly, Sr., born 1893, died 1970, was the last of the five sons born to John W. Kelly and Lula Jane (Smith) Kelly, daughter of James and Theresa (Mudd) Smith. He was educated at St. Joseph College in Bardstown and from there enrolled in St. Mary's College in Kansas. Before WWI he received a baseball scholarship to Mount St. Mary's College in Baltimore, MD. The war brought him home to handle the affairs of his widowed mother.

In 1918 he married Katharine Simms, daughter of James and Prudence (Mattingly) Simms. She was educated at St. Catharine Academy where she excelled in needlework and china painting. Her grandchildren treasure many examples of her handiwork.

Eugene O. Kelly, Sr. Katharine Simms Kelly

The young couple established themselves at the ancestral SIMMS home head where their three surviving children were born. E.O. Jr., born 1919, an alumnus of University of Kentucky and WWII Air Force veteran married in 1948 Marithelma Downs of Bardstown, a writer, historian and preservationist. They have four children: E.O. III, Adalynn Hall, Ellen Whalen and Kinkad Kelly.

The second son, John Howard G. born 1922, a Navy Lieutenant, pharmacist and owner of Kelly's Drug Store married in 1949, Mary Elizabeth Ward of Lebanon. They are parents of ten children: John H.G. Jr., David, Martina, Katharine, Elizabeth, Michael, John Martin, John Francis, Madelon and Mary Ione Kelly.

The only daughter, Martina, born 1930, died 1981, married in 1959, Thomas J. Madden and had one child, Carlyle Kelly Madden.

Eugene O. Kelly, Sr. a knowledgeable tobacco farmer, survived the bleak depression years of the 1930's with his tobacco and hog production. In 1956 the couple retired and moved to Springfield. In that same year their son, E.O. Jr., bought an interest in the family home "Simms town" and moved his family there. They completed a restoration of the 1842 "brick mansion house" which had been in the family since 1868. There E.O. Kelly, Jr. his wife and children promoted the hospitality for which the homeplace had been known for almost 150 years.

Eugene O., Sr. and Katharine Simms Kelly (1897-1976) are buried in the family plot at St. Rose along side their daughter, Martina Kelly Madden.

JOHN W. KELLY, son of Rebecca Riney and Daniel Kelly, grandson of Margaret and John Kelly, the pioneers, was born in the Kelly Forest Home on Oct. 13, 1833. His children John W., Daniel A., Richard E., Louis G., and Eugene (E.O.) were also born there as were all except one of his grandchildren in the Louisville Kelly family. Forest Home is located on the farm presently owned by Powell and Joyce Boone, north of Springfield at the end of the Joe Mudd Lane off the Lincoln Park Road. John was a tall, stern, dignified man. Lula Kelly

The John W. Kelly family experienced a great tragedy on a beautiful day Aug. 6, 1924, when Lula and granddaughters Blue Jay and Ione, teenage daughters of John and Dan went for a buggy ride. Approaching a fork in the road, Lula asked the girls which fork shall we take? Ione pointed to the left fork. Lula promised to take that route after they stopped for a prayer visit at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, nearby, in Fredericksburg. Later as they were crossing the bridge over the Big Beach at Fredericksburg, the horse, Old Pete, panicked when he saw a hole in the bridge and started moving backward. Quickly, Lula and Blue Jay jumped out of the buggy, but Ione was frozen in place from fear. Lula holding a wheel with all her strength tried to get to Lona and rescue her, but, she got caught between the wheels and was dragged off the bridge as the buggy and horse tumbled 30 feet into the river. Blue Jay ran to the home of Sam Nally, nearby and summoned aid. In the river Grandmother turned to Ione and said, "It wasn't your fault". That was the last word that Ione heard her say. At the Nally home Lula received the sacrament of the living before she died. From there, she was removed to Forest Home to await burial. Ione was taken to Springfield where Dr. Mudd treated her crushed right ankle. Lula was noted for her hospitality, cheerful nature, and charming personality. Her husband, John had died 20 years earlier on Aug. 16, 1904 at Forest home.

In 1896 about 50 men from Washington County were chosen as outstanding citizens, and a biographical sketch of each was published. The following is quoted from the Springfield News Leader; "John W. Kelly, Director in the First National Bank and stock breeder was born in Washington Co., KY. He was educated in the public schools of the county and at St. Joseph's College, Perry Co., OH. Mr. Kelly has been an active farmer all his life and resides upon his large 700 acre of fine improved land. He has been successful breeder of blooded horses, racers, and saddle animals. He was owner of the celebrated saddle stallion Blood Chief, which was sold to Col. Elliot Houtcheons, of Nelson County, who afterward sold him to a Boston gentleman for $3,500. Blood Chief is said to be the handsomest horse in the world. Mr. Kelly has been a director of the First National Bank about 20 years, is a director of the Washington father died in Forest Home. During the World War I era, Louis and Dick Kelly were land speculators and mule traders. They owned land in Marion, Nelson and Washington County. His brother and closest friend Dick died of cancer in 1922 at age 36.

The first time he saw Mary Arthur Cecil, daughter of Mary Joseph Filiatreau and James Arthur Cecil, walking by across the street in Springfield, Louis told a friend, "I'm going to marry that beautiful lady". On Jan. 30, 1921, they were married at St. Rose. He was 33 and she was 19. She was considered one of the prettiest girls in the county. Mary Arthur never saw her father, Arthur Cecil. He died in 1902 three months after he married, from pneumonia. Mary Arthur's great-grandfather Nazarie Filiatreau (born March 20, 1809,) came to Kentucky from Canada.

Louis and Mary Arthur had seven children: Mary Jane, John William, Arthur Lancaster, Rucker, Sara Elizabeth, Patricia, and Eleanor Rita. All except Libby were born in Forest Home. The great depression took its toll and in 1932 Louis lost the farm that had been in the family for five generations. However, by a partnership arrangement he was able to buy it back and eventually get full ownership.

The farming operation was diversified and labor intense. They raised sheep, hogs, beef cattle, dairy cows, horses, mules and chickens. Crops consisted of tobacco, corn, barley, wheat, rye, and hay. Before tractors, it took three large families, the Kellys and two tenant farmers, to get the job done. Parents and children worked six days a week. On major tasks like thrashing, the neighbors pitched in with extra wagons and hands. It was hard work but also a great social event. Neighbor relationships were close and meaningful.

Louis and Mary Arthur were devout Catholics. Their deep faith gave them strength and it comforted them through out their lives. Living by the golden rule coupled with their social skills made an encounter with them up-lifting. The now older generation who knew them still talk about the value of having known them. Mostly their recreation was visiting neighbors and kinfolks. Louis loved to dance and did so throughout his life. He was noted for his dancing skills.

nudged him and enough to take him to the doctor. John and John Albert Ellery took him to the doctor. He was treated and released, but in the quiet of the night, he died. He left a legacy to all of being able to see beauty in nature and the good in human kind. Two years later Mary Arthur suffered a heart attack and on April 17, 1973 she joined her husband, leaving a legacy of being loved by all who knew her. Submitted by Col. Arthur L. Kelly

COLONEL ARTHUR LANCASTER KELLY, USA RET., son of Mary Arthur Cecil and Louis G. Kelly and grandson of Lula Jane Smith and John William Kelly, and Mary Jo Filiatreau and Arthur Cecil, was born in Washington Co., KY, Aug. 7, 1925. He married Ollie Lee Hays (born March 1, 1928) in Cincinnati on Nov. 25, 1948. Their children: Sara Anne (born Oct. 21, 1949) died as an infant; Sue Anne Ballard, Sara's twin is a quality control manager at Fort Smith AK, Arthur Daniel (Dan) born (Aug. 29, 1950) is an attorney in Springfield KY. Deborah Jane Krautter (born Oct. 17, 1954 at Fort Sill) works for the University of KY, Steven Hays (born July 25, 1959 in Stuttgart, Germany) is a chemical engineer living in Charlotte, NC and Khrista Lee (born Feb. 20, 1962 at Fort Sill) is a nurse working in Lexington KY.

Col. Kelly is a veteran of WW II, Korea and Vietnam. While serving as a Forward Observer with the 623rd Field Artillery Battalion in Korea, Lieutenant Kelly returning alone to C Battery from the Forward observation post entered no man's land and became pinned down by machine gunfire and mortar fire. He thought he would never see his family in Springfield again and no one would ever find him.

Col. Arthur Kelly, USA Ret. and Jane Phillips Kelly.

At Fort Sill, OK in 1964, he co-authored an article on retrograde operations which became required reading at the Command and General Staff College. In Vietnam, while serving as an Artillery Battalion Commander with the 1st Cavalry Division and shortly after his article "Defense Of A Landing Zone" was published, his landing zone came under attack. Using the technical techniques described in the article massive volumes of fires were delivered so fast that the attacking force withdrew in panic leaving ammunition and equipment behind. The article was recently quoted in The Artillery magazine. In 1968 at

DIES IN SLEEP EARLY SUNDAY

Second Heart Attack Fatal To Bank President, Civic Leader

FUNERAL HELD TUESDAY

George Edelen Kelly, Sr., 63, president of the Citizens National Bank and long a leader in civic and church affairs of the community, died unexpectedly about 4:30 a.m. Sunday at Mary Immaculate Hospital where he had been under medical care since suffering a heart attack at his residence on September 1.

His death, attributed to a second attack, occurred while he was sleeping and came as a shock to his family and friends. His response to treatment since he was admitted to the hospital had been highly encouraging and his condition gave every indication that he was recovering normally.
For several days he had been permitted to sit up at intervals in a chair in his room and he was expected to be able to return to his home shortly.

A hospital attendant said she went to his room early Sunday to inquire about him after she had heard him cough. When he failed to answer, she investigated and found he had succumbed.

Banker Since 1921

Mr. Kelly had been president of the Citizens Bank since 1948. His father was a farmer and died in June, 1921. In 1922 he joined the board of directors of the bank and was made cashier in 1923. He elected president in 1948. He was C. J. Edmonds, who had been an insurance agent in the city with Mrs. Grace Edmonds.

Showers Help Condition Soil For Autumn Seeding Of Cover Crops

The first rain of any extensive benefit since early summer fell on parched Marion County this week, and although it came too late to help most crops and gardens it put welcome moisture in the sun-baked ground.

The showers, which began about 3:30 a.m. Monday, were accompanied by a wind and electrical storm of threatening intensity. However, a superficial survey indicates that damage was negligible in rural areas and that the primary effect there was the interruption of telephone service at some 70 homes for a period of 24 to 48 hours. In most instances, repairs were completed Tuesday.

circuit clerk's office is that of Leonard Wilson, Casey County, who asks $10,688 from the defendant, Preston Maupin, Lebanon, as the result of an automobile-truck collision near here last November.

Couple Claims $8,700

Another highway accident—this one on the Campbellville Highway last March—is the basis of a damage claim brought by C. W. Bridgewater and Mrs. Elizabeth Bridgewater against the Rev. Malcolm Willoughby of St. Catharine. The Bridgewaters, whose address was not listed on their petition, seek a judgment of $8,700.

Criminal cases slated for hearing at the fall term of court include those of Cleaver Stumph, Lebanon, charged with selling alcoholic beverages without a license; Harlan Harmon, accused of assault and battery, and James Wright and George Rinehart, charged with grand larceny in connection with the disappearance last March of about 14 tons of fertilizer from the Lebanon Southern States warehouse.

Court will open at 9 a.m. Monday with empaneling of a grand jury. Petit jurors will report at the same hour Wednesday.

when the attempted extra point again failed.

This was forgotten a few minutes later, however, when the Saints launched another scoring drive—this one for 46 yards—which ended with Peterson smashing over from the six. Mattingly again took to the air in an attempt to convert and this time hit C. L. Nalley in the end zone for the Tigers' 19th point.

The final t.d. came with just 23 seconds remaining on the clock.

Reviewing the clash early this week, Coach Marshall praised the defensive play of Halfback Yewell Lucas and Tackle Mark Abell, and the offensive efforts of Mattingly, Peterson and Fullback Dave Corbett.

The Tigers played hosts last night on Johnston Field to St. Joseph of Bardstown in a game that still was in progress at presstime.

was chosen to the Board of Elders some eight years ago and was serving in that capacity at the time of his death.

School Board Member 17 Years

He was a member of the City Board of Education for 17 years. Taking office January 1, 1931, he served continuously until January 13, 1948, when, at his request, he was granted permission to withdraw. The press of other business prompted his resignation.

Admitted to membership in the local Rotary Club in May, 1932, he served as president in 1943-44. He had also been a director on several occasions and had headed various committees. As evidence of his enthusiasm for the club's program, he missed only 17 meetings during his 22½-year Rotary affiliation.

Active In Many Organizations

Connected with the Masonic Order for many years, he was a Knight Templar, a member of Marion Commandery No. 24. He also was active in the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce, Lebanon Country Club and many other business, service, and social groups.

Few if any could challenge Mr. Kelly's record as treasurer of various community campaigns and organizations. He had served as treasurer of the local Boy Scouts, Crippled Children Society, Presbyterian Bible Class, Banker-Agricultural Fund, Cancer Society, Heart Fund and numerous others. As a figure in the daily life of Lebanon, he was a symbol of integrity and sincerity.

Was Graduate Engineer

A native of Lebanon, he was born February 27, 1891, a son of the late Albert and Minnie Edelen Kelly. Upon completing his elementary schooling here he entered Bingham Military Academy, Asheville, N. C., where he was graduated in 1910. Four years later he received his degree from the University of Kentucky College of Engineering, and accepted a position with the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company in Pittsburgh where he served as a member of its engineering research and testing staff.

Called home in 1916 by the illness of his father, he resigned his post with Westinghouse and assumed management of the Lebanon Light, Ice & Power Company. Following the dissolution of the latter utility, he began his career as a local banker.

Wife, Three Children Survive

In a ceremony performed at the old Second Presbyterian Church here on April 6, 1921, he was united in marriage to Miss Frances Durham, who survives him. Also surviving are a son, George E. Kelly, Jr., Owensboro, and two daughters, Mrs. Albert N. Wells, Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Robert Pumpelly, Louisville, and three grandchildren, David Wells, Sue Ann Kelly and George E. Kelly III.

Funeral services, conducted by the Rev. James W. Gann, assisted by Dr. Olof Anderson, Jr., of St. Matthews, were held at the United Presbyterian Church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial was in Ryder Cemetery.

because the Bears obligingly fumbled again three days later, Mattingly recovered and the Cookmen were off to the races.

Four first-half fumbles by Tompkinsville, all recovered by the ball-hawking Jacks, enabled Lebanon to control most of the action throughout the first two periods. The Bears' only threat in the first half died at the L.H.S. 30 late in the opening period when Raphael O'Daniel pounced on the first of the visitors' bobbles.

After a scoreless third period in which neither team came closer than 20 yards to pay dirt, both eleven suddenly began kicking offensively and rang up three touchdowns in the final eight minutes of action.

Jackets Increase Lead

Tompkinsville started from its 11-yard line on the third play of the fourth quarter and Callahan punted the ball back 40 yards to the Monroe Cougars' 30. With slanted off tackle, the visitors' fullback, Matt Mattingly, broke through the line and ran 40 yards for a first down. Mattingly picked up five yards, and Owen again launched his winged end for a first down. Mattingly ran up half the distance in two plays, and Fowler on a keep, and over from the line on third down. Mattingly's attempted plunge for an extra point was stopped short, and the score was 13-0.

The Bears' back swifter, Matt Mattingly, recovered the fumble to six points. Humble brought the Jacks back to the Tompkinsville 17. # RAYWICK WOMAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Annie B. Kelly, 84, Expires At Local Infirmary Friday.

Mrs. Annie Belle Kelly, 84-year-old resident of Raywick and mother of former County Clerk John J. Kelly, died last Friday evening about 11:45 o'clock at The Baute Infirmary where she had been under treatment for nearly ten weeks. Her passing was attributed to diabetes and a complication of other troubles not uncommon to one of her advanced age.

Members of her family, long accustomed to her unusual stamina and agility, noted a definite decline in her health last February. However, her condition did not become alarming until early June when she fell at her residence. Since then she had been confined to her home, most of the time to bed. Upon her removal to the local hospital, an examination disclosed the diabetic condition with which she was suffering and slight hope was offered for her recovery.

Schooled At Loretto.

Mrs. Kelly was born in the Raywick vicinity on September 30, 1856, a daughter of the late John and Margaret Wright Lamkin. She attended Loretto Academy, which was then a school for young people, and shortly after completing her education was united in marriage to George Kelly, a farmer of the western part of the county. Following his sudden death in April 1917, she disposed of the family farm, and moved to Raywick where she and her daughter, Miss Ethel Kelly, have since made their home. She was widely known and admired throughout the community and

The work plan set up by the Conservation Committee, calls primarily for erosion and water control through such activities as the construction of diversion ditches to prevent the soil on sloping land from being washed away, terracing certain fields for similar purposes and the digging of ponds to avoid water shortages in dry weather.

Program Cooperative One.

Mr. Jesse emphasized that the program, throughout, is a cooperative one—that the individual farmer is never compelled to adopt the suggestions of the conservation officials but is merely shown the value of the proposals and is offered assistance in carrying them to full fruition.

Application blanks are available at the conservation office, he said. He

FARM OF A. O. HOUTS SOLD FOR $5,102.50

The eighty-five-acre farm of the late A. O. Houts, which was offered at public auction by Dan C. Houts Wednesday morning on the premises on the Barbour Mill Pike five miles from this city, was purchased by Clarence Harmon for $5,102.50.

Mr. Harmon is said to have deeded the property to his son, Miller Harmon, and his son-in-law, Ray Crews, and according to report Mr. Crews and family will move to the farm when possession is given on January 1, 1942. Improvements on the place include a six-room residence, two barns, a crib and smokehouse.

Thieves Steal Lambs.

Eighteen lambs, some purebred Southdowns, and all of them ready for market, were stolen from the farm of E. J. Harmon on the Barbour's Mill Pike Saturday evening by thieves who apparently came fully prepared for the job. Mr. Harmon states that there was evidence that the lambs had been penned in a corral of a field by a place of wire
